WOMEN MOBS ATTACK GERMAN FACTORY

REAL JUSTICE IN REPARATIONS, PLEA OF LLOYD GEORGE

PATIENCE, RATHER THAN VENGEANCE, URGED BY BRITON.

FOR HUGHES PLAN

Friendly Audience Hears Little Welshman in Big Chicago Stock Pavilion.

BY STEPHEN HOLLES.

Chicago, Ill.—The first thing that impresses one listening to Lloyd George is that he speaks English as we do in Janesville. One word only makes one for a moment think he has been imported from Boston—when he says France, he says "Frawnce." That is all. To hear him you might be thinking he was from Ohio, the hills of Posey county, Indiana, or from the state of Magnus Johnson. As I sat in the audience variously estimated from 8,500 to 12,000 persons in the auditorium at 43rd and Halstead street last night and noted the friendliness of the crowd to the heavy set, gray, shock-headed man on the platform, speaking from manuscript, breaking away occasionally from the text, the impression of something of the tremendous greatness of the nation in which we live was carved more deeply on the mind. Tier on tier of humanity rose from the crowded floor. When Lloyd George indicated that he hoped to reach as many people as possible within the limitations of the human voice someone from the far rear gallery shouted that he could hear perfectly way down there.

"That is a great comfort," replied Mr. George. "It looks as though you were at the other side of the continent."

Could Hear Distinctly.

So there was a good feeling established. With the amplifiers no one in all that vast audience was unable to hear distinctly. It was as though you sat only a few feet away from the speaker. Mr. George is not an imposing person. He is under height, has a face usually ruddy, that was slightly pale from weariness. He came to make eight speeches in America and up to last night had made 32. And he was unable to stand the pace. In fact it was 5 o'clock last evening before it was definitely settled that he would speak at all. He did not appear at the dinner of the publishers as scheduled. In his place came two of his companions and secretaries, one speaking in a language which we have associated with Lord Dundreadry since "way back when," the other, Sir William Sutherland with wit and humor marking his brief address.

A Great Audience.

It was a magnificent setting at the pavilion at the stock yards where Lloyd George spoke. Magnificent because it was an American audience and that is enough of a setting for anyone who has a message.

There were few gestures—the chief

Apologetic Woman Writes Check to Cover Overdraft

It really happened.

According to Harry Haggart, president of the First National bank of Janesville, a notice was sent to a woman who had carelessly over-drawn her account in a bank.

"We received a letter from the lady stating that she was sorry she had over-drawn her account and, that she was inclosing her check to cover the amount," he said.

BATTLE OVER WOMAN'S BODY

Oshkosh—An argument at a local undertaking establishment as to the disposal of the remains of Mrs. Nina Treichel, who died here Sunday, became so heated that Thomas Young of Omro, father of the deceased, was arrested on a charge of assault and battery, preferred by Henry Treichel, husband of the dead woman. The funeral was held Wednesday afternoon. Mr. Young pleaded not guilty in court and a further hearing will be held Oct. 30. It is said the two men had different ideas as to where the deceased should be buried and finally came to blows.

With Winter Approaching

There is a splendid opportunity for selling furs and clothing.

A little Want Ad—with plenty of description inserted in the Gazette will bring good results.

Mrs. Blank inserted the following ad in the Want Ad page for two days.

FOR SALE—Lady's seal plush coat, fur trimmed, with muff to match. $10. Phone ——

She had three interested callers and the coat was sold. Best of all, the ad cost her only 59c. Figure the clear profit.

If you have good used clothing you would like to sell, remember — the market is open.

CALL 2500

Mary Brown will help you word your offer into an effective ad.

HAS TRAVELED 170,000 MILES IN P. O. SERVICE

H. A. PALMER

H. A. Palmer retires Monday after 20 years' service as a rural carrier out of the Janesville postoffice, and makes a few suggestions for the good of the service. It is estimated that he has gone 170,000 miles by horse and auto—but most of it with horse.

PLAN TO CHANGE "Y" CONSTITUTION

Wisconsin Man Presents New Federation Plan; Bryan at Convention.

Cleveland — Additional plans of federation were ready for presentation today to the constitutional convention of the Y. M. C. A. here.

The first, which provides for the creation of an international council of not more than 300 members and for an independent judiciary, was presented by Judson G. Rosebush, president of the Patton Paper company of Appleton, Wis., yesterday. No less than 10 proposed constitutions will be submitted.

William Jennings Bryan was among those who attended today's sessions. He arrived here late yesterday and plans to leave this afternoon.

"I'm just attending because I'm interested in the work and I'll have a chance to meet many friends," he said.

Attack Big Rock Tomb of Miners

Bingham, Utah—For 36 hours, six crews, working in relays, have been striving to penetrate the mammoth pile of rock and mine timbers which has entombed and probably killed four workmen and the superintendent of the Utah-Apex Metal mine. No trace of the men has been found and mine officials say it will be a miracle if the entombed miners are taken out alive. The body of Foreman Dan Eden, nearest to the level when the cave-in occurred, was recovered yesterday.

WETS INJURE LAW AGENT

Minneapolis — Every available prohibition enforcement agent here was ordered to New Munich, Minn., today following receipt of reports of a fight between liquor law violators and enforcement agents in which one of the federal men suffered a fractural skull. The injured man is A. L. Whitney, special prohibition agent attached to the Minneapolis office, who, according to meager advices received here, was hurt when he, with several other agents, sought to prevent a gang of men from stealing a quantity of beer which was seized when federal agents raided a brewery at New Munich Monday night.

MISSING BOAT SAFE IN PORT

Superior—Overdue 22 hours, the steamer Frontenac of the Cleveland-Cliffs fleet steamed into Superior harbor at 5 p. m. Wednesday. Fear had been expressed that a mishap had befallen the steamer. Captain P. E. Murray, veteran skipper, said the boat was held up in Thunder Bay, due to heavy smoke from forest fires, a low fog and a severe rain storm.

DRY ATTACK OPENS IN N. Y.

New York—United States Attorney Hayward today filed 54 injunction and common nuisance suits in federal court, under the Volstead act, to close alleged wet saloons, cafes, restaurants and cabarets in this city. The names of the places were not available this morning as the complaints in the various cases had not been filed. The evidence on which the suits were based was obtained by Assistant U. S. Attorney John Holley Clark.

CHRISTIAN EDUCATION FOR MORAL ILLS, PLEA OF BAPTIST SPEAKER

La Crosse—Ku Klux Klan excesses, flapperism, bootlegging and all other moral ills can be cured finally by Christian education alone, the Rev. W. E. Chalmers, D.D., told the Baptist state convention here today.

America is summoning the Sunday school to measure up to its job for good citizenship.

The secretary's report showed that the Roundy memorial fund has aided 68 churches in building projects in 14 years.

Idaho Chinese, Miners for 60 Years, See Rail Train for First Time

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]

Lewiston, Ida.—Although each has reached the age of 77 years, the first time Mah Yung and Pun Loi ever saw a railroad train was yesterday, when they boarded it at the town of Greer, 50 miles east of here, in coming to this city on the first leg of the journey to their native city, Canton, China.

For 60 years the aged Chinese had been at the mining camp of Pierre City, 35 miles from Greer, the railroad point, and this is the first time since entering the camp they had caught a glimpse of the outside world.

Until two years ago they were engaged in placer mining, their age forcing retirement at that time. At one time there were 800 Chinese in Pierre City. Now, after the departure of Mah Yung and Pun Loi, but two remain.

When heading for Pierre City in the gold rush days, the Chinese walked the distance from Portland, Ore., almost 500 miles.

COURT ASKED TO CLOSE UP PLACE IN SO. JANESVILLE

District Attorney S. G. Dunwiddie on Thursday filed papers in the Rock county circuit court seeking an injunction to close one of the two places in South Janesville on the allegation that it was a "common and public nuisance."

Charged as Nuisance

The proceedings were brought against O. J. Dietz, stated to own the building, a frame structure, at one time carrying the sign of being a sanatorium, H. R. Blay, said to have a land contract on the property, and Roy Stoddard, tenant. Under the provision of the National prohibition law, a district attorney can bring action in the name of the government against owners and keepers of public nuisances. Granted a permanent injunction from the court, the nuisance is closed up for a period of one year for all purposes so that no revenue can be obtained for the property as long as the injunction is applied.

Liquor Kept and Sold

The complaint set forth that several affidavits have been obtained charging that intoxicating liquor has been sold and kept for sale at the alleged resort. The case of Charles Schaffner, convicted of possession in both Beloit and Janesville is made a part of the record. It is alleged that on Oct. 1, 1922, there was a sale to Laura Zbleski. A temporary injunction is requested for violation of the Volstead laws. Under the terms of the law the building shall not be occupied for one year after the judgment is obtained in the event the restraining order is granted.

Invoke Injunction Law

This is the first time the injunction feature of the prohibition laws has been applied to close up the South Janesville resorts. For many years the two buildings at the railroad center have figured notoriously in the criminal court records of the county. The success with which different occupants of the resorts have flourished despite raids, arrests and trials, has even been a subject of county board action without results.

The injunction application will be considered by Judge George Grimm at the first opportunity. Judge Grimm is now holding court in Jefferson and is due to open the Green county term at Monroe next week.

GOVERNORS INJURED IN AUTO UPSET

Colfax, Ind.—Governors Charles R. Mabey of Utah and J. M. Dixon of Montana and their wives were slightly injured when their automobile overturned. They were able to proceed to West Baden for the annual conference of governors, to which they were enroute.

SEE OPTIMISM IN NORTHWEST

Washington—Reports of a more favorable turn in the agricultural situation in the northwest were presented to President Coolidge today by Julius H. Barnes, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, and Leon Shaw, editor of the Billings, Mont., Gazette.

VOTE TO SELL TEMPLE

Oshkosh — The Masonic organizations here have approved the proposed sale of the present Masonic temple to Julius Kline of Eaton, Pa., who plans to establish a dry-goods store there.

SOCIETY SUFFERING GROWING PAINS, IS GANFIELD DIAGNOSIS

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]

Eau Claire — Society is suffering from growing pains, according to Dr. W. A. Ganfield, president of Carroll college, Waukesha, Wis., speaking before the Northwestern Teachers association here today.

"The world just now is running faster in the development of material resources than in the knowledge of how to use them," said the educator. "We are making a more swift pace in mechanical invention than we are in social organization.

"The next step will be an attempt of the human mind to define and create right social attitudes, correct social organizations, harmonious, contented, prosperous social groups and human societies."

STATE WITNESSES OPEN TESTIMONY IN ECKMAN TRIAL

PROSECUTION BELIEVED BASED LARGELY ON WIDOW'S STORY.

COURT CROWDED

Climax Expected Thursday When Mrs. Fritz May Take Stand.

Preliminary testimony in the state's case against Adolph Eckman, Sharon farmer, charged with the murder of Carl Fritz, Johnstown farmer, at the Eckman farm July 16, 1923, now on trial in the Walworth county circuit court here, occupied the morning session Thursday.

Nine witnesses testified for the state. From the details into which the state went Thursday morning concerning the views one would have sitting in the automobile in the Eckman yard, as Mrs. Fritz did on the day of the shooting, it is believed the prosecution depends almost entirely upon the story of Fritz' widow to obtain conviction.

Pictures of the Eckman house taken from the car as it stood on the day of the murder, were introduced in evidence.

Word that the jury had been completed Wednesday afternoon brought the largest crowd Thursday that has been in attendance at the trial. They crowded into the small court room, occupied every available seat and stood at the sides, and surged forward in the middle aisle. Many sat through the dinner hour in order to hear the afternoon's testimony.

Attired in deep mourning, Mrs. Fritz sat with Mr. Fritz' sister, Mrs. Sandquist, on the platform back of District Attorney Alfred Godfrey and Attorney J. W. Page, Elkhorn, who is assisting in the prosecution. Mention of details of her husband's death brought tears to her eyes.

At times she covered her eyes with her handkerchief. Seated behind her in the audience was Mrs. Eckman, wife of the defendant. Eckman, showing no signs of nervousness, talked with his counsel, M. C. Mouat, Janesville, and Charles Sumner, Delavan.

Climax on Thursday.

It is expected the climax of the state's case will come Thursday afternoon, when Mrs. Fritz may take the stand and tell her version of the shooting. It will be her story against that which will be told by Mr. and Mrs. Eckman, Oscar Johnson, Eckman's partner, and Aenor Carlson. The state probably will close its testimony Friday and there is a possibility that the jury will have the case by late Saturday. Many witnesses, however, are to be called by the defense.

Testifying for the state Thursday morning were: George W. Posey, Elkhorn; Miss Rella Moss, Whitewater photographer; Gus Johnson, Williams Bay; Edward Huber, Sharon; Mrs. Ida Larson, Fairfield; Sheriff Hal Wylie, Elkhorn; E. C. Woodford, Darien; L. R. Lackey, Delavan, and Dr. Elmer Hoffman, Sharon.

Threat Is Told.

"If Fritz ever comes on this place again, I will shoot him," was the statement made by Adolph Eckman at his home Oct. 30, 1922, according to the testimony of Mrs. Ida Larson, Fairfield. On cross examination, Attorney Sumner sought to bring out that the statement followed one that there had been a quarrel over the gun and Fritz had been forbidden to visit the Eckman home. The one statement was all Mrs. Larson could remember hearing.

Feeling Is Indicated

Apparently with the intention of showing the feeling which Eckman held toward Fritz, Ed Huber, chairman of Sharon township, said Eckman told him that "that darn Carl Fritz came around and took the boy away." The statement was made, Huber said, at the public sale held at the farm which Eckman had rented to Ed Peterson. The witness said Eckman told him the reason Peterson hadn't been successful on the farm was that Carl Fritz got him to stay out late and he, Peterson, didn't attend to business.

Gus Johnson, Williams Bay, an uncle of Mrs. Esther Fritz, said he talked with the Eckmans at Delavan, June 1, and at that time they showed an unfriendly feeling toward Carl Fritz.

Photograph Identified

George W. Posey, Elkhorn, continuing his testimony when court opened at 9:30, identified the photograph of the Eckman house as having been taken from the car in the position Mrs. Fritz said it was the day of the murder. Sheriff Hal Wylie and E. C. Woodford gave corroborative testimony. The state seeks to show that the back porch, where the shooting took place, was visible from the car.

L. R. Lackey, Delavan undertaker, testified concerning conditions as he found them at the home the day of the murder. He said he asked Mrs. Fritz what had happened and she said, "My husband was shot." He said he then asked who by. "This man," was her reply, looking at Eckman, Lackey said.

Died From Hemorrhage

Dr. Elmer Hoffman, Sharon, said that Fritz died from a hemorrhage resulting from a gun-shot wound. Asked where he saw blood on the ground, he said: "All around the body." On cross-examination, Attorney Mouat asked him if at the preliminary examination he had not testified that there was blood all around the steps of the porch, but he said he did not remember that he had so testified.

Miss Rella Moss, Whitewater photographer, was called to identify photographs taken at the Eckman farm. The defense, however, admitted them as being pictures of the Eckman farm taken from the car.

The jury finally chosen contains nine men, mostly farmers, and three women.

The jurors are:

Mrs. Anna Valley, Anthony Vogt, Mrs. F. W. Moeser, all of Lyons; Henry Ward, Troy Center; Paul Gavin, Ralph Wilson, both of Linn township; Mrs. E. Mayhew, Spring Prairie; Albert Dennis, East Troy; George White, Sugar Creek; Harold Douglas, Lake Geneva; Fred Vaughn, Spring Prairie, and O. Zaspel, Honey Creek.

Lines of Attack

Lines of attack under which the state will attempt to obtain conviction and the defense, the acquittal, were outlined by District Attorney Alfred L. Godfrey and Attorney M. C. Mouat, after the jury

SHE PLANS TO MARRY AN AMERICAN HUSBAND

Clara Dux.

Clara Dux is single. But the famous lyric soprano of the Chicago Opera company says she doesn't want to be. She has just returned to the U. S. from a season abroad. And she says: "I want an American husband, because they always give a woman everything she wants. They spoil her, oh, so beautifully." So some U. S. gentleman is going to get snared.

Beriboned Turks Must Throw Away All Old Baubles

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]

Constantinople — Beriboned officials and former officials are perturbed by an order from Angora throwing all the old baubles into the discard. The order applies to all decorations conferred by former Turkish governments, whether worn by Turks or by foreigners. The only medal authorized by the Kemalist administration and the only Turkish decoration that will be recognized hereafter is the "Order of Independence."

RACINE WINNER OF DRUM CORPS PRIZE

Takes $1,000 Award for Best in Legion Contest; Bands Decided Today.

BULLETIN.

San Francisco—Opposition to the recognition of soviet Russia and the demand for annual registration in all the United States formed the high lights of the American Legion's Americanism committee report, submitted to the conference today.

San Francisco.—The $1,000 American Legion prize and trophy for the best drum and bugle corps entered in the organization's annual convention parade, Tuesday, was awarded to Racine, Wis., late yesterday. Miami, Fla., was second, and Pasadena, Cal., third.

Announcement will be made today of the winners in the band contests. The bands, which have been competing during the last two days for the $1,000 cash prize and numerous trophies are:

The Monahan Post band, Sioux City, Ia., last year's prize winner at New Orleans; the Kansas Department band of Wichita, Kan., Beaver Dam, Wis.; Denver, Colo.; The Old Gray Mare band of Brownwood, Texas; and the Zane-Irwin Post band, San Francisco.

An amendment to the constitution of the United States, to give congress power concurrent with that of all the states to limit and prohibit the labor for hire of children under 15 years of age, was recommended by the child labor committee of the American Legion here today in a report.

STORE LOST IN NIGHT FIRE

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Delavan—Fire Wednesday night totally destroyed the East Delavan General Merchandise store, of which Claude Brown is the proprietor. Two reports of an explosion in the store were heard and the building was thickly enveloped in flames. The destruction of the store was completed so quickly that nothing was saved. The building was owned by the George Kirchner estate.

DOCTOR IS UP BEFORE JURY

White Plains, N. Y.—Dr. W. J. Meyer, who attended Mrs. Gertrude Gorman Webb before her death, was the first witness Thursday before the grand jury. Charles Webb, the husband, also appeared in the witness room.

GOVERNOR'S FACE SHARP ACTION ON DRY ENFORCEMENT

West Baden, Ind. — Prohibition enforcement by invigorated action on the part of federal government was the overshadowing question today before the annual governors' conference, as preparations were being made by a group of the state executives to issue a "memorial to the people of the United States," suggesting a national drive for literal inforcement of the Volstead act.

While the address was being drafted by Governors Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania and William E. Sweet of Colorado, supporters of the move were aligning the conference field for a record test on the enforcement issue, and there were indications that, when the governors meet President Coolidge in Washington Saturday, an accepted program of re-organized federal activities would be presented.

Governor Baxter of Maine said, before an informal gathering of several governors today, that "the time has passed when vague declarations for law enforcement or law and order may be regarded as a statement of public policy by government officials."

The prohibition issue was thrust into the conference at the opening session last night by Governor Cary A. Hardee of Florida, who declared, in his response to the welcome of Governor Warren T. McCray of Indiana, that "the activities of the wet minority have created a vexatious problem for this gathering."

GRIMM SENTENCES LIQUOR VIOLATORS

Winkler, Watertown, Handed Stiff Punishment; One Divorce Granted.

Jefferson—Byron Milbury, Fort Atkinson, was granted a divorce by Judge George Grimm, Wednesday afternoon, in circuit court, from Evangeline Milbury, on the grounds of cruel and inhuman treatment. They have been separated since July.

Walter Tripke, Watertown, charged with selling intoxicating liquor, entered a plea of guilty last week and was given two months and $200 fine. If he cannot pay the fine, he will get four months additional, in jail.

J. R. C. Winkler, Watertown, guilty on five of seven counts of liquor violation, including former conviction, sale of liquor, two on having it in his possession, and maintaining a nuisance, was sentenced to eight months in jail and $1,000 fine. If he cannot pay the fine he will be given 12 months additional.

The case of J. E. Gillispie, Watertown, against Joseph A. Heineman, Chicago, a damage suit, is being tried today.

The court will adjourn this afternoon until January.

DOCTOR IS UP BEFORE JURY

White Plains, N. Y.—Dr. W. J. Meyer, who attended Mrs. Gertrude Gorman Webb before her death, was the first witness Thursday before the grand jury. Charles Webb, the husband, also appeared in the witness room.

EDISON IS AGAINST HIS FRIEND, FORD, IN PRESIDENCY CONTEST

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]

New York—Thomas A. Edison, electrical wizard, in one of the first interviews he has granted newspapermen, spoke on Wednesday of the presidential possibilities of his friend Henry Ford and declared that it would "spoil a good man" if the nation sent Ford to the White House.

Mr. Edison expressed the opinion that the automobile manufacturer was more valuable to the nation as a private citizen and then turned to the prediction made recently by Charles P. Steinmetz, inventor, connected with the General Electric company, that electricity eventually would reduce the working day to four hours. With this opinion, Mr. Edison agreed.

Mr. Edison, however, was not sure that the four hour day would be a good thing for the nation. He expressed fear that too large a leisure class would be created and that this would have a bad effect, particularly on the young.

RIVER TORRENTS STILL THREATEN OKLAHOMA TOWNS

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Oklahoma City, Okla. —Flood water of the North and South Canadian rivers, which met last night at the junction of the two rivers just below Eufaula, Okla., today was rushing toward Vian, where they will pour into the Arkansas, itself barely below flood stage. The water was receding today at Eufaula, and at the Henrietta water works. A check revealed no reported loss of life and damage being largely confined to highways and railroad property. Thousands of acres of farm lands were still under water today.

At Henrietta, the city water works, threatened with destruction last night, was believed to have withstood the force of the waters.

In Oklahoma City, where the water of the North Canadian had receded several feet, work of rehabilitation was being pushed.

Only 240 refugees remained today dependent on relief organizations here. Search for the bodies of six persons, reported drowned, continued today. Two bodies have been recovered.

BLAINE WON'T ATTEND MEET

Washington.—Thirty-two state governors have accepted President Coolidge's invitation to attend the conference here Saturday on law enforcement.

Ten governors, including Blaine of Wisconsin, have informed the president that they will be unable to attend. Governor Walton of Oklahoma will be represented by Assistant Attorney General King.

Governors who will attend include Groesbeck of Michigan and Preus of Minnesota.

RUSH REPORT ON WALTON

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]

Oklahoma City, Okla.—The investigation committee of the house of Oklahoma today was rushing to completion a report of its inquiry into the official conduct of Governor J. C. Walton, scheduled to be presented to the house tomorrow.

With its submission the fight between the friends and enemies of the executive will be brought into the open and the question determined whether impeachment charges shall be filed before the senate.

The house did not meet today and the senate was to hold only a brief session.

FORMER DIPLOMAT TESTIFIES AGAINST MRS. HELEN STOKES

New York—Horace G. Knowles, formerly in the diplomatic service of the United States in Rumania, Bulgaria, Bolivia and Peru, today testified at the re-trial of W. E. D. Stokes' suit for divorce from his wife, Mrs. Helen Elwood Stokes, that he had seen Mrs. Stokes in 1914 on the stairs leading to the apartment of Edgar T. Wallace, correspondent. Clarence A. Smith, process server, and Charles Murphy, deputy sheriff told of having made frequent and unsuccessful visits to the tea room in the house where Wallace had his apartment in an attempt to serve a subpoena on Mrs. Mary McNulty, head waitress of the tea room.

FINDS COW AND NEW FAMILY ON R. R. TRACK

Oshkosh—Safety rules, being emphasized by the Eastern Wisconsin Electric company, saved the life of a cow and her new-born calf on the Oshkosh-Fond du Lac interurban line. The motorman of a car at night observed cattle on the track. Proceeding with caution, he found a white cow of the herd of Assemblyman Lamb, Fond du Lac county, on the right of way. Stopping his car, he found the animal had just been visited by the stork.

Berlin Is Prepared to Rush Troops; Many Killed in Mannheim Rioting.

BULLETIN

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Berlin — The government of Saxony, having ignored the ultimatum of General Von Mueller, commander of the Reichswehr in that state, expiring at 11 a. m. today, the general sent a second letter to Premier Zeigner, saying:

"As you have not thought it fit to answer my letter I beg to inform you that I have preferred the affair to the minister."

Geisbenkirchen—A mob of women attacked and badly damaged the administration building of Mannesman Iron works today. The assault was in protest against non-payment of wages due the women's husbands. The women also raided food shops and afterward visited nearby farms, searching for food, in one instance seizing a peasant's cow, pigs and chickens.

TREPARE TO RUSH TROOPS AS SAXONY THREATENS

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Berlin—The frequency of rioting in Saxony and the defiant stand taken by the socialist-communist ministry at Dresden are causing much concern here that the central government is prepared to send additional troops into Saxony should the situation require them.

The Saxon diet last night rejected a motion of lack of confidence in the government by a vote of 48 to 45.

FAVORS DRIVE TO REDUCE TAX LOAD

Senator Borah Wants Move at Next Session of U. S. Congress.

New York — Senator William E. Borah, of Idaho, here for conferences in connection with prospective coal legislation, today issued a statement favoring a drive at the coming session of congress to reduce the nation's tax burden.

"I am very much in favor of tax reduction at this session of congress," he said. "We cannot act too speedily so long as we act with information and intelligence. If the fearful tax burden now being carried can be relieved, as Senator Smoot, who is as well advised as any one declares to the extent of $500,000,000, let us do so as soon as possible.

"The view expressed by Senator Smoot that the man of small income should be favored, is good news also.

"I hope that the new chairman, Senator Smoot, with his usual industry and ability, will urge his program and urge it at this session. If we do not begin an active campaign for reductions, we will likely drift into a program of increasing the taxes. There will be plenty of plans to increase the burden. The best way to meet them, is by an active program to reduce. Reduce and reduce now."

Senator Borah made it clear that his statement did not refer to the general tax reduction program being proposed by Secretary of the Treasury Mellon.

MAN JAILED AS AIRPLANE THIEF

Los Angeles—The city jail housed its first alleged airplane thief today when Paul Sparks, aviator, was booked on a charge of stealing a flying machine from a local air port. According to the police, Sparks stole the plane and flew it to Yuma, Ariz., where he was arrested.

WHEN YOU WERE—

When you were a child and had to go to Sunday School you were irked because the learning of the bible texts and scriptural lessons was forced upon you. You declared that when you grew up you would throw all this aside. But the bible and the story of religion is intensely interesting if one gets the right early viewpoint. That is why the Gazette is printing each week in the Saturday and Sunday Gazette the Sunday school lessons by William Southern. He has accomplished a great work in making the stories of the bible and the great teachings appealing to every reader. This is one more feature of the Daily Gazette that makes it welcomed in every home.

COUNTY BANKERS PLEDGE SUPPORT

To Establishing of Livestock Agent for Rock County Under Farm Bureau.

Members of the Rock County Bankers' association meeting in the Grand hotel Wednesday night, voted financial support, if necessary, for the office of a county livestock agent to work under the direction of the Farm Bureau. The bankers evidenced a desire to participate in the building program to increase agricultural revenue in Rock county.

There were 83 present, the meeting and banquet being one of the best held recently by the county association, having a membership of 20 banks.

"We all know the importance of farming, and the effect present conditions have had on deposits from the rural section," declared Harry Haggart, who presided. "The bankers want to aid any sane movement to bring about the return that farming warrants."

Will Aid Bureau.

The proposed program of agricultural development with funds raised through the Bureau was explained by J. A. Craig, who urged the bankers to use their influence in the support of the new program.

"Farmers should be organized with with sufficient revenue their can be established a real business organization to render a service to the farmers and you bankers that will bring the money to the farmers," it was declared. "Our show herds and advertising has put Rock county into the spot-light of attention and it is urgent that the county be fully prepared to realize from this advertising. You bankers must help the farmer to raise the standards of the livestock of this county. Right now there is a demand for every dairy animal that can be spared and an opportunity for farmers to realize returns."

Banking Lectures.

The bankers' association voted to pledge at least $1,000 for the office of the livestock agent in the event there was not sufficient membership obtained in the Bureau campaign. The Bureau was plainly told by the bankers that more support would be forthcoming in the event more business management was put into effect.

Other speakers were H. C. Hemingway, Janesville; Robert O'Mallory and W. E. Walker, Madison. The association was urged to establish regular lectures in the schools of the county on banking. Bankers will be given an outline of talks on the fundamental questions on banking to be given in the schools. The need of financial advertising was also discussed.

"Bank advertising will increase, but most banks are adjusting their advertising appropropriation to be measured by the yardstick of results," declared Mr. Walker, Madison.

BRODHEAD

Brodhead.—Almost 200 members and guests sat down to a banquet in the Brodhead opera house, Tuesday night, given by the Chamber of Commerce, and served by the American Legion Auxiliary. Following the banquet there were vocal solos by Gilbert Swartz, some short talks by secretaries from other Chambers of Commerce, followed by the address of the evening by Mr. Wallis, of the Fells Commission of Chicago, who spoke on the Economic Conditions confronting the American people of today. General discussion followed and the meeting closed with singing "On, Wisconsin."

The Rev. L. E. Osgood and bride are home from their honeymoon trip and are settled in the Congregational parsonage where they are at home to their friends.

Mrs. J. C. Berryman was a visitor in Janesville, Tuesday.

C. A. Roderick of Monroe, was in Brodhead to attend the chamber of commerce banquet.

Gilbert Swartz arrived home, Tuesday, from Milwaukee, where he had been on a business trip.

Cabbage Market Has Few Changes

Madison—The cabbage market has been unsettled, with few changes in price during the last two weeks, the state department of markets reports in its bi-weekly news letter. With the advent of colder weather the department said that it expects prices to improve and the market show more life.

"The stock is generally of good quality and good yields have been reported," the letter said. "Prices paid to growers for Danish stock in the Racine-Kenosha district have ranged from two to three times more than was paid a year ago. Kraut factories have made large cuts this year and the domestic stock is almost cleaned up in the state. Some of the late cabbage is now going into storage for winter shipment."

The marketing department said that most of the large dealers are availing themselves of the state inspection system.

VIOLATIONS OF SPUD GRADING CHECKED UP

Madison—Violations of the Wisconsin potato grading laws are being checked and prosecutions will follow where there are deliberate violations of the statutes, the state department of markets announced today. Grading supervisors are now working in the potato sections inspecting grade work and assisting growers, the department said.

DIVORCED WIFE OF DR. COOK TAKING HAND IN TRIAL

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]

Ft. Worth, Tex.—Mrs. Marie F. Cook, divorced wife of Dr. Frederick A. Cook, arctic explorer and oil operator, who, with 13 others, is under indictment for the alleged use of the mails to defraud, took the lead in the trial of her husband in federal court Wednesday. She did not testify but declared, in the court room that "she was there for a purpose." Recently she was granted a divorce from the oil operator after spectacular allegations had been made by Mrs. Cook which were answered by Dr. Cook with the statement that "he had been framed."

State Opens Assault.

The government went forward steadily in its attempt to prove the practice of fraud, and began its assault on Cook, S. E. J. Cox and the other co-defendants of the petroleum producers' association.

With W. C. Whitmer, realty operator of Fremont, Ia., on the witness stand as a prospective customer of Cook's, the government showered him with sales literature and letters sent out by the company, which he was requested to identify.

Whitmer was shown a credit slip of $1 and asked to identify it. He replied it was a dividend check from the Producers' company.

Dr. Cook Unperturbed.

Dr. Cook listened attentively to the proceedings, nodded or whispered to Mrs. Cook and former Senator Joseph Weldon Bailey, his chief counsel, and appeared unperturbed.

At one point in the examination of Whitmer, Cook nodded his head vigorously in the affirmative. That was when government prosecutors pointed to literature allegedly sent out by Cook which said:

"The meanest man in the world is the fraudulent oil stock promoter."

GENERAL PROPERTY ASSESSMENT IS UP

$4,846,765,610, Announced by Tax Commission in Readjusted Valuation.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Madison—The total Wisconsin general property assessment for 1923 was announced by the state tax commission today to be $4,846,765,610, compared to $4,664,707,451 for 1922. State taxes are to be distributed upon the basis of this readjusted valuation, A. J. Murland, secretary of the commission announced.

According to the tax commission totals, the aggregate real estate assessment for the present year amounts to $3,983,228,387, or 4.28 per cent above the 1922 assessment. Personal property was valued by the commission at $863,536,623, or 2.22 per cent above the last year's assessment.

Rural Districts Down.

"Most rural districts show a decrease in value because of the decline in farm lands, but the market for city and village real estate has been so firm and active as to overcome the decrease in rural districts," the commission announcement said. "The principal increase in the value of personal property is in merchants' and manufacturers' stocks, public utilities and automobiles.

"There was a decrease of $84 in the unit value of automobiles but the increase in the number and grade of cars more than offset the decrease in value. The average value of horses is $3 less than in 1922, and the average value of meat cattle $3 more.

County Assessments.

Following are the assessments for the more important counties of Wisconsin:

County	All Property.	Real Estate
Brown	$ 94,573,970	75,273,418
Chippewa	60,917,041	51,875,843

MRS. HOLT FIRST WOMAN JUROR FOR MUNICIPAL COURT

To Mrs. Grace Holt, wife of the superintendent of the Janesville schools, falls the distinction of being the first woman to be summoned for a municipal court jury.

Her name remains as one of 18 on a list of jurors drawn to try the Ole Rossebo liquor case, the date for which has not been set, it having been continued from the scheduled day, Friday. Other names were drawn, but when the attorneys for the state and defense had finished striking off their quotes, 18 were left. From this group, 12 will be selected to hear the Rossebo case.

A new jury list was recently compiled for the municipal court, 20 per cent of the names placed in the box being those of Janesville women, thus establishing a new plan in this court.

NESTOS URGES U. S. SELL SURPLUS WHEAT TO WORLD MARKETS

West Baden, Ind.—Immediate establishment of a governmental agency with adequate powers to segregate the exportable American surplus of wheat and to dispose of it in the markets of the world upon the best terms obtainable was urged as a means of aiding the wheat farmer by Gov. J. E. Nestos of North Dakota in an address here. The address was made before the annual conference of governors of the United States, in session here, and Gov. Nestos asked each executive to lend assistance.

JURY FREES MAN OF SPEED CHARGE

Cop Says Car Hit 28 Miles—Under 15, Loeffler Says, and Wins.

Ray Loeffler, accompanied by Francis Cronin, drove down South Franklin street the latter part of September at a speed which they claimed was less than 15 miles an hour, although there was no speedometer on Loeffler's car by which they could tell the pace accurately.

Motorcycle Patrolman George Porter followed behind them and clicked his police speedometer just before arresting Loeffler for speeding. The speedometer registered a speed of 28 miles an hour.

Wednesday afternoon in municipal court before a six-man jury all three witnesses testified, and the jury, after 15 minutes' deliberation or less, brought in a verdict of not guilty. Loeffler was immediately discharged by the court and the jurymen were thanked by Judge H. L. Maxfield for giving of their time to the service of the court.

E. H. Ryan, Loeffler's attorney, brought out on cross-examination that Porter had possessed a search warrant so that he might go through the defendant's car. He sought to establish that the motorcycle patrolman bore a grudge against Loeffler, and the two witnesses for the defense stuck vigorously to their stories that the machine was going only 10 to 12 miles an hour.

Members of the jury were J. E. Cain, J. P. Cullen, William Bowen, Clem Tuite, Stephen Brosseau and B. F. Carey.

Police Raid Fitch—J. P. Fitch's place on Western avenue was again raided by the police, sponge squad Wednesday afternoon, but no evidence of any liquor violation was found.

Steiner Favors Junior High Plan

Practically all the high and vocational school teachers were present at the meeting of the Hi-Y club Wednesday night. Informal singing was led by A. E. Bergman. Games were played.

Prin. W. W. Brown gave his views of the Hi-Y club and assured members of the support of the faculty. He asked them to use their influence among their school mates in a program of character building.

Faculty members gave their first impressions of this city when they arrived.

The meeting was closed with a talk by J. A. Steiner, who stated that in his opinion children in school at present had many advantages over those of some years ago. One of the ideas which he particularly favored was the establishment of the junior high school system. He said that one of the difficulties under the old system was the properselection of courses which the junior high school has made possible. He also said that there seemed to be a spirit of fellowship between students and teachers which was entirely lacking a few years ago.

Referring to the Hi-Y organization, Mr. Steiner stated that he believed all members were unconsciously carrying out the ideals of the club in their own lives, knowing that if they did not it would reflect upon their organization.

Booster Degree Team Is Chosen

There was a large attendance from the camps of Rock county at the rally of the Modern Woodmen Booster club of Rock county as guests of the Evansville camp, Wednesday night.

A class of candidates was initiated. The officers of Beloit camp and Foresters put on the work.

The following degree team was elected to put on the work at the Booster meetings: Consul P. A. Thornton, Beloit; Assistant Consul A. L. Meyer, Janesville; Past Consul F. McKinney, Clinton; Advisor F. W. Parker, Janesville; Banker E. Edwards, Evansville; Escort E. Wall, Clinton; Sentry S. Pelz, Clinton; and Watchman James Bly, Evansville.

The next meeting will be held at Milton Junction, Nov. 21.

The Booster quartet from Beloit enlivened the occasion Wednesday by a number of songs.

F. P. Starr, Janesville, delivered an address on the Modern Woodmen Sanitorium, maintained by the society for the benefit of its members.

After the program a luncheon and smoker were held.

Mrs. Griffin Dies After Operation

Mrs. John M. Griffin, 702 Court street, a lifelong resident of this city died at 4 p. m., Wednesday at Mercy hospital following a major operation.

Miss Bridget Mabel Brennan, 36, was born in Janesville May 2, 1889 and was married Feb. 2, 1913, in St. Patrick's church to John M. Griffin, Reedsburg.

Mrs. Griffin is survived by her husband; a daughter, Mildred; her mother, Mrs. J. B. Riley, Chicago; two sisters, Mrs. T. E. Burke, Baraboo, and Mrs. Dennis Clifford, South Dakota; one brother, John M. Brennan, Chicago.

She was an active member of the Catholic Women's Benevolent society, St. Joseph's branch No. 15 and the Catholic Daughters of America leaving a host of friends in this city.

The funeral will be held at 9 a. m., Saturday in St. Patrick's church and burial will be in Mt. Olivet cemetery.

BLUFF STREET TURNED INTO "MILKY WAY"

Ellsworth Brown, driver for the Janesville Pure Milk company, experienced a bit of excitement Thursday morning when his horse ran away on South Bluff street and spilled about 10 gallons of milk. Bottles were jolted out of the wagon and smashed on the pavement.

HALLETT GUILTY ON GUM CHEWING COUNT

Goldwyn Hallett was convicted on a charge of chewing gum in school at the morning session of the mock trial held by the first hour public speaking class, Thursday, and was sentenced to pay a fine of 15 packages for use of the judge, Harry Wollin.

Evidence given by the defendant's witness, Bessie Ellis, was held insufficient. Able arguments were given by counsel, James Franklin and Ellis Jensen, the former for the plaintiff and the latter for the defendant.

The verdict was read by Carlos Palmer, foreman of the jury.

ANCIENT SKELETONS FOUND IN CALIFORNIA

Santa Barbara, Cal.—Fossilized remains of a mastodon, an elephant of a later era, and skeletons of human beings, buried for a period estimated to be between 7,000 and 10,000 years, were uncovered Tuesday at Point Magu, Ventura county, by John P. Harrington of Santa Barbara, a representative of the Smithsonian Institute of Washington.

Red Seal Concert and Operatic — DOUBLE-FACED — Number — List Price
Tosca—E lucevan le stelle (The Stars Were Shining) In Italian (Puccini) — Beniamino Gigli
Tosca—O dolci mani (Oh, Gentle Hands) (Puccini) — Beniamino Gigli — 942 — $1.50
Two numbers of intense and thrilling beauty. The first depicting a few moments of sad, sweet love-memory. Then in the second number, a few moments of false hope.
The Juggler (Moszkowski) Piano Solo — Sergei Rachmaninoff
Etude in F Minor (Dohnányi) Piano Solo — Sergei Rachmaninoff — 943 — 1.50
In this remarkable piano record, hear Moszkowski's "Juggler" throw silver balls in the air, and finish off with a whirl. Then hear the subtle and tremendously difficult Etude of Erno Dohnanyi. Both played with splendid virile power.

Light Vocal Selections
Honey, Dat's All — Olive Kline
Laddie o' Mine — Lucy Isabelle Marsh — 45367 — 1.00
Two songs for the heart of Woman, however mute and however deeply hidden. "Honey, Dat's All" has wonderfully soft, smooth cadences. "Laddie o' Mine" is in waltz time. Both songs have orchestral interludes.
My Sweetie Went Away — Billy Murray-Ed. Smalle
I'm a Lonesome Cry Baby — Aileen Stanley — 19144 — .75
These three favorite Victor artists are appearing this week as blues artists. Murray and Smalle have a weepy number you already know as a fox trot. Miss Stanley is an excellent cry-baby in her home.

Recitations
Ten Little Mice and When Father Shakes the Stove — Edgar Guest
She Powders Her Nose and The Good Little Boy — Edgar Guest — 45368 — 1.00
More of Edgar Guest's familiar little spoken rhymes of everyday life and everyday people. The poet "speaks his own pieces" which are in language and metre of the simplest order.

Dance Records
Roses of Picardy—Waltz — The Troubadours
Marchéta—Waltz — Green-Arden Orchestra — 19117 — .75
"Roses of Picardy" was first made famous in song form by John McCormack. It yields a smooth beautiful dance. "Marchéta" has delicate whistlings and shivery xylophone tremolos. Both ideal for the present fashion of waltzing.
Last Night on the Back Porch—Fox Trot — Paul Whiteman and His Orchestra
If I Can't Get the Sweetie I Want—Fox Trot — Paul Whiteman and His Orchestra — 19139 — .75
Paul Whiteman is back from his European triumphs. He has been crowned "King of the Jazz." In the first number he has a jolly fox trot with vocal refrain. In the second there are new effects. Brilliant, richly-colored, perfect records.
Wolverine Blues—Fox Trot — Benson Orchestra of Chicago
House of David Blues—Fox Trot — The Virginians — 19140 — .75
Two numbers that are sure to please dancers who like unusual effects in their accompainment.

GOV'T OPERATION FOR U. S. VESSELS

Shipping Board Proceeds Along Lines Favored by Harding.

By DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright, 1923, by Janesville Daily Gazette.

Washington — Government operation—more of it than before and probably for all times—has been embarked upon by the United States shipping board.

After many weeks of maneuvering on the part of shipping interests to get possession at low prices of the fleet built during the war and after, the Chamber of Commerce of the United States had appealed to President Coolidge to turn the ships over to private operators, the shipping board has gone ahead with plans exactly in line with the announcement made by the late President Harding when the ship subsidy bill failed to come to a vote in the last session of congress.

The shipping board will operate its own vessels. The system of handling them through managing operators who received a commission on gross business done whether it was at a profit or a loss has been abolished. Consolidation of lines is being worked out with the aid of executives who are to receive salaries direct from the U. S. government instead of through managing agents. The only commission arrangement which has been arranged is that which permits "loading agents" to solicit freight business for the government lines, but the commission is paid only in freight obtained.

Broadly speaking this is direct government operation on a more extensive scale than has been tried before. The shipping board has been prompted to make the experiment by the success achieved in handling the United States line, as the line is known which runs a passenger service to Europe with such ships as the Leviathan and the George Washington. The opinion of Attorney General Daugherty which called illegal the plan to organize subsidiary corporations also pointed out that it was questionable whether under the law the shipping board could delegate its powers. This gave added force to the desire of the board to do away with the managing agent system and has brought about direct operation as the only way of conforming to the spirit and the letter of the Daugherty opinion.

But the merchant marine act also says that the ships must be operated so as ultimately to make it possible to dispose of them to private owners. The subsidiary corporation plan was designed to demonstrate how attractive the ship organizations created by the government could be made to prospective purchasers.

Members of the shipping board insist that what they now are doing will not interfere with the sale of the ships to anyone who wants to buy them. But thus far no offers which the board thinks worth while have been made. And the probabilities are that the deeper the government gets into direct operation the less attractive will any offers become.

It begins to look as if private shipping interests lost their best chance when the ship subsidy bill failed and that as alternative plans are worked out the government will constantly reduce its losses or adopt the attitude which it does with respect to the deficit in the postal service, namely, that the loss to the government is relatively small compared to the insurance it gives the American producer of an American merchant marine with freight rates that are not under the control of foreign countries.

C. & N. W. Vets Go to Chicago Next Wednesday

Plans for the celebration of the seventy-fifth anniversary of the Chicago & Northwestern railway system in Chicago, Wednesday, Oct. 24, have been made and it is expected that a number of old timers from Janesville and vicinity will attend. The special feature will be the reception given to the 100 veterans who have been in active service for 50 years or more, by the officials of the company.

These veterans, representing all branches of the railway service, and who have played so important a part in building this—the first railway west of Chicago—will be brought to that city as the guests of the "North Western." Upon arrival they will be met at the Madison street passenger terminal by a reception committee composed of officials of the road, who will provide a day of entertainment. They will be tendered a luncheon in the passenger terminal by the Chicago & Northwestern Railway's Women's club, and in the afternoon will be taken on an automobile tour of the park and boulevard system of Chicago, the day ending with a "get together" and "good fellowship" dinner at one of the principal hotels.

The Chicago & Northwestern railway is the pioneer road of the west, the old Galena & Chicago Union, now a part of the present system, having been the first railroad to lay tracks west of Chicago, and its construction was an epoch-making event in the history and development of the west and northwest. From the modest beginning of 10 miles extending from Chicago to Maywood, Ill., the system now embraces a total of over 10,000 miles of track reaching into nine states.

The first locomotive—"The Pioneer," which visitors to the World's Columbian Exposition will remember as being one of the interesting historical exhibits, is still in possession of the company and in excellent state of repair.

STOCK AND MOVIES ON WEEK-END BILLS

Herbert Rawlinson is the star of "The Victor," having its second day showing, Thursday, at the Beverly. Finding employment scarce, Lord Waring, a British nobleman, comes to America and becomes a prize fighter, making the theme for this movie.

"Shadows of the North," featuring William Desmond, will be presented at the Beverly, Friday and Saturday. This is a story of placer mining and claim-jumping in northwest Canada, with the hero in love with the claim-jumpers daughter. William Desmond has been seen in Mounted Police pictures here in the past. Another story from the serial, "Her Dangerous Path," with Edna Murphy as star, will be shown in connection with the regular picture.

A western picture in which a Texas cattle man, Buck Barbee, loses his vast ranch is "The Web of the Law," at the Majestic theater, Friday and Saturday. Cattle stealing and other scheming is done by the enemies of Buck Barbee in the effort to ruin him. Molly Barbee, the daughter, comes from the city to join her father and falls in love with Bill Barton, ace of Texas rangers, who aids her father in regaining his possessions.

Another sheik picture, "A Son of the Desert," is scheduled for Sunday at the Majestic. William Merrill McCormick plays the role of the sheik, who lures the artist, Helen Dobson, to his camp. Steve Kinard, a house buyer in the desert, saves the heroine from the Arab.

AT THE APOLLO

The Adolph Winninger company is giving two shows daily and will present two night shows Saturday and Sunday. "Why Wives Go Wrong" is the show for Thursday night. The program for the remainder of the week is: Friday, "Please Get Married"; Saturday, "The New Woman"; Sunday, "When a Man Marries."

GASOLINE STOCKS

New York—Gasoline stocks were drawn upon to the extent of 593,115 barrels during September, according to reports received by the American Petroleum Institute, covering approximately 67 percent of the refining capacity of the United States.

THOUSANDS HAVE KIDNEY TROUBLE AND NEVER SUSPECT IT

Applicants for Insurance Often Rejected.

Judging from reports from druggists who are constantly in direct touch with the public, there is one preparation that has been very successful in overcoming those conditions. The mild and healing influence of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its remarkable record of success.

An examining physician for one of the prominent Life Insurance Companies, in an interview of the subject, made the astonishing statement that one reason why so many applicants for insurance are rejected is because kidney trouble is so common to the American people, and the large majority of those whose applications are declined do not even suspect that they have the disease. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is on sale at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes, medium and large.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure to mention this paper.—Advertisement.

85 Gather for Movies in Newark

Rain and fog did not deter 85 people from attending the Gazette motion picture entertainment and Newark Farm Bureau meeting Wednesday night in the Woodman hall. Seven reels of pictures were shown. Professor Luther, University of Wisconsin, gave an address showing the reasons why farmers should organize in the Farm Bureau and in cooperative marketing associations. Refreshments were served by the teacher and pupils of the Lawvers school. Mrs. Florence Hyde explained the plan and purpose of the Gazette community service department and the Good Times club.

The Gazette entertainment at Afton Tuesday night drew a large attendance to the regular meeting of Rock township Farm Bureau.

Maple Grove school, town of Bradford, has an entertainment Thursday night, and Woodman school is on the schedule for Friday night. November dates are now being assigned.

KLAN OFFICIAL IS ARRESTED, CHARGED WITH INTOXICATION

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]

Atlanta — The Rev. Caleb Ridley, known as the imperial kludd of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, was subjected to appear in police court here today to answer charges of being "drunk and operating an automobile," following his arrest yesterday. After spending several hours in a police station cell the imperial kludd was released on bond of $600.

Before being locked up, the imperial kludd declared he had driven out into the country where he was accosted by a man who offered to give him some whiskey. He stated he accepted the offer and took a drink. Following his release the minister denied the charge that he was drunk and that two bottles of whiskey were found in his machine.

"I was not drunk," stated the Klan official. "The fact is that I had a half pint bottle containing about two tablespoons of liquor, and I had taken one drink before my arrest."

The Rev. Mr. Ridley is well known in Klan circles throughout the nation and is reputed to have lectured extensively on the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, from coast to coast.

New Orleans—With three different storms in the Gulf of Mexico or its vicinity, the local weather bureau today continued its warning to shipping to proceed to sea with caution.

Keating Held for Trial on Oct. 26

William Keating was held for trial Oct. 26 at 10 a. m., following a preliminary examination conducted before Judge H. L. Maxfield Thursday, in which Patrolmen Porter and Harmon, and Sgt. Handy testified. There are three charges against Keating—intoxication, possession of liquor and previous conviction. His bail was fixed at $1,000. E. H. Ryan represented Keating.

Martin Ryder, one of three others who were with Keating when arrested Tuesday on Western avenue, pleaded guilty to intoxication and paid a fine of $15 and costs.

The cases of the other two, John Smith and Joseph Briggs, are still pending. Smith claims he was on his own property when arrested and not in "a public place" as the warrant reads. His case was to be heard Thursday afternoon and that of Briggs later.

Sharon.—The funeral of A. D. Lowell was held at his home, Sunday. Prayer was offered by the Rev. L. Wood, of the Lutheran church, and the sermon was preached by the Rev. A. J. Johnson, pastor of the M. E. church, of which Mr. Lowell had been a member for many years. Burial was at Oakwood. Those from away who attended the service were: Mrs. Marzo Lowell, Janesville; Mrs. W. L. Clement, Madison; Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Woods, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Kinyon, Mrs. Frank Gile, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kinny and daughters, Grace and Alice, Beloit; L. D. Lowell, Crystal Lake; Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Kinyon, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Kinyon, Rockford; George Lowell, Chicago, and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Lowell, Walworth.

SERIES OF SALES MEETINGS PLANNED

Merchandising Institute for Merchants and Clerks to Open Oct. 24.

To help the clerk behind the counter become better informed on his goods and to help him become a better salesman—that is the educational purpose of the "Merchandising Institute" which the retail division of the Chamber of Commerce in association with the Janesville Gazette has announced for the coming month.

The dates are Oct. 24, Nov. 7 and 21 and are all Wednesday's. Noonday luncheons for executives and department managers will be held at the Y. M. C. A. In the evenings of these same days, meetings for the sales people of Janesville have also been arranged, to be held in the Y. M. C. A.

Milwaukee Speaker

The meetings will be addressed by James W. Fisk, merchandising counsel of the Milwaukee Journal. Mr. Fisk is a man of nationally recognized authority on retailing and retail sales work, and has a message of great importance to retail sales people.

The leading stores and commercial organizations have promised their cooperation. Reservations are now being made in response to invitations sent out by George M. Neimer, chairman of the retail division of the Chamber of Commerce, who is in charge of arrangements.

The regular fee for the luncheon meetings will be duly made to cover the cost of the meal. All of the evening meetings are free of charge, but tickets must be secured from the Chamber of Commerce or the Gazette, as admission will be granted only upon presentation of ticket.

Store owners and executives are being requested to ask the salespeople under them to attend the evening meetings, and to come to the noonday luncheons themselves.

First Program Announced

At the first meeting on Oct. 24, Mr. Fisk will discuss "Finding the Weak Spots In Your Business" before the noonday luncheon of executives. At the evening meeting his topic will be "The Science of Salesmanship."

Mr. Fisk presents practical methods that will increase individual sales, and will build up a better store organization resulting in greater strides for the salespeople and more business for the store.

Spanish War Vets in Reunion

Forty members of Morris camp No. 7, United Spanish War Veterans and its auxiliary were guests of Harry L. Clifford camp and its auxiliary at a banquet given in Eagle's hall, Wednesday night, the occasion being the 25th anniversary of the mustering out of the first Wisconsin Volunteer infantry.

Ras Weaver of Beaver Dam, Wis., chief of staff of the department of Wisconsin United Spanish War Veterans, was the speaker of the evening.

Mrs. Edith Frankland of Beloit, department president of the Ladies' Auxiliary, United Spanish War Veterans, also spoke, as did J. W. Hodges, commander of Morris camp, Beloit, and C. S. Hanson of Janesville.

Man Thrown to Pavement by Car

Martin H. Morse, 321 East Milwaukee street, was bruised and shaken up when thrown to the pavement at the corner of Main and Milwaukee streets at 8:45 Wednesday night. In crossing the intersection, a car came so close to him that the rear wheel and fender knocked him down. Two who were crossing the street at the same time stopped back to give the full right-of-way and were unhurt. The driver of the car apparently did not know he had struck anyone, as he continued on at the pace he was maintaining at the time of the accident, about 13 miles an hour, witnesses said. Morse was taken to the police station where his injuries were attended by a doctor and was then removed to his home.

Light Rain Falls Continuously Here for Forty Hours

Barometer readings at the high school made by John Arbuthnot, instructor of physics, show that the mercury stands a half-inch below normal. The height is now 28 11-16 and at normal is 29½. These readings should be corrected for sea level.

Rain here has been almost continuous since 10 p. m. Tuesday. The fine mist which fell throughout the day Wednesday was one of the longest ever noticed.

In most cases mist stops falling within a few hours or if there is much moisture in the air, falls as rain.

DOUGHERTY TALKS BEFORE KIWANIS

Kiwanis members were addressed by U. S. District Attorney William Dougherty at their meeting Thursday noon.

He spoke on the work to be done in educating persons to investigate before investing money in securities and also discussed some of the new legislation to come before congress, speaking especially in regard to the proposed amendment to the constitution which would give congress the power to over ride the decision of the supreme court as to the constitutionality of a law.

A new member, Lewis Ashburn, was admitted.

WAUKESHA MAN MISSING 1 YEAR

Friends Think Skeleton Found at Milton May Be That of Peter Rickert.

Can the skeleton found in a wooded tract in the town of Milton Sunday, seven miles northeast of Janesville, be the remains of Peter Rickert, Waukesha, missing for more than a year?

Sheriff Fred Beley does not believe so as the bones gave the appearance of having been in the shallow grave for five years or even longer. The sheriff received information in regard to the missing Waukesha man Thursday in the form of a letter from Attorney D. J. Hemlock, Waukesha.

Mr. Hemlock said his office was located next to that of Rickert, a real estate man about 60 years old, and that on Sept. 20, 1922, he hung up a sign on his door saying he would return Sept. 26. Rickert said he was going on a trip north. He has not been seen since and his friends are wondering if the finding of the skeleton at Milton has any connection with Rickert's disappearance.

When seen last, Rickert wore a felt hat, a brown two-tone suit and a certain brand of shoes which Hemlock says he could identify easily. Rickert was a large man, weighing about 200 pounds, and wore glasses. He never wore a necktie.

"I would know his glasses, his suit and his shoes," Mr. Hemlock states.

As the clothing on the skeleton indicated that it was probably of a brown color originally and there were glasses in the pocket, the Rickert theory may be worth investigating further, authorities believe.

STATES AID ENFORCEMENT

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]

Washington.—Twenty-eight states within the past year have adopted "progressive" legislation to aid prohibition enforcement, it was said in a summary Thursday by prohibition headquarters, issued in anticipation of the conference of governors here Saturday.

Statutes to reach the buyer as well as the seller of liquor, issuance of licenses to so-called saloons, increased penalties and various others measures were among the new state laws cited.

It was also stated attempts in Alabama, Connecticut, Delaware, Georgia, Illinois, Ohio and Wisconsin, to weaken, modify or repeal state prohibition laws, had failed.

Mrs. Coolidge Is Given Cookies by Girl Scouts

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]

Washington.—A five-foot bag of cookies baked by girl scouts was presented on Wednesday to Mrs. Coolidge, wife of the president, who has accepted the honorary presidency of the organization.

The cookies were presented by a group of Washington girl scouts, headed by Mrs. Percy H. Williams of New York, member of the national executive board and the wife of the president authorized the following statement:

"It is with great pleasure that Mrs. Coolidge accepts the invitation to become honorary president of the girl scouts. She is very heartily in sympathy with all its aims and feels that it is doing a great work in training the girlhood of America in the highest ideals."

DAIRY TRIP TO WIS. POPULAR

Demonstration Visits from Iowa and Other Sections Come Here.

Dairy demonstration trips from grain growing states to leading Wisconsin cattle counties are becoming popular.

Between 40 and 50 farmers and bankers from Delaware county, Ia., will be in Rock county Monday and Tuesday, Oct. 22 and 23 to inspect the herds, blue-blooded and blue ribbon herd sires with a view of gaining knowledge on successful dairying and livestock breeding. This is the second delegation from around Manchester, Iowa to make the trip to Rock county under the direction of their county agent, R. W. Coombs.

Later a third delegation will motor to Rock county from around Iowa City with their county agent and H. J. Dane, former Janesville resident.

A two day's trip through the county is being mapped out by County Agent R. T. Glasco and J. C. Nisbet, Rock county livestock agent. A banquet meeting will be held for the Iowa visitors.

CHARGES WIFE HAD VIOLENT TEMPER; WANTS SEPARATION

Charging that his wife had a violent, uncontrollable and ungovernable temper, Howard Allen, Beloit laborer, is seeking a divorce from his wife, Emma Allen, in a complaint filed in the Rock county circuit court by Judge John Clark, Beloit. They were married in Woodstock, Ill., during September, 1909.

The husband charges that his wife left him at one time and lived with Roy Porter, Beloit, and frequently neglected her home duties.

Gladys Scott, Beloit, filed suit for divorce from her husband, Glenn Scott, on a charge of desertion. They reside in Beloit and were married in Rockford, August, 1923.

Papers were filed for the partition of property in the case of Ella Church and Mary Biggerstaff against Frederick Lannon, et al.

J. H. S. BAND PLAYS AT COUNTY FARM

One of the best entertainments in which the high school band has ever taken part was given at the county farm Tuesday night. The full band of about 80 members gave an hour's concert before an audience of 250 in the large dining room. Besides all inmates of the institution, many from Janesville and vicinity were present.

Refreshments were served after the concert, and this was followed by the showing of moving pictures in the chapel.

A vote of appreciation was tendered to Mr. and Mrs. Archie Cullen at the conclusion of the program.

The Changing Lloyd George.

Lloyd George made an address in Chicago Wednesday night which may be called the supreme effort of his American tour. Shorn of any other consideration, it was a plea for the entrance of America upon a program of European settlements which have been badly muddled and which have been left unsettled by the passing of five years. No one will deny that the basic cause of the whole difficulty now being confronted by Europe lies in the attitude of three nations—Germany, France and Belgium—over reparations. But behind that is the treaty made by Mr. George and others of the allied nations at Versailles in 1919, and to the operation of which Mr. George attributes the troubles in Europe. But Mr. George is deeply responsible in person for the treaty of Versailles and those clauses against which he now inveighs were accepted, and in some cases were originated by him. We shall all be willing to agree that Great Britain pays her debts, that she is not always hard on the vanquished, as Mr. George says, but we cannot forget in the plea of Mr. George for some new and different sort of action, that Great Britain received her toll from the treaty, added enormous territory to her South African possessions by the acquisition of German colonies in Africa, and that in shipping and reparations of a property character Great Britain did not suffer. The two nations left to deal with Germany and negotiate for the future, were France and Belgium under a system of partial payments provided in the Versailles treaty and the amount and ability to pay being left also for future determination.

So it is that when Lloyd George, here in America, criticises the attitude of France he assumes also the attitude of a man who has got his and would say also how the others should get their pay.

Lloyd George is an interesting and remarkable man. He has been given an enormous ovation in America. He has been shown the square dealing spirit of the American people. He must not however be led astray and feel that all who hear or read will accept his notion of American entrance into the affairs of Europe. We are willing to admit a closer tie between Great Britain and the United States than we have with any other nation. We have more in common, in language, in tradition of birth and of early beginnings. We are also in the position of a nation asking no loot of war, no reparations, no aftermath from a conquered country. We are the only nation that can come to the Door of Hope with clean hands. Let that not be forgotten. Great Britain cannot say as much. We have no future program of fortifications and expansion in the world such as Great Britain has. And we confront the greatest question of psychology in the history of the world, in the European situation. It has its physical quality as well. What could have rehabilitated Europe from a cash standpoint? Nothing, perhaps, but to admit that Germany had won the war and that we had made an error in stopping her, then restore her to her former place. What we are paying now—what Germany is paying—is the inevitable and terrible penalty for war, but the price must be paid.

If the reparations matter could be settled on one or two great principles it would be different. Reading or hearing Lloyd George makes one feel that it is all easy. Yet he leaves unsettled a grave question—whether Germany has been honest or has deliberately attempted to ruin its own finances for the purpose of cheating France and Belgium out of plain justice. Mr. George answers neither question but asks that both be settled by the commission proposed by Mr. Secretary Hughes some months ago, in which the United States would participate as one of that commission.

That is Mr. Lloyd George's mission—to first tell of the desperate condition of Europe, to draw a picture of the impending anarchy and in conclusion, to indicate clearly, that he does not believe the chaos can be halted by either his own nation or any other in Europe and that it is up to the United States to enter and settle the racial and diplomatic quarrels of ten centuries by participating in a simple commission.

Perhaps it could be done but there is a great amount of Yankee skepticism concerning it.

Europe Sees America in the Movies

Europe is getting some funny notions about America by watching the antics of the leaders of our social and community life as they are displayed in the screen drama and comedy. The London News laughs over the instructive pictures we send abroad. Add the movies to the ideas of American country life as told in the book, Main Street, and of the Reubens and yokels displayed in that book of psycho-analysis, and one can see how some very strange notions of life over here must be conveyed to the mind of the up-sophisticated European. To him we are the home of the auto bandit, the funny police force and the rotten rich.

When London and the provinces go to the movies they see that the cast is all made up of scanty costumes of women, unscrupulous, but mightily successful business men who roysterously spend their money at night in cabarets and in intrigue and schemes against other successful men. The west is made up of saloons, shooting irons, bad men and worse women, stage coach robbers, murderers of sheriffs and as the London News says "spend a good deal of their time rolling on the ground trying to gouge out each other's eyes." In the west and south no one does any work, just loafs around the store waiting for a fight and the women have less to do, hanging over back fences, to be ready to run into the road to welcome home the blood stained hero.

Says the London News after telling what perverted ideas one may get from the movies:

America must be an awfully interesting place to live in; only few of us invertebrate Britons could stand the strain of such an exciting life. It isn't so much the amount of work the Americans do as the suddenness with which they do things, that must tell on them in time. Fortunes are made and homes ruined in America on the screen in less time than the average Englishman takes to eat his breakfast.

Of course all this is said in irony, but the fact remains that it is bitterly true. Our movies give not only to Europe but to our own sections widely apart, a wrong view of real life. Perhaps the dullest place in all the Footstool is an Arizona way station or old mining camp. Its people are ghosts. Yet the younger generation, failing to understand that the movies tell stories as archaic as those of Capt. Mayne Reid, feel that this is indeed the life. And we have homes that are not all dens of sin and iniquity, of intrigue and dress-suit crooks, nor are they all garish and jammed with ily-fitting furniture and decorative schemes which would make the Tuilleries look like a hovel. Our women are not all bad nor are the innocent heroines all so inane as they appear on the screen.

It might be well for the movie producers to think of putting on the screen something about America that smacks of cleanliness and truth. "It would be horribly dull," is probably the answer of the producer, but he may learn that all Europe does not receive its education from the penny dreadfuls and the sporting pink sheets. There are interesting screen plays that are both honest and clean—not many, but enough to counteract the lop-sided ideas most of our pictures impress upon Europe.

Construction in Cold Weather

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

Washington.—King Winter is losing his hold on the construction industry. No longer do up-to-date contractors stop work during cold weather, dismiss their gang and wait for sunny days of spring to renew building operations. The custom of discontinuing building construction during the cold months has been recognized as poor business. Cold reasoning has routed cold weather and as a result many progressive builders in all parts of the country keep right at the job of erecting skyscrapers and apartments, hotels, bungalows and bridges, straight through the wintry months of December, January and February.

Although winter construction has been carried on for a number of years on a small scale in some localities, it has only been during the last two or three years that a widespread interest has been taken. Volumes could be written about the building projects carried out during the winter months since the war; of how the construction of an 18-story reinforced concrete building in New York was carried on with the temperature below freezing; of how the Lake Placid Club building in New York state was built in zero weather; of how apartments in Chicago and Milwaukee, a hotel in Fort Wayne, a church in Toledo, a theatre in Minneapolis, and scores of other buildings were ready for occupancy much earlier than expected because a little matter like a cold spell was not permitted to interfere with the actual construction work.

No doubt the acute housing shortage following the war years had something to do with arousing interest in winter construction. Buildings had to be erected. Contractors and builders were face to face with a situation they could not dodge. There were many ramifications to the problem; many obstacles to overcome. The idea of winter work was given the careful consideration of many prominent men in the various branches of the construction industry, and the results have placed cold weather construction in the regular program of commonplace events.

* * * *

The seasonal nature of the construction industries has been responsible for many difficulties. It has created a peak demand for many materials, resulting in overtaxed railroad facilities during certain months, while at other times—during cold weather there was scarcely any demand. Contractors, after organizing efficient crews of workmen, have been forced to disband them with the coming of cold weather. In the spring it was necessary to break in a new organization. Winter idleness in the construction industry meant idleness of thousands of workmen during the cold months. Operating on a basis of eight or nine months a year it was necessary to pay labor a wage that would permit three or four months of idleness. All of these facts resulted in a tremendous waste, and the only relief was seen in the levelling of the volume of construction carried on through the year. In other words, it was necessary to make the construction year a period of twelve months instead of the customary eight or nine.

Through the department of commerce, the government is cooperating in the widespread campaign to lengthen the construction season. A committee was recently appointed by Secretary Herbert Hoover to make a study of the situation. On this committee are prominent business men and manufacturers, contractors and engineers. Previous surveys have indicated that most construction activity is concentrated in seven to ten months of the year. The committee was formed to examine the facts and propose remedies and to suggest sound solutions. It is the general impression that seasonal building has been due perhaps more to custom than the weather and it is expected that the investigation will throw light on this and other important matters.

The interest taken by big contracting firms is shown by the numerous articles on winter construction methods appearing in engineering and technical magazines during the past few years. Examples of cold weather work have been described, with detailed information as to the methods used. The men who do the work are unanimous in their decision as to the feasibility of building during cold spells, and of the economy of such operations in the long run.

* * * *

One of the chief drawbaks of winter work has been the general impression among builders that the cost is out of proportion to the benefits derived. However, a careful study has shown this impression to be a wrong one. The owner or financier should consider the advantage of earlier occupancy of the structure. By securing an income on the money invested, from three to five months in advance of the general practice, he is obtaining the maximum returns for his investment. Another feature is the supply of labor available during the winter. Cold weather and unemployment have gone hand in hand for years. By making it possible to continue construction through the winter, this situation would be relieved.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

JUST A BOY.

He is just a boy with his eyes agiow,
Just a boy, and you love him so,
And his merry laugh and his roguish way
And those restless feet which turn to play
Are youth's rich treasures swiftly spent,
You had them once ere your boyhood went;
You raced and romped in the selfsame way,
But you cry, "Keep still!" for you're tired today.

Time was you jeered at an easy chair
And an hour of quiet was hard to bear;
Then life was filled with a thousand things
And your arms and legs were strong as springs,
And the old folks said as they looked at you:
"He races and romps the whole day through,
And he's never tired and he cant sit still.
He ought to rest, but he never will."

He is just a boy, and a boy must jump,
And a boy must run till his pulses thump,
Must swing his arms and kick his heels
And give full vent to the joy he feels;
Must rush in the house and bolt his meals
And long for things which run on wheels;
And whenever you find him sitting still,
It's not that he's tired—it's because he's ill.

Comes in the morning mail a note from our long-time friend John Philip Sousa inclosing a clipping which tells of a young man rescuing a young lady from the sad sea waves and going on to state that the young woman married the hero next day. "And," concludes John Philip, "that's a heck of a way to repay a man for saving one's life."

Who's Who Today

ROBERT S. LOVETT

After almost forty years in the railroad service, Robert S. Lovett resigned recently as chairman of the executive committee of the Union Pacific railroad system. He gave as his reason his desire to lessen his responsibilities to safeguard his health.

Robert Lovett

Lovett, one of the highest paid railway executives in the country at the time of his resignation, was born in San Jacinto, Texas, June 22, 1860. After attending the high school at Houston he spent years in self-study and self-mastery while reading the law and was admitted to the bar with a fine equipment of varied knowledge and a clear grasp of detail. As counsel for the Southern Pacific and other roads he came in touch with the Harriman interests in that capacity. When the government took over the railroads during the war, Lovett was made director of additions and betterments under the administrator.

At the time Lovett became chairman of the board of directors of the Union Pacific it was announced that his salary was $140,000.

While resigning the chairmanship of the executive committee Lovett continues his association with the company and will direct the representation of the Union Pacifics interests in consolidation matters and in valuation of railroad properties upon which the interstate commerce commission is now engaged and to which he has already given much attention.

Personal Health Service.

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

Noted Physician and Author

A CLOT IN VEIN.

In our first talk about veins the other day we were going along smoothly and apparently approaching the really important part, where I should have told the reader how to diagnose and treat phlebiti (inflammation of a vein), when, of course, we suddenly stopped the show so I could do my stuff, the same old stuff—advise folks to consult a competent physician. If this seems unfair let me explain that this is not a medical department, but a health department. I am not a competent physician by mail or through the newspaper, I'll freely admit that. But I flatter myself that I can tell healthy people through the newspapers a good many things that are healthful for healthy people to know. All who have something the matter or think they have and don't know just what ails them or what to do about it, I advise to consult their physician.

Phlebitis is a case in point. I maintain without fear of successful contradiction that no healer can determine without personal examination and study of the individual case; whether absolute rest, massage, passive exercise or active exercise would be safe or healthful in the given case of phlebitis at any stage of the process. Therefore we gracefully skip the diagnosis and treatment.

The process of coagulation, congealment or clotting of the blood, in life, within the heart or any blood vessel, is called Thrombosis; the clot itself is called a thrombus. Some interruption of the blood current at the point of clotting is responsible, say a thickening of or narrowing of the vessel from disease or inflammation of the vessel wall (as in some cases of thrombosis in the brain), or a dilation or bulging of the wall of a vein, or some external injury to the vein.

Such clots are clean. The principal danger is from occlusion of an important vessel or from breaking off of minute particles which are carried in the circulation to lodge or stick in some small artery in lungs or brain; this process is called embolism; the particle itself is an embolus. When a clot or thrombus becomes infected (invaded by bacteria) the danger of septic emboli spreading through the circulation and causing general blood poisoning (septicemia) is added to the danger of mechanical embolism. Thrombosis or clotting within the vein in any circumstances calls for rest rather than rubbing, massage or manipulation under any other name, not merely rest in the common sense of the word but what physicians know as physiological rest; to insure that no little degree of ingenuity and skill is needed.

In many "attacks" of piles the inflamed vein or veins contain clots; no relief comes until the clots are turned out of the lance. A clot or thrombus in artery or vein in any situation may be entirely absorbed or become gradually changed into fibrous scar tissue or if infected it may undergo suppuration. No specific remedy or treatment will dissolve or cause absorption of clot anywhere. If that favorable outcome happens it is because nature's way has not been too much impeded by unwise management.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Nurse Jane at Work.

What to do when you have a hundred itches and the doctor says "Don't Scratch"? Nurse Jane says I have hives from eating vegetables containing acid. I'm all broke out with tiny watery pimples, like the heat, only worse. (J. J. R.)

Answer—Can't nurse Jane instruct the doctor how to manage the trouble? She seems to have unique theories as to the pathology and diagnosis of hives; she must have been studying the latest almanac, for she is right there with the acids. Your safest plan would be to invite nurse Jane to tell it to the marines, and follow your doctor's advice.

Bacillus Acidophilus Culture.

Please inform me where I can get the bacillus acidophilus culture to be used to ferment milk as a beverage or to be taken internally along with sugar to improve the bacterial flora in the intestine. (M. R. L.)

Answer—Large drug firms generally have either Bulgarian lactic bacillus cultures or acidophilus cultures (the latter being perhaps more readily implanted in the intestinal tract). A pure whole milk cultured with bacillus acidophilus is supplied through the drug trade by Lederle Antitoxin Laboratories of New York, N. Y.

Don Jaimie's Deafness.

What do you think of the remarkable cure of the congenital deafness of Prince Don Jaimie of Spain recently by the noted Brooklyn osteopathic physician who reconstructs the eustachian tubes by finger surgery and restores hearing in cases the medical men can do nothing for? (F. H. O.)

Answer—It seems to me that they overwork that game. The prince had his hearing miraculously restored by some such humcombe about three or four years ago, if you will recollect. Now they're curing him again. Well, it is dandy advertising for the new fangled healers, but unfortunately the deafness of Prince Don Jaimie continues as before. Wait two or three years and they'll cure him again.

Q. What did Barnum promise to pay Jenny Lind when she sang for the first time in America? G. A. M.

A. Jenny Lind was engaged (by P. T. Barnum for 150 nights at $1,000 a night. Barnum provided the orchestra.

Q. How long has the musical box been in existence? D. H.

A. The music box was invented by the Swiss in the middle of the 18th century.

Q. How many springs are there at Hot Springs, Ark.? W. J. B.

A. Hot Springs, Ark., is widely noted for the hot waters that flow from 72 springs, included in a space of 10 acres on the west side of Hot Springs mountain. The water of these springs range from 75 degrees Fahrenheit to 157 degrees Fahrenheit, and are especially beneficial in the treatment of chronic diseases. In 1832 four sections of land were set off by congress as a government reservation. Since then the government has established on the mountain the Army and Navy General hospital.

Q. At what time of the year is the pistachio nut at its best? T. G.

A. The department of agriculture says that in California the pistachio nut is ripe in October. Inasmuch as the nut must be roasted before eating, if it is kept in a dry place at a cool temperature it is not likely to become rancid and therefore can be kept indefinitely. The department knows of no instances where such nuts have been kept for over a year.

Q. Please give a description of the shell room in the Berlin palace. M. L.

A. The shell saloon is in the new palace at Potsdam, formerly the summer residence of the emperor. "The walls and ceilings of the room are inlaid with corals, crystals and rare shells. The frieses are minerals and precious stones, many of which are of great value.

Q. What is the record attendance at football games in the United States and England? W. A. T.

A. We do not have this information as no record is kept. The largest number of people attending a football game in England was 125,000; at the Yale bowl, which holds the largest number in the United States, the record number was 81,000.

Horoscope

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 19, 1923

According to astrology this should be a rarely favorable day for most activities on the earth. Venus, Saturn and the Sun are all in strongly benefic aspect.

Women should be especially active while this rule prevails and it is forecast that they are to take part in a national movement, or to make their influence felt in a countrywide reform enterprise of supreme moment.

This should be an unusually lucky wedding day, making for long life and success in all high ambitions.

Women who desire the aid or approval of persons powerful in big affairs should take the initiative today. This should bring them especial benefits.

This is a day most auspicious for theaters and for all lines of entertainments. Actors and artists of every line should benefit.

Success for serious plays is prognosticated and again the recognition of new stars of both sexes is foretold. Sudden fame is to come to one long ignored.

Industry is subject to better influences than it has been today. Labor should profit from misfortunes as well as from constructive enterprises.

All who wish to put to the test their hope of preferment should make the best of this day's opportunities. Political appointments are subject to the best direction of the stars.

Changes in the foreign envoys of the United States will be numerous and women will aspire to serve in diplomatic posts.

Much suffering during the coming winter is again prophesied. Unprecedented prosperity is foretold for many places noted for mild climate.

The Pacific coast is to focus attention again by some great sensation, it is foretold.

Spiritual forces are to focus on the shores of the Pacific and all the states touched by the waters of this ocean are to develop extraordinary conditions, the seers prophesy.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the forecast of a fortunate year. Money affairs and business should be exceedingly satisfactory.

Children born on this day probably will be very fortunate in all their enterprises. They are on the cusp and partake of the attributes of both Libra and Scorpio.

ARREST 2 AS FIREBUGS IN FATAL BLAZE

New York — Two men were arrested today on charges of murder and arson in connection with Brooklyn fire last Monday in which six persons were burned to death. A third was held as a witness.

The three, held after an all-night questioning, gave the name of William Ford, a real estate broker; Raymond Anderson and James R. Lynch, an accountant. The murder and arson charges were lodged against Ford and Anderson.

Three women and three men were victims of the fire which destroyed a two-story frame house in which they lived.

Quickly Heals Old Sores and Conquers Piles

Also Stops Itching of Eczema Almost Immediately.

"Peterson's Ointment Co., Buffalo, N. Y.—I want to tell you how much I do love Peterson's Ointment for the good it has done me. My sore was on my left leg, was 4½ inches by 2¼ inches wide—is all healed up beautifully now and then, too, it was so soothing on such a raw sore. I can't say enough praise for the good it has done me and will say a good word in your salve's favor. Very truly yours, Miss Kate Kull, Sigel, Ill.

"I'd rather get a letter like that," says Peterson of Buffalo, "than have John D. Rockefeller give me a thousand dollars. It does me a lot of good to be able to be of use to my fellow man.

"For years I have been selling through druggists a large box of PETERSON'S OINTMENT for 35 cents. The healing power in this ointment is marvelous. Eczema goes in a few days. Old sores heal up like magic; piles that other remedies do not seem to even relieve are speedily conquered."

It stops chafing in five minutes and for scalds and burns it is simply wonderful. Advertisement.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Edgar Quenton Bartholomew had two nephews each named the same, sons of two brothers. One had been absent in Europe for a term of years. He returned to America to make his home with his uncle. Here he met another cousin, daughter of the uncle, Orpha with whom he promptly fell in love only to learn that the other Edgar was understood to be an accepted suitor. This Edgar and the uncle quarreled. In this house there was a mystery in the main stairs, steps other than one's own following up the stairs as one walked and a breath of cold air blown on one from some mysterious and unaccounted place. There was no love lost between the two male cousins and it was understood that the one marrying Orpha would be the heir to the uncle's fortune. The uncle is ill and there is no hope for his recovery. Edgar, who tells the story, spends much of his time in the sick room. Uncle Quenton dies suddenly after being given a strong medicine. His will is missing, and search is made for the person suspected of having administered poison. There were two wills and one was to have left the property in equal shares between Orpha and Quentin, while the other left it all to Edward. Neither could be found. An inquest was held on the death of the uncle.

"But you could have got hold of it in the way I suggested? Reached in, I mean, and pulled it out without disarranging the other bottles?"

She stopped to think; contracting her brows and stealing what I felt sure was a look at Edgar.

"It would have been difficult," she finally conceded: "but a person with long fingers might have got hold of it all right. The bottles in front and around it were not very large. Much of the same size as the one you just showed us."

"Then in your opinion this could have been done?"

(I heard afterwards that it had been done by one of the police operatives.)

"It could have been done."

Almost doggedly she said it.

"Without making much noise?"

"Without making any if the person doing it knew exactly where the phial was to be found."

Not doggedly now, but incisively.

"And how many of the household, to your definite knowledge, did?"

"Three, besides myself. Miss Orpha, Mr. Edgar and Mr. Quenton, all of whom shared my nursing."

The warmth with which she uttered the first two names, the coldness with which she uttered mine! Was it intentional, or just the natural expression of her feelings? Whatever prompted this distinction in tone, the effect was to signal me out as definitely as though a brand had left its scorching mark upon my forehead.

And I innocent!

Why I did not leap to my feet I do not know. I thought I did, shouting a wild disclaimer. If men stared and women shrieked that was nothing to me. All that I cared for was Orpha sitting there listening to this hellish accusation. So maddened was I, so dead to all human conditions that I doubt if I should have been surprised had the ghostly figure of my uncle evolved itself from air and taken its place on the witness-stand in revolt against this horror. Anything was possible, but to let the world—by which I meant Orpha—believe this thing for a moment.

All this tumult in brain and heart, and my body quiet, fixed, with not a muscle so much as quivering. By what force was I thus withheld? Possibly by some hypnotic influence exerted by Mr. Jackson, for when I looked in his direction I found him gazing very earnestly in mine. I smiled. It must have been a very dreary smile and ironic in the extreme; for my heart was filled with bitterness and could express itself in no other way.

The decided shake of the head which he gave me in return had its effect, however, and digging my nails into my palm, I listened to what followed with all the stoicism the situation called for.

I was still in a state of rigid self-control when I heard my name spoken loudly and with command and woke to the fact that Wealthy had been dismissed from the stand and that I was to be the next witness.

Was I ready for it? I must be; and to test my strength, I cast one straight look at Orpha. She had lifted her veil and met my gaze fairly. Had there been guilt in my heart—

But I could pass her without shame; and sustained by this fact, I took my place on the stand with a calmness I had hardly expected to show in the face of this prejudiced throng.

XXXI

As my story, sometimes elicited by questions and sometimes allowed to take the form of an uninterrupted narrative, differed in no essential from the one already given in these pages, I see no reason for recapitulating it here any more than I did the one I told days before to the Inspector. Fixed in my determination to be honest in all I said but not to say any more than was required, I was able to hear unmoved the low murmurs which now and then rose from the center of the room as I made some unexpected reply or revealed, as I could not help doing, the strength of the tie which united me to my deceased uncle. No one believed in that and consequently attributed any assertion of the kind to hypocrisy; and with this I had to contend from the beginning to the end, softened perhaps a little towards the last, but still active enough to make my position a very trying one.

Dinner Stories

The afternoon party was over and the two hostesses were holding the customary post-mortem, says Judge.

"Did he howl?" was the reply. "Well, you know, my dear, he's considered a regular ten-hound."

One day a man in a show stood up and said: "I will tell any young man the name of his future wife."

A bright young man out of the audience stood up.

Showman—What is your name?

Young Fellow—It is Brown.

Showman—The name of your wife will be Mrs. Brown.

"You are not listening to me," complained Jane Muchmore at breakfast the other morning. "I didn't know you had said anything, dear," returned the meek Mr. Muchmore. "I haven't, but I expect to," said Jane.—Howard (Kan.) Courant.

No More Gray Hair —Says Science

Wonderful Clean, Colorless Liquid Restores Original Color

Results in a Week

Science again has scored a triumph in the discovery of a very remarkable liquid known as Kolor-Bak. If you are gray, just apply this liquid to the hair and scalp and your hair will soon take on the actual color it had in the past. Not a trace of grayness will remain.

Kolor-Bak comes in the form of a clean and colorless liquid, containing properties which quickly restore the lost color to the hair and give it renewed vigor. And note that the one preparation is for all colors of hair. No special solution required for each color—no samples of hair required.

You will find also that with Kolor-Bak the hair has the same shade throughout. It does not appear streaked, faded or "dyed."

Every scientist, every physician, knows that gray hair is hair that has ceased to receive its normal supply of coloring matter or pigment from certain tiny cells (called follicles or papillae) in the scalp, because these cells have become inactive from illness, shock of some kind, scalp disease, dandruff, infection, neglect of the hair, or lack of circulation, etc. But no matter what the cause of the grayness, it is simply amazing to see how it disappears when Kolor-Bak is used. It is a real substitute for the natural pigmentation.

For Dandruff, Itching Scalp and Falling Hair

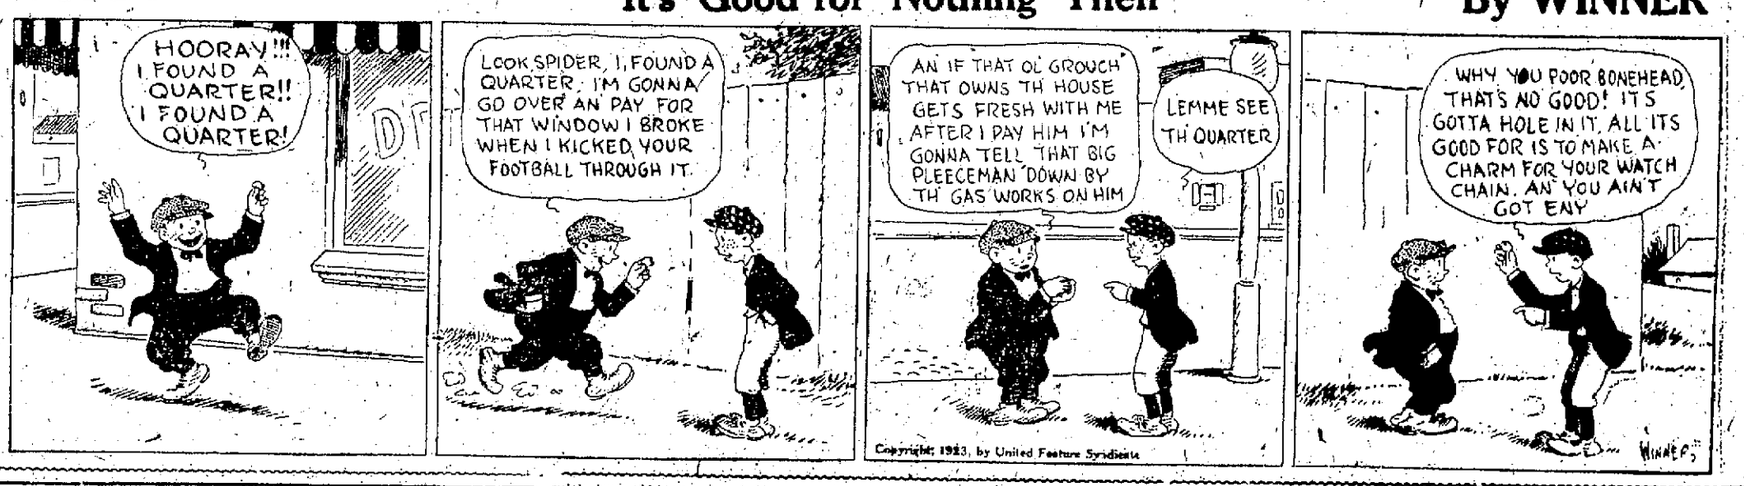

Kolor-Bak also works wonders in the most persistent cases of dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair, as it thoroughly cleanses the scalp and hair. Many who do not need it on account of grayness use it for its cleansing, tonic properties.

Heart and Home Problems

BY ELIZABETH THOMPSON.

Letters May Be Addressed to Mrs. Thompson, in Care of the Gazette.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a woman of 26 and have been married twice. My first husband was lost in the war. I married a man 22 years old, a wonderful fellow, but very stubborn and headstrong. I loved him dearly, and do yet, but he has changed so much.

I have a child which I have to keep, and he did not want me to keep it. When ever it was near him he was very cross with it. He wanted me to get someone to keep it and to go to work and help him out or give it for adoption, anything so that he would not have it to care for. It was a child by my first husband, and of course no man is the same to another man's child. It got so beyond endurance I could not stand it any longer and I left him to free him from my child. I could not give it up for him, for it is my own flesh and blood and I love it too dearly.

He is friendly with me yet, and talks to me whenever we meet, but he does not seem to be at all sorry for anything he has done to hurt us. Do you think I did the right thing toward my child in divorcing my husband? I think it was the best thing for me to do and I am not sorry for it now, but maybe some day he will be.

LONSOME EVA.

I feel that you did the right thing in choosing your child when conditions became so unbearable that you had to give up your child or your husband. Your husband must have had a very mean streak in his nature or he would not have been so unkind to a child. Naturally a man loves his own child more than the child of someone else, but some men love children and would not hurt them, regardless of their parentage. The fact that the little one was yours should have been enough to make your husband kind, since he claimed he loved you.

* * *

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl of 18 and I go with a boy of 19. We have been going together for 10 months. I am very jealous when I go out with him, as he speaks to so many girls. If I ask him who they are he will say he doesn't know their names. Do you think that he knows them or just tries to make me angry at him as he knows it hurts me?

When I speak to some boys it hurts him; I can tell by the way he acts, because he will hardly talk. Please tell me what to do as I cannot give him up. He says he loves me and I love him. LOUISVILLE LOU.

The young man may be trying to tease you when he says he does not know the names of the girls to whom he speaks. You ought to be able to judge the extent of his acquaintance with them by the way in which they speak to him. At any rate, it is foolish to let so small a thing upset you. It really doesn't matter whether he is well acquainted with the girls, or has merely met them and forgotten their names. The thing which should be of importance to you is that he prefers your company to that of the other girls. It is ridiculous for either of you to be hurt when one speaks to one of the opposite sex. Jealousy is a useless and unhappy trait. Try to get over your failing.

TWO GREENIES: Because of the extent of my correspondence, I find it impossible to plan entertainments. If you watch the various women's magazines I am sure you will find helpful suggestions for your party.

YOUR BABY and MINE

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Mrs. Eldred is happy to advise all mothers about the care of their children of any age, or on any subject which does not belong in the field of the doctor.

Mrs. C. A. B. writes:

"My girl baby is 10 weeks old and is very healthy. She has always seemed to digest her milk well until recently I noticed that after each nursing she spits up a great deal. I nurse her every three hours. I notice too that she spits up immediately after eating and then it takes place again an hour or so afterward.

"What would you suggest that I do?"

Answer

It seems to me that your present diet must have something to do with the baby's condition since she got along very well for the first few weeks. It may be now that you have your strength back and are eating more heartily your milk is too rich for the baby and this causes the spitting up. If she is gaining well (and you forgot to mention that) I would increase the feeding hours to only once in four hours. Or the length of time that the baby eats can be shortened and a small amount of boiled water given before each nursing. This will dilute the amount of cream in the milk and make it more digestible.

You must look to your own diet, though, and cut down the amounts of rich foods, butter, cream, fat meats, etc.

Some time ago a mother appealed to me about her baby who had had persistent vomiting almost from birth. She had plenty of milk and hesitated to wean the baby. She had tried everything, so she said. The boiled water before nursing worked a magic change. She said from the day that she started to give it the baby stopped vomiting. I tell you this so that you need not be scornful of simple measures. Sometimes persons are inclined to think that anything so ordinary as plain water couldn't possibly have any curative powers.

Painful Rheumatic Swellings Disappear

Discoverer Tells Druggists Not to Take a Cent of Anyone's Money Unless Allenrhu Completely Banishes All Rheumatic Pains and Twinges.

Mr. James D. Allen suffered for years with rheumatism. Many times this terrible disease left him helpless and unable to work.

He finally decided, after years of ceaseless study, that no one can be free from rheumatism until the accumulated impurities, commonly called uric acid deposits, were dissolved in the joints and muscles and expelled from the body.

With this idea in mind he consulted physicians, made experiments and finally compounded a prescription that quickly and completely banished every sign and symptom of rheumatism from his system.

He freely gave his discovery, which he called ALLENRHU, to others who took it, with what might be called marvelous success. After years of urging he decided to let sufferers everywhere know about his discovery through the newspapers. He has therefore instructed druggists everywhere to dispense ALLENRHU with the understanding that if the first pint bottle does not show the way to complete recovery he will gladly return your money without comment. People's Drug Co. can supply you.

TODAY'S RECIPES

Canned Succotash—This new England favorite comes canned, but may be made more like the fresh dish by combination, using one can of yellow bantam corn and one can of small green lima beans. Cook the beans for 10 minutes, after draining from the can, and add fresh water. Heat a cup of rich milk in a saucepan, adding two tablespoons of sugar, salt and pepper to taste, and a generous lump of butter, turn in the can of corn, stir until warmed through, drain and add the beans. Have ready two slices of bacon diced and fried, add them with two tablespoons of fat.

Veal Birds—For veal "birds" with a savory stuffing utilize odds and ends of dry bread, season with chopped onion, pepper, salt and sage, and stretch a small amount of meat in a most acceptable manner.

Velvet Cream—One quart milk, one-half box gelatine, three-fourths cup sugar, three eggs. Put the milk in a double boiler and add sugar and gelatine. When hot add beaten yolks of eggs and cook until gelatine has dissolved and it looks like a thin custard (about 10 minutes), then take from the fire and fold in the beaten whites of the eggs. Flavor with a teaspoon of vanilla. If needed for lunch it is better made the day before. Serve with cream.

Fig Pudding—One-half cup of figs, one-half cup walnut meats, one-half cup sugar, two cups of boiling water, one-half cup graham flour. Boil 10 minutes and put in molds.

Foamy Sauce—One and one-fourth cups sugar, one-fourth cup butter, yolk of one egg. Beat all together, then fold in the well-beaten white of the egg and flavor to taste. Stir in one cup of boiling water the last thing before serving.

SUGGESTIONS

Scarce Crocheting.—We all know how aggravating it is to lay aside crocheting for a little while and find it raveled out when we take it up again. Just take the precaution of snapping a tiny safety pin in the last stitch when you leave it, and this particular trouble will be a thing of the past.

When Washing Cuffs and Collars—In washing neckbands and cuffs of men's shirts and men's soft collars, use a small, brisk scrub brush. This saves much time and energy.

When Making Boiled Icing—Try this: In making chocolate boiled icing, if it gets too hard don't boil it the second time; just add a little cream gradually and it will stir to proper smoothness. If it seems too soft, just add powdered or confectioners' sugar slowly to make it the right consistency.

Beauty Chats

BLACKHEADS

Blackheads are an unpleasant topic, but a still more unpleasant trouble to have. Let's see how they can be gotten rid of most easily and quickly.

First, you must understand what they are: little collections of a soft, waxy, oily substance that collect in the pores; that is, the outlets to the surface of the skin, enlarge each pore and acquire, where they come in contact with the dirt in the air, a black tip or head. They extend often an inch or so into the skin, a thing to remember if a few treatments seem to have little effect.

First the pores must be opened still more and the muscles relaxed. This is done either by steaming the face five minutes or holding cloths wrung from hot water an equal time over the skin. Then, either soap or a regular blackhead cleansing powder should be rubbed into the skin. I prefer this one: Corn starch, two ounces; powdered borax, one ounce; almond meal, one ounce. Even plain corn starch will do, though the combination is so much better that it is worth while making up.

Wet the fingers, dip into the powder, rub well over the skin. Rub in more, and still more. Then wash out with hot water, then rinse with lukewarm and finally with water as cold as you can get it. This is drying it; it is meant to be so, for the powder gets into the pores, works itself into that waxy mixture, and when washed out takes the blackhead too. Meantime, the under part, if the blackhead goes deep, will be pushed up to the surface to be removed a few days later. If your diet isn't correct, you'll go on making new blackheads, so diet and exercise must be thought of, too, and the eliminative functions of the body must be in proper working order as well.

Constant Reader—On the days when you are troubled with excessive perspiration on your face, wipe off the skin occasionally with a small piece of absorbent cotton that is dampened with witch hazen or with a good toilette water. After drying the skin use a little rice powder.

A. E. M.—Very young girls like yourself often appear to be overdeveloped when it only means that they have not as yet attained their complete growth. At 18 years of age, height five feet four inches, weight 120 pounds, your proportions must be unusually good.

Bessie L.—I will be glad to mail you complete information regarding the henna if you send a stamped self-addressed envelope for forwarding.

Misery—For a person who is not elderly to have enlarged veins in the hand shows there must be faulty circulation. You can overcome this difficulty by massaging the hands and lower arms. Begin at the fingers, using a rotary motion, and continue to the elbows, and knead the muscles over palm and back of hands.

Pimply? Well, Don't Be

People Notice It. Drive Them Off with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets.

A pimply face will not embarrass you much longer if you get a package of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights.

Cleanse the blood, bowels and liver with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel; there's no sickness or pain after taking them.

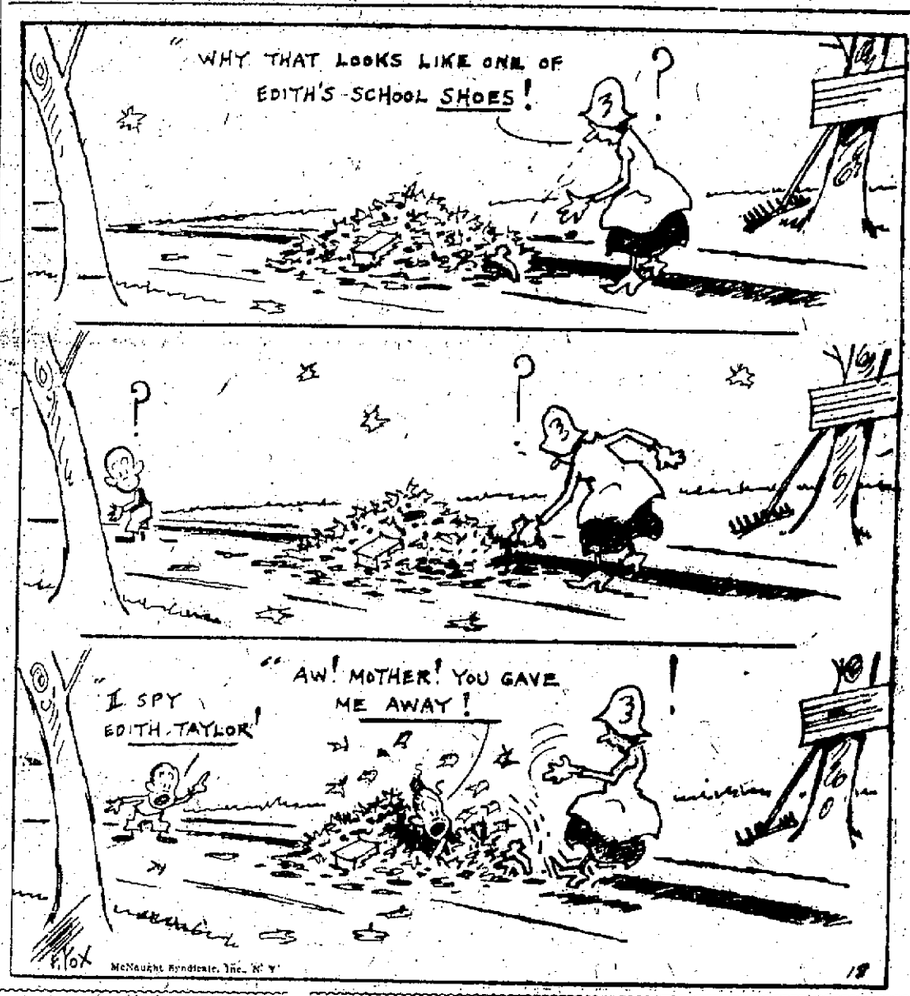

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.

No one who takes Olive Tablets is ever cursed with "dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition or pimply face.

Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil, you will know them by their olive color.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result. Take one or two nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 15c and 30c.—Advertisement.

One surprise after another for Tomboy's Ma--- --By Fontaine Fox

THIS LITTLE BABY GIRL

Was Benefited by the Good Her Mother Got from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Pittsburgh, Pa.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before my little girl was born, and the effect it had was wonderful. This will be the first child I have nursed as I had to bring my two boys up on the bottle. I was very nervous and worried, tired all the time, and after I read about the Vegetable Compound I tried it and kept on with it. I still continue its use and recommend it to my friends. You may publish these facts as a testimonial for your medicine."—Mrs. WM. KLINGE, 159 Plymouth S., Pittsburgh, Pa.

It is remarkable how many cases have been reported similar to this one. Many mothers are left in a weakened and run-down condition after the birth of the child, and for such mothers the care of the baby is well-nigh impossible. Not only is it hard for the mother, but the child itself will indirectly suffer.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is an excellent tonic for the mother at this time. It is prepared from medicinal roots and herbs, and does not contain any harmful drugs.

REMODEL PLACE FOR MONUMENT BUSINESS

George W. Bresee, Janesville monument dealer for many years but who sold out a few years ago, plans to re-enter the same business here. It was learned Wednesday. Mr. Bresee's building at 19 North Franklin street, formerly used as a garage, will be occupied along with a vacant lot adjoining it on the south. A cement floor is being laid.

LATEST MARKET REPORT

GRAIN

Chicago Review.

Chicago.—Assertions that leading British firms had concluded arrangements with Russian cooperative associations to finance export of Russian grain had some bearish effect on wheat Thursday during the early dealings. A decline in Liverpool quotations acted also to weaken the market. The opening, which varied from unchanged to ½c lower, with Dec. $1.06¼@1.06⅝, and May $1.10⅞@11⅛, was followed by a moderate setback. Corn and oats were easier, owing to a forecast of better weather. After opening unchanged to ½c lower, Dec. 77⅛@77½c, corn underwent a general sag.

Subsequently transient strength in corn gave something of an upturn to wheat, but the effect on wheat failed at last, the close was heavy, ½@1⅛c net lower, with Dec. $1.05½@1.05¾, and May $1.10½@1.10⅝.

Oats started unchanged to ⅛@¼c off, Dec. 42⅜c. Later the market declined a little more.

Provisions reflected weakness in hogs.

Ends Stubborn Coughs in a Hurry

For real effectiveness, this old home-made remedy has no equal. Easily and cheaply prepared.

You'll never know how quickly a bad cough can be conquered, until you try this famous old home-made remedy. Anyone who has coughed all day and all night, will say that the immediate relief given is almost like magic. It is very easily prepared, and there is nothing better for coughs.

Into a pint bottle, put 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, the full pint saves about two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, and gives you a more positive, effective remedy. It keeps perfectly, and tastes pleasant—children like it.

You can feel this take hold instantly, soothing and healing the membranes in all the air passages. It promptly loosens a dry, tight cough, and soon you will notice the phlegm thin out, and disappear. A day's use will usually break up an ordinary throat or chest cold, and it is also splendid for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness, and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, the most reliable remedy for throat and chest ailments.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

ECZEMA ON SCALP 4 YEARS

In Pimples. Lost Sleep. Cuticura Healed.

"I was troubled with eczema on my scalp for about four years. It first broke out in patches of little red pimples, which later scaled over and itched so badly that I could not sleep at night. My scalp was so sore that I could hardly comb my hair, and my hair kept falling out and looked dead.

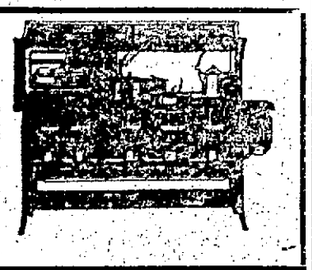

"I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample. I purchased more, and in two months I was healed." (Signed) Miss Lucille Martin, Rt. 3, Nebo, Ill.

Use Cuticura for all skin troubles.

Keep Hair Curly

Keep it fluffy, glossy and abundant

By Edna Wallace Hopper

I offer you my Wave and Sheen, to keep hair ever-curly, ever-glossy, as is mine. I do this because of countless requests. And because I learn that many women use very crude ways to do this.

My Wave and Sheen was perfected for me by the ablest of hair experts. It contains no grease, no oil, yet it gives my hair that wondrous luster which millions so admire.

I apply it with a tooth brush or a comb. Then I fluff my hair by upward combing as it dries. For an enduring curl, to last a week or more, I use curlers after the application.

If you want sleekness and luster without the curl, omit the curling efforts. That is what men do. Then you have smooth, glossy hair which always stays in place.

This is a perfect curling fluid, combined with a perfect sheen. I offer it to you because I want you to have the best. I intended to supply to women only my aids to youth. But I have also supplied my wave and sheen to all druggists and toilet counters. The cost is 75c. Edna Wallace Hopper, Business address, Waukesha, Wis.

You Are Wrong

When you take laxatives or give them to a child. There's a better way

Laxatives merely irritate the bowels, and reaction leaves them worse. The result is more and larger doses, then the laxative habit with millions.

Every doctor knows that. All warn people against this harmful habit. But few would adopt right living. So constipation has grown until it causes three-fourths of all human ailments.

Look at the grouchy people, the unfit, those with bad complexions. The great cause is sluggish bowels.

Medical science has now found the ideal way to fight that trouble. None can conceive of a method more perfect.

The product is Milk of Moss—a creamy delicious emulsion—a delight to take.

The basis is poca rock oil—an oil which can't digest, cannot be absorbed. So it lubricates the bowels, softens the contents, leads to easy, natural action.

With this is emulsified granulated nolyec moss. That is a sea moss which absorbs liquids. In the intestines each of those myriad granules swells into a little sponge. And they supply the needed bulk and roughage.

Milk of Moss does just what Nature should do. Healthy bowels lubricate themselves. Fibrous foods, if eaten in plenty, give the needed bulk and roughage. Then no stoppage will occur.

But sluggish bowels show those factors are deficient. Then Milk of Moss supplies them in a most efficient way. The result is natural action without harm or irritation.

No one who once tries Milk of Moss will ever return to drugs. It means correction in the model way. We want you to know it, and now. So we will buy a bottle for you if you send this slip.

60c Bottle Free K-10

Send this coupon with your name and address to NOLYEC LABORATORIES, INC. 579 East Illinois St., Chicago, Ill. and we will mail you an order on your druggist for a 60c bottle of Milk of Moss, which he will charge to us.

Only one bottle to a family. Cut out this reminder so you won't forget.

Gives You a Faster and Finer Oil Stove at Popular Prices

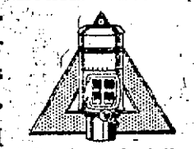

FOUR and a half million women have long experienced the remarkable cleanliness and dependable cooking service of the world-famous Blue Chimney New Perfection.

Now comes the New 1924 models with greater cooking-speed—that means fewer hours in the kitchen as well as big fuel economy.

And every woman will appreciate the new conveniences in this model as well as its attractive appearance. Designed with a sympathetic understanding of a woman's household needs. Offering altogether a completeness of cooking satisfaction unequalled at its moderate prices.

Go to the nearest New Perfection dealer today for a demonstration.

A surprising performance in oil stove cooking awaits you.

Over four and a half million American women who today use New Perfections have learned that this triangle trade mark and the LONG CHIMNEY BURNER identify the oil stove that doesn't smoke, doesn't smell, doesn't get out of order and keeps cooking utensils bright and shiny

Sizes and prices to suit every requirement.

In addition, your dealer will also show you our higher priced New Perfections equipped with those newly invented Superfex burners which equal the cooking speed and satisfaction of gas.

College Football Scheduled on Local Gridiron on Friday

Busy Man's Sport Page

By FRANK SINCLAIR

BROOKLYN, N. Y.—Wisconsin's sportsmen are beginning to realize it is up to them to push their plans when it comes to game and fish. First they opened up on the Winneshiek bottom campaign. Now they are working on a scheme for Lake Koshkonong. And along comes a desire to bring the Horicon marsh back to its standing of long ago. It is a good sign to see the awakening for the preservation of the natural gaming grounds of the state, grounds that may yet once more be ranked with the nation's best.

* * *

DOWN HERE in the east, they talk of those "good, old days." New York state's Adirondack region is going. New England's once abundant game and fish region is almost misty memory. The states along the Atlantic coast no longer boast of plentiful game. Crowded conditions of population had something to do with it, but lack of foresight, lost in selfishness, was a greater factor. Hunters of the past thought only of their own immediate desires for none had warned them that game doesn't last forever when killed faster than the birthrate.

* * *

KOSHKONONG, Horicon and the Winneshiek are essential to the well-being of Wisconsin's playground facilities. The moves to restore them are more important to the well-being of the state than any of the manifold political schemes that cause officials at Madison to while away their time. Their value is not in dollars and cents, but in health recreation and fun, those things that make up for the superficialities of modern life. They cannot be renovated over night nor in a few weeks. It is a matter of years, to be done for the boys and girls of tomorrow as well as the men and women of today. As the plans are going forward, lend your assistance, remembering: "Fish and game cannot vote."

On the Gridiron—Notre Dame university's football team will play a western eleven, to be chosen later at Los Angeles, here Christmas day, it was announced.—The army has accepted a request for a football game with St. Louis university at West Point, Oct. 4, 1924.

ONLY 35 OF 800 "REMBRANDTS" ARE GENUINE, HE SAYS

John C. Van Dyke

Art critics and connoisseurs all over the world are startled by the assertion of Prof. John C. Van Dyke that of all the 800 or more pictures attributed to Rembrandt only thirty-five are genuine ones. The others are the works of copyists, pupils and other artists under the influence of the great master, says Van Dyke, professor of the history of art and archeology at Rutgers college, New Brunswick, N. J.

MILTON TO PLAY NORTHWESTERN AT FAIR GROUNDS

Janesville will have an opportunity to witness college football on a local gridiron for the first time this season when Milton college eleven will clash with Northwestern of Watertown at the fair grounds here Friday at 2:30 p. m. Milton will play other games here as the season progresses, probably all of them on Fridays.

Large numbers of rooters from both the Milton and Watertown schools are expected for Friday's game, and a good attendance of Janesville people is also anticipated. Milton played several grid contests here last season and each one drew a good sized turnout.

MILTON ELEVEN IN GOOD CONDITION FOR GAME

(By Gazette Correspondent)

Milton—Coach Crandall was forced to practice in the Milton college gymnasium with the college eleven Wednesday night. The team drilled on signals and the line practiced charging with the second team line. Following this a skull practice was held.

The team is in good condition for the Northwestern game to be played at the Janesville fair grounds Friday afternoon. So far no ineligibility has been reported in the ranks of the first team. Meyer, a Janesville boy, has been troubled with a foot infection, but is better and will play an end position Friday. Bentz, regular center, has been troubled with a bad hand, but will be in good shape Friday.

The Brown and Blue backfield has sustained no injuries and is showing great speed. They should show up well Friday. The team is all pepped up and is out to show the Northwestern eleven a hard run. No dope can be given out as to the outcome of the game, but it is expected the two teams will be evenly matched.

U. W. Now Getting Seat Orders for Michigan Game

Madison—With the mail orders closed for the Minnesota homecoming football game at Madison on Oct. 27, when the old team rivals will play before 35,000 football fans, applications are now being received for the Michigan game three weeks later.

All mail applications for tickets for the Minnesota game will be filled and sent out under registered mail Oct. 19, while it is expected several hundred remaining tickets will be placed on open sale at the gymnasium, Madison, Oct. 22.

The mail orders for the Michigan game, which gives promise of being one of the biggest and most important games in the west this fall, closes Monday, Oct. 20, and the hundreds of football fans who neglected to send in their applications for the Minnesota game are now profiting by their experience and making their reservations for the Michigan game.

The Michigan game is to be played on Nov. 17, "Dads' Day," when the old grads will be back by the thousands to visit their Alma Mater and tell their sons and daughters about Wisconsin "in the good old days."

Because of the regulations this year which confine the student body to an "all university" section of the massive concrete stadium at Camp Randall, the students will not be able to procure tickets for anyone but themselves.

As was the case with the Minnesota game, the stadium will be divided between the students, alumni, visiting team and general public, each division starting at the 50-yard line.

With so much new material, so many sophomores playing on the varsity team for the first time, the Wisconsin team will develop during the entire season and should be at its best for the Michigan game.

ZEV ODDS SHORTEN AS RACE APPROACHES

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]

New York—On the surface as much excited as before the Dempsey-Firpo bout or the last game of the recent world series, New Yorkers today were holding their sporting breath, awaiting the time when Zev, the American horse, and Papyrus, the English derby winner, plunge off in the first big international horse race in history.

Zev made the mile and a quarter in 2:00 flat and the mile in 1:39 3-5, good time, fought for his head all the way and was breathing easily when pulled up.

Despite this, the odds shortened, some wagers being laid against him and others at reduced odds.

BADGERS LEAVE TO TACKLE INDIANA U.

Madison—After a week of practice interfered with by rains, the University of Wisconsin eleven leaves late this afternoon for Indianapolis, where they meet the University of Indiana football team Saturday.

The Badgers are almost an unknown quantity as they face Indiana. Coach Ryan will send his strongest lineup against the Hoosiers in his first Big Ten game.

Rain prevented a heavy scrimmage yesterday.

EVANSVILLE STARTS BASKETBALL WORK

Evansville — The basketball boys were called out for practice Tuesday evening under Coach Larkin. Twenty-five candidates reported and have had one practice since.

The Business Men's Racing association of New Orleans will include in the program for its coming winter meeting a memorial handicap for A. B. Dade, the veteran starter, who died in the Crescent City last season.

All records for individual bowling honors in Janesville this season were smashed Wednesday night, when Kressin of Bennison & Lane's walloped the pins for high single game of 267 and high three games of 645. His other scores were 201 and 187.

Kressin's performance was the big feature of the weekly session of the Industrial-Commercial league and his records give promise of standing for several weeks and perhaps for all season.

The R. F. B.'s showed renewed life Wednesday night and hit 2,556 for high total pins and 883 for high single game, triumphing over the Woolen Mills three straight and shoving them into second place from first, which they have held with the Chevrolet all season. By winning three from Shurtleff's, while the Chevrolet lost two to Bostwick's, the Gazette five hit into a tie for first place with the Chevies. There were several shakeups in the standings.

Besides Kressin, others who bowled 200 or better Wednesday were: Ellis, 203; Haven, 218; Schoenig, 221; Warner, 215; Richards, 214; Nelson, 202.

AVERAGE DRIVE 40 YARDS

By SOL METZGER
Copyright, 1923.

What is the length of the average drive in football?

The average drive on attack rarely goes more than 40 yards. One reason is that a backfield wearies of the task after a sustained effort of this length and frequently fumbles the ball. Another, and even more telling reason, is that a drive carrying about 40 yards usually finds itself inside the opponent's 20-yard line its real troubles begin. Up to this point it has been playing against ten opponents, for the safety man down the field rarely figures in a play. When the 20-yard line is reached this safety man is able to figure in the play. He no longer has to stay far down the field for two reasons. First, if a punt passes him now it will roll for a touchback. Second, he is still able to defend against long forward passes.

The nearer the attack draws to the goal-line, the smaller is the territory to be covered against forward passes. Long passes are difficult to execute at this point for the reason that they will cross the end zone line and automatically become touchbacks.

Every college in the land has happy and joyful recollections of the great defensive work of its teams on their goal-line. While the supporters of these colleges should take pride in the fighting spirit shown by their representatives in making those famous stands, the reason they are possible is due in great measure to the fact that all of their eleven players are in a position to and do get into every play. This condition does not hold elsewhere on the field.

Therefore, few attacks carry over forty yards. The chief reason is that more men are brought into play on defense at this point, one of whom has not been worn out by previous efforts to stop the attack.

SOL METZGER, our football expert and one of the foremost football coaches in the country, will answer any questions about playing football sent him, care of our sport department, if a return stamped envelope is enclosed.

PLAN FOR MOTOR RACES ON SUNDAY

Kansas City, Mo.—Despite rain, which has fallen almost without intermission for a week, preparations are going ahead for the 250 mile national motor car speed championship, which will be run here next Sunday if weather conditions are favorable. The race was to have been run today, but was postponed on account of the slippery condition of the wooden speedway bowl.

RUTH TO BARNSTORM AS GOLF ENTHUSIAST

Los Angeles—Babe Ruth of the New York Yankees will drive some long ones here, but it will be on the golf links, it was announced today. He will visit Los Angeles on a golf tour of the country, starting Dec. 1.

In his next important bout, Dave Shade of California, will have Mike Dempsey, the Rochester battler, as his opponent. The two are carded to meet soon under the auspices of the Arena A. C. of Boston.

SWIMMING CHAMP IS PRESENTED CUP

The Gazette cup for first place in the mile swim in the state meet held here Labor day has been forwarded to John Polk, winner of the event. The original cup proved unsatisfactory and a new one has been engraved.

If the Business Man Worked in the Kitchen—

Did you ever watch a business man at work in his office? Would he do without his filo case desk, telephone and dictaphone? No, of course not.

The McDougall Kitchen Cabinet cuts down your kitchen work and improves your efficiency much more than his office equipment helps the business man. You can't afford to do without a McDougall. You owe it to your family to conserve your strength.

He Would Have a McDougall

Here is the test, just let father get the meals for one day. Watch him tret back and forth from pantry to ice-box to cupboard to sink, dozens of times in the preparation of the most simple meal. He will suggest that you centralize your kitchen equipment and save all this unnecessary running around. He would say, "Go down to Wolf's and get a McDougall."

Your McDougall can be bought on convenient terms.

AND WE WILL INCLUDE WITH IT A DINNER SET OR A TEN PER CENT DISCOUNT.

one being a touching of the fingers at the tips at the chest and swinging the arms far back. It looked like one of the daily dozen exercises. His voice was good—showed nothing of weariness, no trace of the strain under which he had been laboring. He was given generous applause when he spoke of the record of Britain in paying her debts, and when he said the amount owed the United States was "quite a tidy sum" there was laughter.

The entente cordiale was established between speaker and audience at once. The crowd rose and cheered and applauded. Mr. George has such a habit of going to the political closet and taking down a new coat so frequently that one was not at all sure what attitude he would take in the address on Europe until it was all over.

The Crowded Street.

Outside in the street and all along the ways into the ampitheater were hundreds of policemen. A patrol wagon, manned, waited at the north end of the pavilion. A crowd packed the walks and "That's him!" was whispered raucously a half dozen times as some short, gray haired man alighted from a taxi. This crowd was orderly. One little ruction came when women passing bills demanding the freedom of Ireland were told to get away. One thing is sure, Lloyd George could not get the Irish vote if he ran for any office in America.

Given Close Attention.

Lloyd George was given marked attention all through. There was again an evidence of the American audience. He had his case to state and no matter how little one agreed with him, the pleader would be given a respectable hearing. He is the most outstanding figure in Europe today. He has added to his prestige by this, his first American trip. He is out of office but as an outsider perhaps wields a greater international influence that any man in the same position ever has in the world. What he said sounded like the gospel, based on facts, coldly and impregnably logical, and yet there was memory of the past which floated like a cloud over the whole address. It was of the hour when the 14 points were at stake, when they were first accepted and then chloroformed by Lloyd George, and ideals were swept away by the brutal exigencies of a materialistic moment.

The audience went away in a drizzling rain. Under foot was the slimy muck, the regulation mayonnaise dressing of Chicago streets on a rainy day. Lloyd George lingered on the platform. But there was none of the American hand shaking when a great man of our nation has finished an address and the curious and insistent arrive to give the American salute and be able to tell the children about it. Surrounded by the committee he waited until the crowd dispersed and went back to his hotel and to bed. He has scored another personal triumph here in America.

RECOVERS FROM SLIGHT ILLNESS OF WEDNESDAY

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]

Chicago—Former Premier Lloyd George of Great Britain and his party, after two days in Chicago, resumed his American tour today when his train departed at 10:05 a. m. for Springfield, Ill. The distinguished visitor was in much better physical condition than early yesterday and showed little evidence of his cold. He was to leave Springfield at 10 p. m. tonight for St. Louis, where he will spend Friday, departing Friday night for Louisville, Ky., where he will remain for the week-end.

After completing his address last night before an audience of 10,000 persons in the international amphitheatre at the stockyards, the British statesman went immediately to his hotel, where he had remained most of yesterday, and retired. His rest yesterday after his arranged schedule had been abandoned, enabled him to stand the strain of making the speech and members of his party said he had about recovered from the slight cold and fatigue which kept him in his hotel during the day.

Amplifiers Throw Voice

Little evidence of illness was apparent in the little Welshman when he delivered his address with his characteristic force and energy. Amplifiers made his voice distinct to his entire audience and partly to the thousands waiting outside in the rain, and wireless broadcast his message throughout the country.

He pronounced Secretary Hughes' proposal that a commission of business experts examine Germany's capacity to pay a "thoroughly practical, business-like proposal."

"The United States of America is absolutely impartial," he declared. "She has no interest in reparations. She has certainly no more interest in Germany than in anybody else. She is very well disposed toward France and, therefore, with a friendly country absolutely impartial and with a great fund of business knowledge at its disposal, represented in a body of that kind, it seems to me we would find a way to ascertain how much Germany can pay, and once we have done that, then we could march together to compel her to pay."

Despair No Solution

"It is a fatal mistake to drive the people of Germany into despair," he declared. Revolution, he said, was not the way to get reparations. The story of Germany, if it is pressed without reason, will be similar to that of the old saying that men, to escape a fire will plunge into boiling water, the British statesman said. He expressed regret that the policy of Clemenceau, Millerand, and Briand, with regard to the Ruhr had not been adhered to by France.

"Justice is shrewd, justice will be served, but justice is also temperate and justice is always patient," he said. "Vengeance is justice without reason. That we want to avoid.

"I regret that after such a great and glorious victory there should be questions of this kind to retard the fruition of peace. I remember the day of peace, the day of the armistice. It was a red dawn, but it was the dawn of peace and our hopes were high."

Europe he compared to a ragged and starving man looking through the windows at the well dressed and well fed people inside. The man needs clothes and food more than those inside, he said, but he cannot buy them because he cannot pay.

Without Parallel

"The whole machinery of trade and commerce is torn and shattered. Currency, exchange, the arrangements which business men have made through the centuries for interchanging commodities, all are gone," he continued.

The German reparations problem he declared to be one without parallel in history.

It is no use saying the country has great assets, forests and lands, railroads and mines and factories," he said.

"You cannot transfer those factories and mines from one land to another. But they say you can sell them. But the receipts are paid in marks, the dividends are distributed in marks, and until you give value to these marks you cannot collect any debt."

Three men and two women, charged with creating a disturbance by passing out hand bills relating to the freedom of Ireland, were arrested previous to the meeting.

LAKES CONFERENCE TO HALT CHICAGO

Organize Fight Against Lowering Lake Levels—St. Lawrence Waterway.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]

Milwaukee — Initiating a fourfold program of great lakes transportation and harbor improvement, representatives from eight states abutting the Great Lakes, opened a two day conference here today in an effort to effect a permanent organization and co-relate their mutual interests. The aims objectives of the conference are:

The preservation of lake levels and protection of harbors and channels.

Promotion of harbor development and port efficiency.

Co-ordination of water and rail lines so as to effect the expeditious transport of freight from inland points to lake ports and vice versa, enabling both to render economic as well as efficient service to commerce of the nation.

Protect Chicago Drainage

Incidentally, the conference is expected to pass resolutions condemning, even protesting the action of the Chicago Drainage district in diverting waters of Lake Michigan. It is claimed that such alleged diversion not only lowers the levels of the great lakes so as to lessen the volume of transportation, but that private interests are taking untold profits in power fro mthe "purloined" waters of the lake.

Somewhere in the back ground of the conference there stalks that golden dream of the western states—the great lakes-St. Lawrence waterway project. It has permeated the meeting and forms the underlying basis for the call of meeting William George Bruce, president of the board of harbor commissioners, Milwaukee, will address the conference on the water ways project.

Herman L. Ekern, attorney general of Wisconsin gave an address taking up the subject "legal phases of the diversion of water at Chicago."

ECKMAN TRIAL UNDER FULL SPEED IN ELKHORN COURT

was sworn and a recess taken Wednesday afternoon.

Outlining the attack of the state, through which it will seek to prove to the jury that Adolph Eckman is guilty of first degree murder and seek to have him imprisoned for life, Mr. Godfrey stated the physical facts and the blood spots bear out the story of the shooting as given by Mrs. Fritz. Development of the enmity of Eckman against Carl Fritz after for years being bosom companions and of his threats to shoot Fritz if he set foot on his place were referred to by the district attorney.

Enmity Develops

For years they were intimate friends, both of the same nationality. They drank together, had the same friends and were boon companions, Mr. Godfrey said. Then that intimacy developed into enmity on the part of Adolph Eckman, almost as strong as had been his friendship for Carl Fritz.

On two occasions Fritz took the part of men with whom Eckman had trouble and this aroused the latter's wrath, but they remained friends, the district attorney brought out. Fritz became tubercular and went to Mexico for his health, leaving behind a gun which he prized highly, not because of its material value but because of sentiment which he attached to it, it having been given him by a friend.

Ask for Gun

"He came back and married and a year ago last September Mr. and Mrs. Fritz called at the house to get the gun but it could not be found. Eckman said 'Do you think we stole the gun'? Fritz replied "No," and left. There was no show of feeling on Fritz' part. Eckman then turned to his farm hand with a considerable show of feeling and said 'What' would you have done in my place.'? The farm hand passed it off as nothing.

"On Oct. 30, Mr. and Mrs. Eckman entertained. The conversation turned to Mr. and Mrs. Fritz and both Mr. and Mrs. Eckman showed intense feeling and Eckman said, 'If Carl Fritz ever comes back on this place I will shoot him.'

"After he married the daughter of Victor Bjorklund, Carl Fritz shook off his old companions, ceased to carouse as he formerly had done, ceased to drink as he had done before, became interested in church affairs and other things in which his wife was interested. He became a new man. He had married into a wealthy family. He drove a better car than Eckman, had a truck for his farm and the feeling of hatred and jealousy grew in volume."

Tells Story of Shooting

The district attorney recited the events leading up to the shooting on Sunday July 15, practically the same as were given at the preliminary examination. He then outlined the story of the shooting as told by Mrs. Fritz and the attitude of Eckman and his wife after the shooting, in refusing to aid.

Gives Different Picture.

Two reasons why the defense expects Adolph Eckman to be acquitted were outlined in the opening statement by Mr. Mouat. One is that the killing was excusable under the rule that a homicide through accident or misfortune under any sudden provocation prohibits punishment for murder and second that, even was the homicide intended, it becomes justifiable and lawful if in defense of one's self, wife, property or home.

A different picture of the relations between Eckman and Fritz as the defense will show by testimony, was given to the jury by Mr. Mouat.

"Eckman and Fritz had been very friendly," said Mr. Mouat. "But uniformly, Eckman was the giver and Fritz the taker. Fritz was married and his wife was sick and went to Eckman's for six weeks, where she was cared for. Not one cent was demanded, nothing was offered. When Fritz had a fire in his house he came there with his wife and child and stayed for some time. Nothing was asked, nothing offered. When Fritz sold his farm in the fall of 1921, he came to Eckman's and lived two weeks. That was after his second wife had divorced him. In March, 1922, Fritz returned from Mexico and stayed at the Eckman home for four or six weeks. Their relationship all right then, no trouble between them.

Fritz Is Blamed.

All the trouble over the gun was forced by Fritz, the defense maintains.

"The day before his marriage, Fritz came there (the Eckman farm) and cleaned the gun and then it disappeared. Then the changed attitude comes. This man, who was willing to be the taker instead of the giver, acted like a small child when he could not find it and conceived the idea—I don't know whether he believed it himself or not—that Mr. Eckman had secreted the gun from him.

"In September, 1922, when he came to the Eckman place, he was so insistent that the gun was there, the Eckman's took him from room to room. Eckman then told him that if he felt that way not to come there.

"In October, Fritz came there demanding the gun and assaulted Mr. Eckman, taking him by the neck and attempting to choke him and then bragged about what he had done to Mr. Eckman.

Threat Is Alleged.

"Fritz' last visit was on July 15, but in the meantime the matter hadn't been forgotten. Getting this gun or seeking vengeance because he couldn't get it became an obsession with Fritz. In June, three weeks before this happened, he told a neighbor he was going to get that gun or he was going to kill the blankety-blank, (referring to Eckman). He said to a mutual friend of his and Eckman's, three days before the tragedy, 'I am going to get that gun or I'm going to get Eckman.'

"Into that home on the peaceful Sunday in July came Carl Fritz, nursing his wrath and his grudge. Picture Fritz, a man 39 years old, weighing between 180 and 190 pounds, six feet tall, a big strapping fellow; Eckman, 150 pounds and 54 years old.

Attack Alleged

"Fritz approached Oscar Johnson, who was lying sleeping under a tree, and asked if Eckman was in the house and Johnson replied that he was and asked, 'Shall I get him?' Then the gorge commenced to rise and Fritz said, 'No, I'll go in and see him.' Mrs. Eckman, sitting on the steps, saw Fritz in the yard and went in the house and locked both doors. She then went to let Johnson in the door, started to push against the door and got in. Then Carl Fritz grabbed Mrs. Eckman and shouted, 'If I don't get my gun today I'll kill you all.' Mrs. Eckman screamed for help. Eckman came out of a sound sleep, hearing his wife scream. Johnson had gone upstairs but he and Aenor Carlson came rushing down. The gun used in the shooting was in the bedroom and Eckman either took it with him or grabbed it later. Fritz then grabbed the gun held by Eckman. He got the gun away and then succeeded in striking Eckman with it, the two pieces of the gun falling on the floor. Someone got a churn dasher and Fritz grabbed hold of this, and Eckman and Johnson had hold, and all pushed him out the door. The stick loosened in some way and Fritz fell backward off the steps. Like a raging bull he started back to clean up the whole family. Then the shot came. Eckman never intended to fire that gun. He didn't know it was loaded and didn't even aim it.

"Whether it was nervousness or the trigger went off, no one knows," Mr. Mouat said.

Engineer Is Witness

George W. Posey, engineer employed by the county highway department, was the first witness called by the state, and he swore to dimensions and location of various objects on state's exhibits 1 and 2, which are maps of the Eckman home and the east part of the house and the backyard.

Although the defense admitted the accuracy of the charts, the district attorney spent much time in going into the dimensions of the rooms, size of the objects in the rooms and the relation of one to the other.

His testimony consumed more than one hour and it was after 5 o'clock when Judge Belden adjourned court and Posey had not concluded testifying.

100 WAYS To Make Money

By BILLIE WINNER

If I Could Fire Pottery—

IN another city I knew a woman who had a kiln. She fired pottery and made money doing it. There are thousands of school children and grown-ups, too, who make things from clay—ash trays, vases, bowls, paper weights, etc., all of which have to be fired.

Many of these people don't know where to have the work done. If I could fire pottery I would lose no time in telling the people of Janesville about it. I would go a step farther: I would tell them of the beautiful things they could make with a little clay, and maybe I could teach them how to model it pleasingly.

At any rate, I would let a Janesville Gazette Want Ad do the telling.

WOMEN MOBS ATTACK GERMAN FACTORY

REAL JUSTICE IN REPARATIONS, PLEA OF LLOYD GEORGE

PATIENCE, RATHER THAN VENGEANCE, URGED BY BRITON.

FOR HUGHES PLAN

Friendly Audience Hears Little Welshman in Big Chicago Stock Pavilion.

BY STEPHEN BOLLES.

Chicago, Ill.—The first thing that impresses one listening to Lloyd George is that he speaks English as we do in Janesville. One word only makes one for a moment think he has been imported from Boston—when he says France, he says "Frawnce." That is all. To hear him you might be thinking he was from Ohio, the hills of Posey county, Indiana, or from the state of Magnus Johnson. As I sat in the audience variously estimated from 8,500 to 12,000 persons in the auditorium at 43rd and Halstead street last night and noted the friendliness of the crowd to the heavy set, gray, shock-headed man on the platform, speaking from manuscript, breaking away occasionally from the text, the impression of something of the tremendous greatness of the nation in which we live was carved more deeply on the mind. Tier on tier of humanity rose from the crowded floor. When Lloyd George indicated that he hoped to reach as many people as possible within the limitations of the human voice someone from the far rear gallery shouted that he could hear perfectly way down there.

"That is a great comfort," replied Mr. George. "It looks as though you were at the other side of the continent."

Could Hear Distinctly.

So there was a good feeling established. With the amplifiers no one in all that vast audience was unable to hear distinctly. It was as though you sat only a few feet away from the speaker. Mr. George is not an imposing person. He is under height, has a face usually ruddy, that was slightly pale from weariness. He came to make eight speeches in America and up to last night had made 32. And he was unable to stand the pace. In fact it was 5 o'clock last evening before it was definitely settled that he would speak at all. He did not appear at the dinner of the publishers as scheduled. In his place came two of his companions and secretaries, one speaking in a language which we have associated with Lord Dundreary since "way back when," the other, Sir William Sutherland with wit and humor marking his brief address.

A Great Audience.

It was a magnificent setting at the pavilion at the stock yards where Lloyd George spoke. Magnificent because it was an American audience and that is enough of a setting for anyone who has a message.

There were few gestures—the chief

HAS TRAVELED 170,000 MILES IN P. O. SERVICE

H. A. PALMER

H. A. Palmer retires Monday after 20 years' service as a rural carrier out of the Janesville postoffice, and makes a few suggestions for the good of the service. It is estimated that he has gone 170,000 miles by horse and auto—but most of it with horse.

PLAN TO CHANGE "Y" CONSTITUTION

Wisconsin Man Presents New Federation Plan; Bryan at Convention.

Cleveland — Additional plans of federation were ready for presentation today to the constitutional convention of the Y. M. C. A. here.

The first, which provides for the creation of an international council of not more than 300 members and for an independent judiciary, was presented by Judson G. Rosebush, president of the Patton Paper company of Appleton, Wis., yesterday. No less than 10 proposed constitutions will be submitted.

William Jennings Bryan was among those who attended today's sessions. He arrived here late yesterday and plans to leave this afternoon.

"I'm just attending because I'm interested in the work and I'll have a chance to meet many friends," he said.

Attack Big Rock Tomb of Miners

Bingham, Utah—For 36 hours, six crews, working in relays, have been striving to penetrate the mammoth pile of rock and mine timbers which has entombed and probably killed four workmen and the superintendent of the Utah-Apex Metal mine. No trace of the men has been found and mine officials say it will be a miracle if the entombed miners are taken out alive. The body of Foreman Dan Eden, nearest to the level when the cave-in occurred, was recovered yesterday.

WETS INJURE LAW AGENT

Minneapolis — Every available prohibition enforcement agent here was ordered to New Munich, Minn., today following receipt of reports of a fight between liquor law violators and enforcement agents in which one of the federal men suffered a fractural skull. The injured man is A. L. Whitney, special prohibition agent attached to the Minneapolis office, who, according to meager advices received here, was hurt when he, with several other agents, sought to prevent a gang of men from stealing a quantity of beer which was seized when federal agents raided a brewery at New Munich Monday night.

MISSING BOAT SAFE IN PORT

Superior—Overdue 22 hours, the steamer Frontenac of the Cleveland-Cliffs fleet steamed into Superior harbor at 5 p. m. Wednesday. Fear had been expressed that a mishap had befallen the steamer. Captain P. E. Murray, veteran skipper, said the boat was held up in Thunder Bay, due to heavy smoke from forest fires, a low fog and a severe rain storm.

DRY ATTACK OPENS IN N. Y.

New York—United States Attorney Hayward today filed 54 injunction and common nuisance suits in federal court, under the Volstead act, to close alleged wet saloons, cafes, restaurants and cabarets in this city. The names of the places were not available this morning as the complaints in the various cases had not been filed. The evidence on which the suits were based was obtained by Assistant U. S. Attorney John Holley Clark.

CHRISTIAN EDUCATION FOR MORAL ILLS, PLEA OF BAPTIST SPEAKER

La Crosse—Ku Klux Klan excesses, flapperism, bootlegging and all other moral ills can be cured finally by Christian education alone, the Rev. W. F. Chalmers, D.D., told the Baptist state convention here today.

America is summoning the Sunday school to measure up to its job for good citizenship.

The secretary's report showed that the Roundy memorial fund has aided 58 churches in building projects in 14 years.

Idaho Chinese, Miners for 60 Years, See Rail Train for First Time

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]

Lewiston, Ida.—Although each has reached the age of 77 years, the first time Mah Yung and Pun Loi ever saw a railroad train was yesterday, when they boarded it at the town of Greer, 60 miles east of here, in coming to this city on the first leg of the journey to their native city, Canton, China.

For 60 years the aged Chinese had been at the mining camp of Pierre City, 35 miles from Greer, the railroad point, and this is the first time since entering the camp they had caught a glimpse of the outside world.

Until two years ago they were engaged in placer mining, their age forcing retirement at that time. At one time there were 800 Chinese in Pierre City. Now, after the departure of Mah Yung and Pun Loi, but two remain.

When heading for Pierre City in the gold rush days, the Chinese walked the distance from Portland, Ore., almost 600 miles.

COURT ASKED TO CLOSE UP PLACE IN SO. JANESVILLE

District Attorney S. G. Dunwiddie on Thursday filed papers in the Rock county circuit court seeking an injunction to close one of the two places in South Janesville on the allegation that it was a "common and public nuisance."

Charged as Nuisance.

The proceedings were brought against O. J. Dietz, stated to own the building, a frame structure, at one time carrying the sign of being a sanatorium, H. R. Blay, said to have a land contract on the property, and Roy Stoddard, tenant. Under the provision of the National prohibition law, a district attorney can bring action in the name of the government against owners and keepers of public nuisances. Granted a permanent injunction from the court, the nuisance is closed up for a period of one year for all purposes so that no revenue can be obtained for the property as long as the injunction is applied.

Liquor Kept and Sold.

The complaint set forth that several affidavits have been obtained charging that intoxicating liquor has been sold and kept for sale at the alleged resort. The case of Charles Schaffner, convicted of possession in both Beloit and Janesville is made a part of the record. It is alleged that on Oct. 1, 1922, there was a sale to Laura Zbleski. A temporary injunction is requested for violation of the Volstead laws. Under the terms of the law the building shall not be occupied for one year after the judgment is obtained in the event the restraining order is granted.

Invoke Injunction Law.

This is the first time the injunction feature of the prohibition laws has been applied to close up the South Janesville resorts. For many years the two buildings at the railroad center have figured notoriously in the criminal court records of the county. The success with which different occupants of the resorts have flourished despite raids, arrests and trials, has given been a subject of county board action without results.

The injunction application will be considered by Judge George Grimm at the first opportunity. Judge Grimm is now holding court in Jefferson and is due to open the Green county term at Monroe next week.

GOVERNORS INJURED IN AUTO UPSET

Colitic, Ind.—Governors Charles R. Mabey of Utah and J. M. Dixon of Montana and their wives were slightly injured when their automobile overturned. They were able to proceed to West Baden for the annual conference of governors, to which they were enroute.

SEE OPTIMISM IN NORTHWEST

Washington—Reports of a more favorable turn in the agricultural situation in the northwest were presented to President Coolidge today by Julius H. Barnes, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, and Leon Shaw, editor of the Billings, Mont., Gazette.

VOTE TO SELL TEMPLE

Oshkosh — The Masonic organizations here have approved the proposed sale of the present Masonic temple to Julius Kline of Eaton, Pa., who plans to establish a dry-goods store there.

SOCIETY SUFFERING GROWING PAINS, IS GANFIELD DIAGNOSIS

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]

Eau Claire — Society is suffering from growing pains, according to Dr. W. A. Ganfield, president of Carroll college, Waukesha, Wis., speaking before the Northwestern Teachers association here today.

"The world just now is running faster in the development of material resources than in the knowledge of how to use them," said the educator. "We are making a more swift pace in mechanical invention than we are in social organization.

"The next step will be an attempt of the human mind to define and create right social attitudes, correct social organizations, harmonious, contented, prosperous social groups and human societies."

STATE WITNESSES OPEN TESTIMONY IN ECKMAN TRIAL

COURT CROWDED

Climax Expected Thursday When Mrs. Fritz May Take Stand.

Preliminary testimony in the state's case against Adolph Eckman, Sharon farmer, charged with the murder of Carl Fritz, Johnstown farmer, at the Eckman farm July 15, 1923, now on trial in the Walworth county circuit court here, occupied the morning session Thursday.

Nine witnesses testified for the state. From the details into which the state went Thursday morning concerning the views one would have sitting in the automobile in the Eckman yard, as Mrs. Fritz did on the day of the shooting, it is believed the prosecution depends almost entirely upon the story of Fritz' widow to obtain conviction.

Pictures of the Eckman house taken from the car as it stood on the day of the murder, were introduced in evidence.

Word that the jury had been completed, Wednesday afternoon brought the largest crowd Thursday that has been in attendance at the trial. They crowded into the small court room, occupied every available seat and stood at the sides, and surged forward in the middle aisle. Many sat through the dinner hour in order to hear the afternoon's testimony.

Attired in deep mourning, Mrs. Fritz sat with Mr. Fritz' sister, Mrs. Sandquist, on the platform back of District Attorney Alfred Godfrey and Attorney J. W. Page, Elkhorn, who is assisting in the prosecution. Mention of details of her husband's death brought tears to her eyes.

At times she covered her eyes with her handkerchief. Seated behind her in the audience was Mrs. Eckman, wife of the defendant. Eckman, showing no signs of nervousness, talked with his counsel, M. O. Mouat, Janesville, and Charles Sumner, Delavan.

Climax on Thursday.

It is expected the climax of the state's case will come Thursday afternoon, when Mrs. Fritz may take the stand and tell her version of the shooting. It will be her story against that which will be told by Mr. and Mrs. Eckman, Oscar Johnson, Eckman's partner, and Aenor Carlson. The state probably will close its testimony Friday and there is a possibility that the jury will have the case by late Saturday. Many witnesses, however, are to be called by the defense.

Testifying for the state Thursday morning were: George W. Posey, Elkhorn; Miss Rella Moss, Whitewater photographer; Gus Johnson, Williams Bay; Edward Huber, Sharon; Mrs. Ida Larson, Fairfield; Sheriff Hal Wylie, Elkhorn; E. C. Woodford, Darien; L. R. Lackey, Delavan, and Dr. Elmer Hoffman, Sharon.

Threat Is Told.

"If Fritz ever comes on this place again, I will shoot him," was the statement made by Adolph Eckman at his home Oct. 30, 1922, according to the testimony of Mrs. Ida Larson, Fairfield. On cross examination, Attorney Sumner sought to bring out that the statement followed one that there had been a quarrel over the gun and Fritz had been forbidden to visit the Eckman home. The one statement was all Mrs. Larson could remember hearing.

Feeling Is Indicated.

Apparently with the intention of showing the feeling which Eckman held toward Fritz, Ed Huber, chairman of Sharon township, said Eckman told him that "that darn Carl Fritz came around and took the boy away." The statement was made, Huber said, at the public sale held at the farm which Eckman had rented to Ed Peterson. The witness said Eckman told him the reason Peterson hadn't been successful on the farm was that Carl Fritz got him to stay out late and he, Peterson, didn't attend to business.

Gus Johnson, Williams Bay, an uncle of Mrs. Esther Fritz, said he talked with the Eckmans at Delavan, June 1, and at that time they showed an unfriendly feeling toward Carl Fritz.

Photograph Identified.

George W. Posey, Elkhorn, continuing his testimony when court opened at 9:30, identified the photograph of the Eckman house as having been taken from the car in the position Mrs. Fritz said it was the day of the murder. Sheriff Hal Wylie and E. C. Woodford gave corroborative testimony. The state seeks to show that the back porch, where the shooting took place, was visible from the car.

L. R. Lackey, Delavan undertaker, testified concerning conditions as he found them at the home the day of the murder. He said he asked Mrs. Fritz what had happened and she said, "My husband was shot." He said he then asked who by. This man," was her reply, looking at Eckman, Lackey said.

Died From Hemorrhage.

Dr. Elmer Hoffman, Sharon, said that Fritz died from a hemorrhage resulting from a gun-shot wound. Asked where he saw blood on the ground, he said, "All around the body." On cross-examination, Attorney Mouat asked him if at the preliminary examination he had not testified that there was blood all around the steps of the porch, but he said he did not remember that he had so testified.

Miss Rella Moss, Whitewater photographer, was called to identify photographs taken at the Eckman farm. The defense, however, admitted them as being pictures of the Eckman farm taken from the car.

The jury finally chosen contains nine men, mostly farmers, and three women.

The jurors are:

Mrs. Anna Valley, Anthony Vogt, Mrs. F. W. Moeser, all of Lyons; Henry Ward, Troy Center; Paul Gavin, Ralph Wilson, both of Linn township; Mrs. E. Mayhew, Spring Prairie; Albert Dennis, East Troy; George White, Sugan Creek; Harold Douglas, Lake Geneva; Fred Vaughn, Spring Prairie, and O. Zaspel, Honey Creek.

Lines of Attack.

Lines of attack under which the state will attempt to obtain conviction and the defense, the acquittal, were outlined by District Attorney Alfred L. Godfrey and Attorney M. O. Mouat, after the jury

SHE PLANS TO MARRY AN AMERICAN HUSBAND

Clara Dux.

Clara Dux is single. But the famous lyric soprano of the Chicago Opera company says she doesn't want to be. She has just returned to the U. S. from a season abroad. And, she says: "I want an American husband, because they always give a woman everything she wants. They spoil her, oh, so beautifully." So some U. S. gentleman is going to get snared.

Beribboned Turks Must Throw Away All Old Baubles

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]

Constantinople — Beribboned officials and former officials are perturbed by an order from Angora throwing all the old baubles into the discard. The order applies to all decorations conferred by former Turkish governments, whether worn by Turks or by foreigners. The only medal authorized by the Kemalist administration and the only Turkish decoration that will be recognized hereafter is the "Order of Independence."

RACINE WINNER OF DRUM CORPS PRIZE

Takes $1,000 Award for Best in Legion Contest; Bands Decided Today.

BULLETIN.

San Francisco—Opposition to the recognition of soviet Russia and the demand for annual registration in all the United States formed the high lights of the American Legion's Americanism committee report, submitted to the conference today.

San Francisco.—The $1,000 American Legion prize and trophy for the best drum and bugle corps entered in the organization's annual convention parade, Tuesday, was awarded to Racine, Wis., late yesterday. Miami, Fla., was second, and Pasadena, Cal., third.

Announcement will be made today of the winners in the band contests. The bands, which have been competing during the last two days for the $1,000 cash prize and numerous trophies are:

The Monahan Post band, Sioux City, Ia., last year's prize winner at New Orleans; the Kansas Department band of Wichita, Kan., Beaver Dam, Wis., Denver, Colo., The Old Gray Mare Band of Brownwood, Texas; and the Zane-Irwin Post band, San Francisco.

An amendment to the constitution of the United States, to give congress power concurrent with that of all the states to limit and prohibit the labor for hire of children under 18 years of age, was recommended by the child labor committee of the American Legion here today in a report.

STORE LOST IN NIGHT FIRE

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Delavan — Fire Wednesday night totally destroyed the East Delavan General Merchandise store, of which Claude Brown is the proprietor. Two reports of an explosion in the store were heard and the building was thickly enveloped in flames. The destruction of the store was completed so quickly that nothing was saved. The building was owned by the George Kirchner estate.

GOVERNORS FACE SHARP ACTION ON DRY ENFORCEMENT

West Baden, Ind. — Prohibition enforcement by invigorated action on the part of federal government was the overshadowing question today before the annual governors' conference, as preparations were being made by a group of the state executives to issue a "memorial to the people of the United States," suggesting a national drive for literal enforcement of the Volstead act.

While the address was being drafted by Governors Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania and William E. Sweet of Colorado, supporters of the move were aligning the conference field for a record test on the enforcement issue, and there were indications that when the governors meet President Coolidge in Washington Saturday, an accepted program of re-organized federal activities would be presented.

Governor Baxter of Maine said, before an informal gathering of several governors today, that "the time has passed when vague declarations for law enforcement or law and order may be regarded as a statement of public policy by government officials."

The prohibition issue was thrust into the conference at the opening session last night by Governor Cary A. Hardee of Florida, who declared in his response to the welcome of Governor Warren T. McCray of Indiana, that "the activities of the wet minority have created a vexatious problem for this gathering."

GRIMM SENTENCES LIQUOR VIOLATORS

Winkler, Watertown, Handed Stiff Punishment; One Divorce Granted.

Jefferson—Byron Milbury, Fort Atkinson, was granted a divorce by Judge George Grimm, Wednesday afternoon, in circuit court, from Evangeline Milbury, on the grounds of cruel and inhuman treatment. They have been separated since July.

Walter Tripke, Watertown, charged with selling intoxicating liquor, entered a plea of guilty last week and was given two months and $200 fine. If he cannot pay the fine, he will get four months additional, in jail.

R. C. Winkler, Watertown, guilty on five of seven counts of liquor violation, including former conviction, sale of liquor, two on having it in his possession and maintaining a nuisance, was sentenced to eight months in jail and $1,000 fine. If he cannot pay the fine he will be given 12 months additional.

The case of J. E. Gillispie, Watertown, against Joseph A. Heineman, Chicago, a damage suit, is being tried today.

The court will adjourn this afternoon until January.

DOCTOR IS UP BEFORE JURY

White Plains, N. Y.—Dr. W. J. Meyer, who attended Mrs. Gertrude Gorman Webb before her death, was the first witness Thursday before the grand jury. Charles Webb, the husband, also appeared in the witness room.

EDISON IS AGAINST HIS FRIEND, FORD, IN PRESIDENCY CONTEST

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]

New York—Thomas A. Edison, electrical wizard, in one of the first interviews he has granted newspapermen, spoke on Wednesday of the presidential possibilities of his friend Henry Ford and declared that it would "spoil a good man" if the nation sent Ford to the White House.

Mr. Edison expressed the opinion that the automobile manufacturer was more valuable to the nation as a private citizen and then turned to the prediction made recently by Charles P. Steinmetz, inventor, connected with the General Electric company, that electricity eventually would reduce the working day to four hours. With this opinion, Mr. Edison agreed.

Mr. Edison, however, was not sure that the four hour day would be a good thing for the nation. He expressed fear that too large a leisure class would be created and that this would have a bad effect, particularly on the young.

RIVER TORRENTS STILL THREATEN OKLAHOMA TOWNS

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Oklahoma City, Okla. — Flood water of the North and South Canadian rivers, which met last night at the junction of the two rivers just below Eufaula, Okla., today was rushing toward Vian, where they will pour into the Arkansas, itself barely below flood stage. The water was receding today at Eufaula, and at the Henrietta water works. A check revealed no reported loss of life and damage being largely confined to highways and railroad property. Thousands of acres of farm lands were still under water today.

At Henrietta, the city water works, threatened with destruction last night, was believed to have withstood the force of the waters.

In Oklahoma City, where the water of the North Canadian had receded several feet, work of rehabilitation was being pushed.

Only 240 refugees remained today dependent on relief organizations here. Search for the bodies of six persons, reported drowned, continued today. Two bodies have been recovered.

BLAINE WON'T ATTEND MEET

Washington.—Thirty-two state governors have accepted President Coolidge's invitation to attend the conference here Saturday on law enforcement.

Ten governors, including Blaine of Wisconsin, have informed the president that they will be unable to attend. Governor Walton of Oklahoma will be represented by Assistant Attorney General King.

Governors who will attend include Groesbeck of Michigan and Preus of Minnesota.

RUSH REPORT ON WALTON

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]

Oklahoma City, Okla.—The investigation committee of the house of Oklahoma today was rushing to completion a report of its inquiry into the official conduct of Governor J. C. Walton, scheduled to be presented to the house tomorrow.

With its submission the fight between the friends and enemies of the executive will be brought into the open and the question determined whether impeachment charges shall be filed before the senate.

The house did not meet today and the senate was to hold only a brief session.

FORMER DIPLOMAT TESTIFIES AGAINST MRS. HELEN STOKES

New York—Horace G. Knowles, formerly in the diplomatic service of the United States in Rumania, Bulgaria, Bolivia and Peru, today testified at the re-trial of W. E. D. Stokes' suit for divorce from his wife, Mrs. Helen Elwood Stokes, that he had seen Mrs. Stokes in 1914 on the stairs leading to the apartment of Edgar T. Wallace, correspondent. Clarence A. Smith, process server, and Charles Murphy, deputy sheriff told of having made frequent and unsuccessful visits to the tea room in the house where Wallace had his apartment in an attempt to serve a subpoena on Mrs. Mary McNulty, head waitress of the tea room.

FINDS COW AND NEW FAMILY ON R. R. TRACK

Oshkosh—Safety rules, being emphasized by the Eastern Wisconsin Electric company, saved the life of a cow and her new-born calf on the Oshkosh-Fond du Lac interurban line. The motorman of a car at night observed cattle on the track. Proceeding with caution, he found a white cow of the herd of Assemblyman Lamb, Fond du Lac county, on the right of way. Stopping his car, he found the animal had just been visited by the stork.

Berlin Is Prepared to Rush Troops; Many Killed in Mannheim Rioting.

BULLETIN

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Berlin — The government of Saxony, having ignored the ultimatum of General Von Mueller, commander of the Reichswehr in that state, expiring at 11 a. m. today, the general sent a second letter to Premier Zeigner, saying:

"As you have not thought it fit to answer my letter I beg to inform you that I have preferred the affair to the minister."

Gelsenkirchen—A mob of women attacked and badly damaged the administration building of Mannesman Iron works today. The assault was in protest against non-payment of wages due the women's husbands. The women also raided food shops and afterward visited nearby farms, searching for food, in one instance seizing a peasant's cow, pigs and chickens.

PREPARE TO RUSH TROOPS AS SAXONY THREATENS

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]

Berlin—The frequency of rioting in Saxony and the defiant stand taken by the socialist-communist ministry at Dresden are causing much concern here that the central government is prepared to send additional troops into Saxony should the situation require them.

The Saxon diet last night rejected a motion of lack of confidence in the government by a vote of 48 to 45.

FAVORS DRIVE TO REDUCE TAX LOAD

Senator Borah Wants Move at Next Session of U. S. Congress.

New York — Senator William E. Borah, of Idaho, here for conferences in connection with prospective coal legislation, today issued a statement favoring a drive at the coming session of congress to reduce the nation's tax burden.

"I am very much in favor of tax reduction at this session of congress," he said. "We cannot act too speedily so long as we act with information and intelligence. If the fearful tax burden now being carried can be relieved, as Senator Smoot, who is as well advised as any one declares to the extent of $500,000,000, let us do so as soon as possible.

"The view expressed by Senator Smoot that the man of small income should be favored, is good news also.

"I hope that the new chairman, Senator Smoot, with his usual industry and ability, will urge his program and urge it at this session. If we do not begin an active campaign for reductions, we will likely drift into a program of increasing the taxes. There will be plenty of plans to increase the burden. The best way to meet them, is by an active program to reduce. Reduce and reduce now."

Senator Borah made it clear that his statement did not refer to the general tax reduction program being proposed by Secretary of the Treasury Mellon.

MAN JAILED AS AIRPLANE THIEF

Los Angeles—The city jail housed its first alleged airplane thief today when Paul Sparks, aviator, was booked on a charge of stealing a flying machine from a local air port. According to the police, Sparks stole the plane and flew it to Yuma, Ariz., where he was arrested.

WHEN YOU WERE—

When you were a child and had to go to Sunday School you were irked because the learning of the bible texts and scriptural lessons was forced upon you. You declared that when you grew up you would throw all this aside. But the bible and the story of religion is intensely interesting if one gets the right early viewpoint. That is why the Gazette is printing each week in the Saturday and Sunday Gazette the Sunday school lessons by William Southern. He has accomplished a great work in making the stories of the bible and the great teachings appealing to every reader. This is one more feature of the Daily Gazette that makes it welcomed in every home.

Apologetic Woman Writes Check to Cover Overdraft

It really happened.

According to Harry Haggart, president of the First National bank of Janesville, a notice was sent to a woman who had carelessly over-drawn her account in a bank.

"We received a letter from the lady stating that she was sorry she had over-drawn her account and, that she was inclosing her check to cover the amount," he said.

BATTLE OVER WOMAN'S BODY

Oshkosh—An argument at a local undertaking establishment as to the disposal of the remains of Mrs. Nina Treichel, who died here Sunday, became so heated that Thomas Young of Omro, father of the deceased, was arrested on a charge of assault and battery, preferred by Henry Treichel, husband of the dead woman. The funeral was held Wednesday afternoon. Mr. Young pleaded not guilty in court and a further hearing will be held Oct. 30. It is said the two men had different ideas as to where the deceased should be buried and finally came to blows.

COUNTY BANKERS PLEDGE SUPPORT

To Establishing of Livestock Agent for Rock County Under Farm Bureau.

Members of the Rock County Bankers' association meeting in the Grand hotel Wednesday night, voted financial support, if necessary, for the office of a county livestock agent to work under the direction of the Farm Bureau. The bankers evidenced a desire to participate in the building program to increase agricultural revenue in Rock county.

There were 35 present, the meeting and banquet being one of the best held recently by the county association, having a membership of 20 banks.

"We all know the importance of farming, and the effect present conditions have had on deposits from the rural section," declared Harry Haggart, who presided. "The bankers want to aid any sane movement to bring about the return that farming warrants."

Will Aid Bureau.

The proposed program of agricultural development with funds raised through the Bureau was explained by J. A. Craig, who urged the bankers to use their influence in the support of the new program.

"Farmers should be organized with with sufficient revenue their can be established a real business organization; to render a service to the farmers and you bankers that will bring the money to the farmers," it was declared. "Our show herds and advertising has put Rock county into the spot-light of attention and it is urgent that the county be fully prepared to realize from this advertising. You bankers must help the farmer to raise the standards of the livestock of this county. Right now there is a demand for every dairy animal that can be spared and an opportunity for farmers to realize returns."

Banking Lectures.

The bankers' association voted to pledge at least $1,000 for the office of the livestock agent in the event there was not sufficient membership obtained in the Bureau campaign. The Bureau was plainly told by the bankers that more support would be forthcoming in the event more business management was put into effect.

Other speakers were H. C. Hemmingway, Janesville; Robert O'Mallory and W. E. Walker, Madison. The association was urged to establish regular lectures in the schools of the county on banking. Bankers will be given an outline of talks on the fundamental questions on banking to be given in the schools. The need of financial advertising was also discussed.

"Bank advertising will increase, but most banks are adjusting their advertising appropropriation to be measured by the yardstick of results," declared Mr. Walker, Madison.

BRODHEAD

Brodhead.—Almost 200 members and guests sat down to a banquet in the Brodhead opera house, Tuesday night, given by the Chamber of Commerce, and served by the American Legion Auxiliary. Following the banquet there were vocal solos by Gilbert Swartz, some short talks by secretaries from other Chambers of Commerce, followed by the address of the evening by Mr. Wallis, of the Fells Commission of Chicago, who spoke on the Economic Conditions confronting the American people of today. General discussion followed and the meeting closed with singing "On, Wisconsin."

Cabbage Market Has Few Changes

Madison—The cabbage market has been unsettled, with few changes in price during the last two weeks, the state department of markets reports in its bi-weekly news letter. With the advent of colder weather the department said that it expects prices to improve and the market show more life.

"The stock is generally of good quality and good yields have been reported," the letter said. "Prices paid to growers for Danish stock in the Racine-Kenosha district have ranged from two to three times more than was paid a year ago. Kraut factories have made large cuts this year and the domestic stock is almost cleaned up in the state. Some of the late cabbage is now going into storage for winter shipment."

The marketing department said that most of the large dealers are availing themselves of the state inspection system.

VIOLATIONS OF SPUD GRADING CHECKED UP

Madison—Violations of the Wisconsin potato grading laws are being checked and prosecutions will follow where there are deliberate violations of the statutes, the state department of markets announced today. Grading supervisors are now working in the potato sections inspecting grade work and assisting growers, the department said.

DIVORCED WIFE OF DR. COOK TAKING HAND IN TRIAL

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]

Ft. Worth, Tex.—Mrs. Marie F. Cook, divorced wife of Dr. Frederick A. Cook, arctic explorer and oil operator, who, with 15 others, is under indictment for the alleged use of the mails to defraud, took the lead in the trial of her husband in federal court Wednesday. She did not testify but declared in the court room that "she was there for a purpose." Recently she was granted a divorce from the oil operator after spectacular allegations had been made by Mrs. Cook which were answered by Dr. Cook with the statement that "he had been framed."

State Opens Assault.

The government went forward steadily in its attempt to prove the practice of fraud, and began its assault on Cook, S. E. J. Cox and the other co-defendants of the petroleum producers' association.

With W. C. Whitmer, realty operator of Fremont, Ia., on the witness stand as a prospective customer of Cook's, the government showered him with sales literature and letters sent out by the company which he was requested to identify.

Whitmer was shown a credit slip of $1 and asked to identify it. He replied it was a dividend check from the Producers' company.

Dr. Cook Unperturbed.

Dr. Cook listened attentively to the proceedings, nodded or whispered to Mrs. Cook and former Senator Joseph Weldon Bailey, his chief counsel, and appeared unperturbed.

At one point in the examination of Whitmer, Cook nodded his head vigorously in the affirmative. That was when government prosecutors pointed to literature allegedly sent out by Cook which said:

"The meanest man in the world is the fraudulent oil stock promoter."

GENERAL PROPERTY ASSESSMENT IS UP

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Madison—The total Wisconsin general property assessment for 1923 was announced by the state tax commission today to be $4,846,765,610, compared to $4,664,407,451 for 1922. State taxes are to be distributed upon the basis of this readjusted valuation, A. J. Murland, secretary of the commission announced.

According to the tax commission totals the aggregate real estate assessment for the present year amounts to $3,983,228,987, or 4.28 per cent above the 1922 assessment. Personal property was valued by the commission at $863,536,623, or 2.22 per cent above the last year's assessment.

Rural Districts Down.

"Most rural districts show a decrease in value because of the decline in farm lands, but the market for city and village real estate has been so firm and active as to overcome the decrease in rural districts," the commission announcement said. "The principal increase in the value of personal property is in merchants' and manufacturers' stocks, public utilities and automobiles.

"There was a decrease of $34 in the unit value of automobiles but the increase in the number and grade of cars more than offset the decrease in value. The average value of horses is $3 less than in 1922, and the average value of meat cattle $3 more.

County Assessments.

Following are the assessments for the more important counties of Wisconsin:

County	All Property.	Real Estate
Brown	$ 94,673,970	75,273,418

MRS. HOLT FIRST WOMAN JUROR FOR MUNICIPAL COURT

To Mrs. Grace Holt, wife of the superintendent of the Janesville schools, falls the distinction of being the first woman to be summoned for a municipal court jury.

Her name remains as one of 18 on a list of jurors drawn to try the Ole Rossebo liquor case, the date for which has not been set, it having been continued from the scheduled day, Friday. Other names were drawn, but when the attorneys for the state and defense had finished striking off their quotes, 18 were left. From this group, 12 will be selected to hear the Rossebo case.

A new jury list was recently compiled for the municipal court, 20 per cent of the names placed in the box being those of Janesville women, thus establishing a new plan in this court.

The 17 men on the jury list for the Rossebo case are George Rudersdorf, W. W. Hield, A. A. Finkh, John F. Fathers, Frank Reach, Bert L. Gower, Glenn Turner, Martin Morse, George H. Cullen, Louis Conklin, Charles Hugell, William E. Kough, H. J. Casey, H. Hathorn, Garnet McVicar, Ralph Kamps, and James True.

NESTOS URGES U. S. SELL SURPLUS WHEAT TO WORLD MARKETS

West Baden, Ind.—Immediate establishment of a governmental agency with adequate powers to segregate the exportable American surplus of wheat and to dispose of it in the markets of the world upon the best terms obtainable was urged as a means of aiding the wheat farmer by Gov. Nestos asked each executive to lend assistance.

JURY FREES MAN OF SPEED CHARGE

Cop Says Car Hit 28 Miles—Under 15, Loeffler Says, and Wins.

Ray Loeffler, accompanied by Francis Cronin, drove down South Franklin street the latter part of September at a speed which they claimed was less than 15 miles an hour, although there was no speedometer on Loeffler's car by which they could tell the pace accurately.

Motorcycle Patrolman George Porter followed behind them and clicked his police speedometer just before arresting Loeffler for speeding. The speedometer registered a speed of 28 miles an hour.

Wednesday afternoon in municipal court before a six-man jury all three witnesses testified, and the jury, after 15 minutes' deliberation or less, brought in a verdict of not guilty. Loeffler was immediately discharged by the court and the jurymen were thanked by Judge H. L. Maxfield for giving of their time to the service of the court.

E. H. Ryan, Loeffler's attorney, brought out on cross-examination that Porter had possessed a search warrant so that he might go through the defendant's car. He sought to establish that the motorcycle patrolman bore a grudge against Loeffler, and the two witnesses for the defense stuck vigorously to their stories that the machine was going only 10 to 12 miles an hour.

Members of the jury were J. E. Cain, J. P. Cullen, William Bowen, Clem Tuite, Stephen Brosseau and B. F. Carey.

Police Raid Fitch—J. P. Fitch's place on Western avenue was again raided by the police sponge squad Wednesday afternoon, but no evidence of any liquor violation was found.

Steiner Favors Junior High Plan

Practically all the high and vocational school teachers were present at the meeting of the Hi-Y club Wednesday night. Informal singing was led by A. E. Bergman. Games were played.

Prin. W. W. Brown gave his views of the Hi-Y club and assured members of the support of the faculty. He asked them to use their influence among their school mates in a program of character building.

Faculty members gave their first impressions of this city when they arrived.

The meeting was closed with a talk by J. A. Steiner, who stated that in his opinion children in school at present had many advantages over those of some years ago. One of the ideas which he particularly favored was the establishment of the junior high school system. He said that one of the difficulties under the old system was the proper selection of courses which the junior high school has made possible. He also said that there seemed to be a spirit of fellowship between students and teachers which was entirely lacking a few years ago.

Referring to the Hi-Y organization, Mr. Steiner stated that he believed all members were unconsciously carrying out the ideals of the club in their own lives, knowing that if they did not it would reflect upon their organization.

Booster Degree Team Is Chosen

There was a large attendance from the camps of Rock county at the rally of the Modern Woodmen Booster club of Rock county, as guests of the Evansville camp, Wednesday night.

A class of candidates was initiated. The officers of Beloit camp and Foresters put on the work.

The following degree team was elected to put on the work at the Booster meetings: Consul F. A. Thornton, Beloit; Assistant Consul A. L. Meyer, Janesville; Past Consul P. McKinney, Clinton; Advisor F. W. Parker, Janesville; Banker E. Edwards, Evansville; Escort E. Wall, Clinton; Sentry S. Pelz, Clinton; and Watchman James Bly, Evansville.

The next meeting will be held at Milton Junction, Nov. 21.

The Booster quartet from Beloit enlivened the occasion Wednesday by a number of songs.

F. P. Starr, Janesville, delivered an address on the Modern Woodmen Sanitorium, maintained by the society for the benefit of its members.

After the program a luncheon and smoker were held.

Mrs. Griffin Dies After Operation

Mrs. John M. Griffin, 702 Court street, a lifelong resident of this city died at 4 p. m., Wednesday at Mercy hospital following a major operation.

Miss Bridget Mabel Brennan, 36, was born in Janesville May 2, 1889 and was married Feb. 2, 1913, in St. Patrick's church to John M. Griffin, Reedsburg.

Mrs. Griffin is survived by her husband; a daughter, Mildred; her mother, Mrs. J. B. Riley, Chicago; two sisters, Mrs. T. E. Burke, Baraboo, and Mrs. Dennis Clifford, South Dakota; one brother, John M. Brennan, Chicago.

She was an active member of the Catholic Women's Benevolent society, St. Joseph's branch No. 15 and the Catholic Daughters of America leaving a host of friends in this city.

The funeral will be held at 9 a. m., Saturday in St. Patrick's church and burial will be in Mt. Olivet cemetery.

BLUFF STREET TURNED INTO "MILKY WAY"

Ellsworth Brown, driver for the Janesville Pure Milk company, experienced a bit of excitement Thursday morning when his horse ran away on South Bluff street and spilled about 10 gallons of milk. Bottles were jolted out of the wagon and smashed on the pavement.

HALLETT GUILTY ON GUM CHEWING COUNT

Goldwyn Hallett was convicted on a charge of chewing gum in school at the morning session of the municipal trial held by the first hour public speaking class, Thursday, and was sentenced to pay a fine of 15 packages for use of the judge, Harry Wollin.

Evidence given by the defendant's witness, Bessie Ellis, was held insufficient. Able arguments were given by counsel, James Franklin and Ellis Jensen, the former for the plaintiff and the latter for the defendant.

The verdict was read by Carlos Palmer, foreman of the jury.

ANCIENT SKELETONS FOUND IN CALIFORNIA

Santa Barbara, Cal.—Fossilized remains of a mastodon, an elephant of a later era, and skeletons of human beings, buried for a period estimated to be between 7,000 and 10,000 years, were uncovered Tuesday at Point Magu, Ventura county, by John P. Harrington of Santa Barbara, a representative of the Smithsonian Institute of Washington.

Red Seal Concert and Operatic — DOUBLE-FACED — Number — List Price

Tosca—O dolci mani (Oh, Gentle Hands) (Puccini) Beniamino Gigli} 942 $1.50
Two numbers of intense and thrilling beauty. The first depicting a few moments of sad, sweet love-memory. Then in the second number, a few moments of false hope.

{The Juggler (Moszkowski) Piano Solo Sergei Rachmaninoff
Etude in F Minor (Dohnányi) Piano Solo Sergei Rachmaninoff} 943 1.50
In this remarkable piano record, hear Moszkowski's "Juggler" throw silver balls in the air, and finish off with a whirl. Then hear the subtle and tremendously difficult Etude of Erno Dohnanyi. Both played with splendid virile power.

Light Vocal Selections

{Honey, Dat's All Olive Kline
Laddie o' Mine Lucy Isabelle Marsh} 45367 1.00
Two songs for the heart of Woman, however mute and however deeply hidden. "Honey, Dat's All" has wonderfully soft, smooth cadences. "Laddie o' Mine" is in waltz time. Both songs have orchestral interludes.

{My Sweetie Went Away Billy Murray-Ed. Smalle
I'm a Lonesome Cry Baby Aileen Stanley} 19144 .75
These three favorite Victor artists are appearing this week as blues artists. Murray and Smalle have a weepy number you already know as a fox trot. Miss Stanley is an excellent cry-baby in her home.

Recitations

{Ten Little Mice and When Father Shakes the Stove Edgar Guest
She Powders Her Nose and The Good Little Boy Edgar Guest} 45368 1.00
More of Edgar Guest's familiar little spoken rhymes of everyday life and everyday people. The poet "speaks his own pieces" which are in language and metre of the simplest order.

Dance Records

Marchéta—Waltz Green-Arden Orchestra} 19117 .75
"Roses of Picardy" was first made famous in song form by John McCormack. It yields a smooth beautiful dance. "Marchéta" has delicate whistlings and shivery xylophone tremolos. Both ideal for the present fashion of waltzing.

{Last Night on the Back Porch—Fox Trot Paul Whiteman and His Orchestra
If I Can't Get the Sweetie I Want—Fox Trot Paul Whiteman and His Orchestra} 19139 .75
Paul Whiteman is back from his European triumphs. He has been crowned "King of the Jazz." In the first number he has a jolly fox trot with vocal refrain. In the second there are new effects. Brilliant, richly-colored, perfect records.

{Wolverine Blues—Fox Trot Benson Orchestra of Chicago
House of David Blues—Fox Trot The Virginians} 19140 .75
Two numbers that are sure to please dancers who like unusual effects in their accompaniment.

GOV'T OPERATION FOR U. S. VESSELS

Shipping Board Proceeds Along Lines Favored by Harding.

Copyright, 1923, by Janesville Daily Gazette.

Washington — Government operation—more of it than before and probably for all times—has been embarked upon by the United States shipping board.

After many weeks of maneuvering on the part of shipping interests to get possession at low prices of the fleet built during the war and after the Chamber of Commerce of the United States had appealed to President Coolidge to turn the ships over to private operators, the shipping board has gone ahead with plans exactly in line with the announcement made by the late President Harding when the ship subsidy bill failed to come to a vote in the last session of congress.

The shipping board will operate its own vessels. The system of handling them through managing operators who received a commission on gross business done whether it was at a profit or a loss has been abolished. Consolidation of lines is being worked out with the aid of executives who are to receive salaries direct from the U. S. government instead of through managing agents. The only commission arrangement which has been arranged is that which permits "loading agents" to solicit freight business for the government lines, but the commission is paid only in freight obtained.

Broadly speaking this is direct government operation on a more extensive scale than has been tried before. The shipping board has been prompted to make the experiment by the success achieved in handling the United States line, as the line is known which runs a passenger service to Europe with such ships as the Leviathan and the George Washington. The opinion of Attorney General Daugherty which called illegal the plan to organize subsidiary corporations also pointed out that it was questionable whether under the law the shipping board could delegate its powers. This gave added force to the desire of the board to do away with the managing agent system and has brought about direct operation as the only way of conforming to the spirit and the letter of the Daugherty opinion.

But the merchant marine act also says that the ships must be operated so as ultimately to make it possible to dispose of them to private owners. The subsidiary corporation plan was designed to demonstrate how attractive the ship organizations created by the government could be made to prospective purchasers.

Members of the shipping board insist that what they now are doing will not interfere with the sale of the ships to anyone who wants to buy them. But thus far no offers which the board thinks worth while have been made. And the probabilities are that the deeper the government gets into direct operation the less attractive will any offers become.

It begins to look as if private shipping interests lost their best chance when the ship subsidy bill failed and that as alternative plans are worked out the government will constantly reduce its losses or adopt the attitude which it does with respect to the deficit in the postal service, namely, that the loss to the government is relatively small compared to the insurance it gives the American producer of an American merchant marine with freight rates that are not under the control of foreign countries.

C. & N. W. Vets Go to Chicago Next Wednesday

Plans for the celebration of the seventy-fifth anniversary of the Chicago & Northwestern railway system in Chicago, Wednesday, Oct. 24, have been made and it is expected that a number of old timers from Janesville and vicinity will attend. The special feature will be the reception given to the 100 veterans who have been in active service for 50 years or more, by the officials of the company.

These veterans representing all branches of the railway service, and who have played so important a part in building this—the first railway west of Chicago—will be brought to that city as the guests of the "North Western." Upon arrival they will be met at the Madison street passenger terminal by a reception committee composed of officials of the road, who will provide a day of entertainment. They will be tendered a luncheon in the passenger terminal by the Chicago & Northwestern Railway's Women's club, and in the afternoon will be taken on an automobile tour of the park and boulevard system of Chicago, the day ending with a "get together" and "good fellowship" dinner at one of the principal hotels.

The Chicago & Northwestern railway is the pioneer road of the west, the old Galena & Chicago Union, now a part of the present system, having been the first railroad to lay tracks west of Chicago, and its construction was an epoch-making event in the history and development of the west and northwest. From the modest beginning of 10 miles extending from Chicago to Maywood, Ill., the system now embraces a total of over 15,600 miles of track reaching into nine states.

The first locomotive—"The Pioneer," which visitors to the World's Columbian Exposition will remember as being one of the interesting historical exhibits, is still in possession of the company and in excellent state of repair.

STOCK AND MOVIES ON WEEK-END BILLS

Herbert Rawlinson is the star of "The Victor," having its second day showing, Thursday, at the Beverly. Finding employment scarce, Lord Waring, a British nobleman, comes to America and becomes a prize fighter, making the theme for this movie.

"Shadows of the North," featuring William Desmond, will be presented at the Beverly, Friday and Saturday. This is a story of placer mining and claim-jumping in northwest Canada, with the hero in love with the claim-jumpers daughter. William Desmond has been seen in Mounted Police pictures here in the past. Another story from the serial, "Her Dangerous Path," with Edna Murphy as star, will be shown in connection with the regular picture.

A western picture in which a Texas cattle man, Buck Barbee, loses his vast ranch is "The Web of the Law," at the Majestic theater, Friday and Saturday. Cattle stealing and other scheming is done by the enemies of Buck Barbee in the effort to ruin him. Molly Barbee, the daughter, comes from the city to join her father and falls in love with Bill Barton, ace of Texas rangers, who aids her father in regaining his possessions.

Another sheik picture, "A Son of the Desert," is scheduled for Sunday at the Majestic. William Merrill McCormick plays the role of the sheik, who lures the artist, Helen Dobson, to his camp. Steve Klinard, a horse buyer in the desert, saves the heroine from the Arab.

AT THE APOLLO

The Adolph Winninger company is giving two shows daily and will present two night shows Saturday and Sunday. "Why Wives Go Wrong" is the show for Thursday night. The program for the remainder of the week is: Friday, "Please Get Married"; Saturday, "The New Woman"; Sunday, "When a Man Marries."

THOUSANDS HAVE KIDNEY TROUBLE AND NEVER SUSPECT IT

Applicants for Insurance Often Rejected.

Judging from reports from druggists who are constantly in direct touch with the public, there is one preparation that has been very successful in overcoming these conditions. The mild and healing influence of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its remarkable record of success.

An examining physician for one of the prominent Life Insurance Companies, in an interview of the subject, made the astonishing statement that one reason why so many applicants for insurance are rejected is because kidney trouble is so common to the American people, and the large majority of those whose applications are declined do not even suspect that they have the disease. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is on sale at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes, medium and large.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure to mention this paper.—Advertisement.

85 Gather for Movies in Newark

Rain and fog did not deter 85 people from attending the Gazette motion picture entertainment and Newark Farm Bureau meeting Wednesday night in the Woodman hall. Seven reels of pictures were shown. Professor Luther, University of Wisconsin, gave an address showing the reasons why farmers should organize in the Farm Bureau and in cooperative marketing associations. Refreshments were served by the teacher and pupils of the Lawvers school. Mrs. Florence Hyde explained the plan and purpose of the Gazette community service department and the Good Times club.

The Gazette entertainment at Afton Tuesday night drew a large attendance to the regular meeting of Rock township Farm Bureau.

Maple Grove school, town of Bradford, has an entertainment Thursday night, and Woodman school is on the schedule for Friday night. November dates are now being assigned.

KLAN OFFICIAL IS ARRESTED, CHARGED WITH INTOXICATION

[By Associated Press]

Atlanta — The Rev. Caleb Ridley, known as the Imperial Kludd of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, was subjected to appear in police court here today to answer charges of being "drunk and operating an automobile," following his arrest yesterday. After spending several hours in a police station cell the imperial kludd was released on bond of $500.

Before being locked up, the imperial kludd declared he had driven out into the country where he was accosted by a man who offered to give him some whiskey. He stated he accepted the offer and took a drink. Following his release the minister denied the charge that he was drunk and that two bottles of whiskey were found in his machine.

"I was not drunk," stated the klan official. "The fact is that I had a half pint bottle containing about two tablespoons of liquor, and I had taken one drink before my arrest."

The Rev. Mr. Ridley is well known in klan circles throughout the nation and is reputed to have lectured extensively on the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, from coast to coast.

TWO JANESVILLE WOMEN ELECTED

Two Local Service Star Legion Members Are Named State Officers.

La Crosse.—At the closing session of the state convention of the Service Star legion, officers were elected as follows:

President, Mrs. E. H. Van Ostrand, Madison; first vice-president, Mrs. George Reay, La Crosse; second vice president, Mrs. W. Robson, Stoughton; recording secretary, Mrs. Sadie Carmen, Janesville; assistant recording secretary, Mrs. Gertrude McKeigue, Janesville; treasurer, Mrs. M. Fitzgerald, Antigo; historian, Mrs. George Hale, La Crosse; executive secretary, Mrs. W. S. Curtis, Madison; executive board members: Mrs. S. Meredith, Milwaukee; Mrs. S. Gritt, Plymouth; Mrs. R. H. Hess, Madison; Mrs. F. T. Hoard, Fort Atkinson.

After the election, all of the delegates to the convention motored to West Salem for luncheon.

Merlin Hull of Black River Falls devoted the greater part of his address to "public sentiment, especially as influenced by the metropolitan press."

Keating Held for Trial on Oct. 26

William Keating was held for trial Oct. 26 at 10 a. m., following a preliminary examination conducted before Judge H. L. Maxfield Thursday, in which Patrolmen Porter and Harmon, and Sgt. Mandy testified. There are three charges against Keating—intoxication, possession of liquor and previous conviction. His bail was fixed at $1,000. E. H. Ryan represented Keating.

Martin Ryder, one of three others who were with Keating when arrested Tuesday on Western avenue, pleaded guilty to intoxication and paid a fine of $15 and costs.

The cases of the other two, John Smith and Joseph Briggs, are still pending. Smith claims he was on his own property when arrested and not in "a public place" as the warrant reads. His case was to be heard Thursday afternoon and that of Briggs later.

Lowell Funeral, Sharon.

Sharon.—The funeral of A. D. Lowell was held at his home, Sunday. Prayer was offered by the Revd. L. Wood, of the Lutheran church, and the sermon was preached by the Rev. A. J. Johnson, pastor of the M. E. church, of which Mr. Lowell had been a member for many years. Burial was at Oakwood. Those from away who attended the service were: Mrs. Marzo Lowell, Janesville; Mrs. W. L. Clement, Madison; Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Woods, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Kinyon, Mrs. Frank Gile, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kinny and daughters, Grace and Alice, Beloit; L. D. Lowell, Crystal Lake; Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Kinyon, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Kinyon, Rockford; George Lowell, Chicago, and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Lowell, Walworth.

SERIES OF SALES MEETINGS PLANNED

Merchandising Institute for Merchants and Clerks to Open Oct. 24.

To help the clerk behind the counter become better informed on his goods and to help him become a better salesman—that is the educational purpose of the "Merchandising Institute" which the retail division of the Chamber of Commerce in association with the Janesville Gazette has announced for the coming month.

The dates are Oct. 24, Nov. 7 and 21 and are all Wednesday's. Noonday luncheons for executives and department managers will be held at the Y. M. C. A. In the evenings of these same days, meetings for the sales people of Janesville have also been arranged, to be held in the Y. M. C. A.

Milwaukee Speaker

The meetings will be addressed by James W. Fisk, merchandising counsel of the Milwaukee Journal. Mr. Fisk is a man of nationally recognized authority on retailing and retail sales work, and has a message of great importance to retail sales people.

The leading stores and commercial organizations have promised their cooperation. Reservations are now being made in response to invitations sent out by George M. Neumer, chairman of the retail division of the Chamber of Commerce, who is in charge of arrangements.

The regular fee for the luncheon meetings will be duly made to cover the cost of the meal. All of the evening meetings are free of charge, but tickets must be secured from the Chamber of Commerce or the Gazette, as admission will be granted only upon presentation of ticket.

Store owners and executives are being requested to ask the salespeople under them to attend the evening meetings, and to come to the noonday luncheons themselves.

First Program Announced

At the first meeting on Oct. 24, Mr. Fisk will discuss, "Finding the Weak Spots In Your Business" before the noonday luncheon of executives. At the evening meeting his topic will be "The Science of Salesmanship."

Mr. Fisk presents practical methods that will increase individual sales, and will build up a better store organization resulting in greater strides for the salespeople and more business for the store.

Spanish War Vets in Reunion

Forty members of Morris camp No. 7, United Spanish War Veterans and its auxiliary were guests of Harry L. Gifford camp and its auxiliary at a banquet given in Eagle's hall, Wednesday night, the occasion being the 25th anniversary of the mustering out of the first Wisconsin Volunteer Infantry.

Rae Weaver of Beaver Dam, Wis., chief of staff of the department of Wisconsin United Spanish War Veterans, was the speaker of the evening.

Mrs. Edith Frankland of Beloit, department president of the Ladies' Auxiliary, United Spanish War Veterans, also spoke, as did J. W. Hodges, commander of Morris camp, Beloit, and C. S. Hanson of Janesville.

Man Thrown to Pavement by Car

Martin H. Morse, 321 East Milwaukee street, was bruised and shaken up when thrown to the pavement at the corner of Main and Milwaukee streets at 8:45 Wednesday night. In crossing the intersection, a car came so close to him that the rear wheel and fender knocked him down. Two who were crossing the street at the same time stopped back to give the full right-of-way and were unhurt. The driver of the car apparently did not know he had struck anyone as he continued on at the pace he was maintaining at the time of the accident, about 12 miles an hour, witnesses said. Morse was taken to the police station where his injuries were attended by a doctor and was then removed to his home.

Light Rain Falls Continuously Here for Forty Hours

Barometer readings at the high school made by John Arbuthnot, instructor of physics, show that the mercury stands a half-inch below normal. The height is now 28 11-16 and at normal is 29½. These readings should be corrected for sea level.

Rain here has been almost continuous since 10 p. m. Tuesday. The fine mist which fell throughout the day Wednesday was one of the longest ever noticed.

In most cases mist stops falling within a few hours or if there is much moisture in the air, falls as rain.

DOUGHERTY TALKS BEFORE KIWANIS

Kiwanis members were addressed by U. S. District Attorney William Dougherty at their meeting Thursday noon.

He spoke on the work to be done in educating persons to investigate before investing money in securities and also discussed some of the new legislation to come before congress, speaking especially in regard to the proposed amendment to the constitution which would give congress the power to over ride the decision of the supreme court as to the constitutionality of a law.

A new member, Lewis Ashburn, was admitted.

WAUKESHA MAN MISSING 1 YEAR

Friends Think Skeleton Found at Milton May Be That of Peter Rickert.

Can the skeleton found in a wooded tract in the town of Milton Sunday, seven miles northeast of Janesville, be the remains of Peter Rickert, Waukesha, missing for more than a year?

Sheriff Fred Beloy does not believe so as the bones gave the appearance of having been in the shallow grave for five years or even longer. The sheriff received information in regard to the missing Waukesha man Thursday in the form of a letter from Attorney D. J. Hemlock, Waukesha.

Mr. Hemlock said his office was located next to that of Rickert, a real estate man about 60 years old, and that on Sept. 20, 1922, he hung up a sign on his door saying he would return Sept. 26. Rickert said he was going on a trip north. He has not been seen since and his friends are wondering if the finding of the skeleton at Milton has any connection with Rickert's disappearance.

When seen last, Rickert wore a felt hat, a brown two-tone suit and a certain brand of shoes which Hemlock says he could identify easily. Rickert was a large man, weighing about 200 pounds, and wore glasses. He never wore a necktie.

"I would know his glasses, his suit and his shoes," Mr. Hemlock states.

As the clothing on the skeleton indicated that it was probably of a brown color originally and there were glasses in the pocket, the Rickert theory may be worth investigating further, authorities believe.

STATES AID ENFORCEMENT

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]

Washington.—Twenty-eight states within the past year have adopted "progressive" legislation to aid prohibition enforcement, it was said in a summary Thursday by prohibition headquarters, issued in anticipation of the conference of governors here Saturday.

Statutes to reach the buyer as well as the seller of liquor, issuance of licenses to so-called saloons, increased penalties and various others measures were among the new state laws cited.

It was also stated attempts in Alabama, Connecticut, Delaware, Georgia, Illinois, Ohio and Wisconsin, to weaken, modify or repeal state prohibition laws, had failed.

Mrs. Coolidge Is Given Cookies by Girl Scouts

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]

Washington.—A five-foot bag of cookies baked by girl scouts was presented on Wednesday to Mrs. Coolidge, wife of the president, who has accepted the honorary presidency of the organization.

The cookies were presented by a group of Washington girl scouts, headed by Mrs. Percy H. Williams of New York, member of the national executive board and the wife of the president authorized the following statement:

"It is with great pleasure that Mrs. Coolidge accepts the invitation to become honorary president of the girl scouts. She is very heartily in sympathy with all its aims and feels that it is doing a great work in training the girlhood of America in the highest ideals."

DAIRY TRIP TO WIS. POPULAR

Demonstration Visits from Iowa and Other Sections Come Here.

Dairy demonstration trips from grain growing states to leading Wisconsin cattle counties are becoming popular.

Between 40 and 50 farmers and bankers from Delaware county, Ia., will be in Rock county Monday and Tuesday, Oct. 22 and 23 to inspect the herds, blue-blooded and blue ribbon herd sires with a view of gaining knowledge on successful dairying and livestock breeding. This is the second delegation from around Manchester, Iowa to make the trip to Rock county under the direction of their county agent, R. W. Coombs.

Later a third delegation will motor to Rock county from around Iowa City with their county agent and H. J. Dane, former Janesville resident.

A two day's trip through the county is being mapped out by County Agent R. T. Glassco and J. C. Nisbet, Rock county livestock agent. A banquet meeting will be held for the Iowa visitors.

CHARGES WIFE HAD VIOLENT TEMPER; WANTS SEPARATION

Charging that his wife had a violent, uncontrollable and ungovernable temper, Howard Allen, Beloit laborer, is seeking a divorce from his wife, Emma Allen, in a complaint filed in the Rock county circuit court by Judge John Clark, Beloit. They were married in Woodstock, Ill., during September, 1909.

The husband charges that his wife left him at one time and lived with Roy Porter, Beloit, and frequently neglected her home duties.

Glpdys Scott, Beloit, filed suit for divorce from her husband, Glenn Scott, on a charge of desertion. They reside in Beloit and were married in Rockford, August, 1921.

Papers were filed for the partition of property in the case of Ella Church and Mary Biggerstaff against Frederick Lannon, et al.

J. H. S. BAND PLAYS AT COUNTY FARM

One of the best entertainments in which the high school band has ever taken part was given at the county farm Tuesday night. The full band of about 32 members gave an hour's concert before an audience of 250 in the large dining room. Besides all inmates of the institution, many from Janesville and vicinity were present.

Refreshments were served after the concert, and this was followed by the showing of moving pictures in the chapel.

A vote of appreciation was tendered to Mr. and Mrs. Archie Cullen at the conclusion of the program.

The Changing Lloyd George.

Lloyd George made an address in Chicago Wednesday night which may be called the supreme effort of his American tour. Shorn of any other consideration, it was a plea for the entrance of America upon a program of European settlements which have been badly muddled and which have been left unsettled by the passing of five years. No one will deny that the basic cause of the whole difficulty now being confronted by Europe lies in the attitude of three nations—Germany, France and Belgium—over reparations. But behind that is the treaty made by Mr. George and others of the allied nations at Versailles in 1919, and to the operation of which Mr. George attributes the troubles in Europe. But Mr. George is deeply responsible in person for the treaty of Versailles and those clauses against which he now inveighs were accepted, and in some cases were originated by him. We shall all be willing to agree that Great Britain pays her debts, that she is not always hard on the vanquished, as Mr. George says; but we cannot forget in the plea of Mr. George for some new and different sort of action, that Great Britain received her toll from the treaty, added enormous territory to her South African possessions by the acquisition of German colonies in Africa, and that in shipping and reparations of a property character Great Britain did not suffer. The two nations left to deal with Germany and negotiate for the future, were France and Belgium under a system of partial payments provided in the Versailles treaty and the amount and ability to pay being left also for future determination.

So it is that when Lloyd George, here in America, criticises the attitude of France he assumes also the attitude of a man who has got his and would say also how the others should get their pay.

Lloyd George is an interesting and remarkable man. He has been given an enormous ovation in America. He has been shown the square dealing spirit of the American people. He must not however be led astray and feel that all who hear or read will accept his notion of American entrance into the affairs of Europe. We are willing to admit a closer tie between Great Britain and the United States than we have with any other nation. We have more in common, in language, in tradition of birth and of early beginnings. We are also in the position of a nation asking no loot of war, no reparations, no aftermath from a conquered country. We are the only nation that can come to the Door of Hope with clean hands. Let that not be forgotten. Great Britain cannot say as much. We have no future program of fortifications and expansion in the world such as Great Britain has. And we confront the greatest question of psychology in the history of the world, in the European situation. It has its physical quality as well. What could have rehabilitated Europe from a cash standpoint? Nothing, perhaps, but to admit that Germany had won the war and that we had made an error in stopping her, then restore her to her former place. What we are paying now—what Germany is paying—is the inevitable and terrible penalty for war, but the price must be paid.

If the European nations, in concert with Germany, can guarantee to France what Mr. Lloyd George has said in his addresses, it is quite to the point to say that France would be willing to forego the drastic measures which that nation has seemed to find as the only way to make Germany pay. Germany is in the position of a nation that would not pay before the Ruhr invasion and now that the Ruhr is invaded, cannot pay.

If the reparations matter could be settled on one or two great principles it would be different. Reading or hearing Lloyd George makes one feel that it is all easy. Yet he leaves unsettled a grave question—whether Germany has been honest or has deliberately attempted to ruin its own finances for the purpose of cheating France and Belgium out of plain justice. Mr. George answers neither question but asks that both be settled by the commission proposed by Mr. Secretary Hughes some months ago, in which the United States would participate as one of that commission.

That is Mr. Lloyd George's mission—to first tell of the desperate condition of Europe, to draw a picture of the impending anarchy and in conclusion, to indicate clearly, that he does not believe the chaos can be halted by either his own nation or any other in Europe and that it is up to the United States to enter and settle the racial and diplomatic quarrels of ten centuries by participating in a simple commission.

Perhaps it could be done but there is a great amount of Yankee skepticism concerning it.

Europe Sees America in the Movies

Europe is getting some funny notions about America by watching the antics of the leaders of our social and community life as they are displayed in the screen drama and comedy. The London News laughs over the instructive pictures we send abroad. Add the movies to the ideas of American country life as told in the book, Main Street, and of the Reubens and yokels displayed in that book of psycho-analysis, and one can see how some very strange notions of life over here must be conveyed to the mind of the unsophisticated European. To him we are the home of the auto bandit, the funny police force and the rotten rich.

When London and the provinces go to the movies they see that the cast is all made up of scanty costumes or women, unscrupulous, but mightily successful business men who roysterously spend their money at night in cabarets and in intrigue and schemes against other successful men. The west is made up of saloons, shooting irons, bad men and worse women, stage coach robbers, murderers of sheriffs and as the London News says "spend a good deal of their time rolling on the ground trying to gouge out each other's eyes." In the west and south no one does any work, just loafs around the store waiting for a fight and the women have less to do, hanging over back fences, to be ready to run into the road to welcome home the blood stained hero.

Says the London News after telling what perverted ideas one may get from the movies:

America must be an awfully interesting place to live in; only few of us invertebrate Britons could stand the strain of such an exciting life. It isn't so much the amount of work the Americans do as the suddenness with which they do things, that must tell on them in time. Fortunes are made and homes ruined in America on the screen in less time than the average Englishman takes to eat his breakfast.

Of course all this is said in irony, but the fact remains that it is bitterly true. Our movies give not only to Europe but to our own sections widely apart, a wrong view of real life. Perhaps the dullest plaqe in all the Footstool is an Arizona way station or old mining camp. Its people are ghosts. Yet the younger generation, failing to understand that the movies tell stories as archaic as those of Capt. Mayne Reid, feel that this is indeed the life. And we have homes that are not all dens of sin and iniquity, of intrigue and dress-suit crooks, nor are they all garish and jammed with silly-fitting furniture and decorative schemes, which would make the Tuilleries look like a hovel. Our women are not all bad nor are the innocent heroines all so inane as they appear on the screen.

It might be well for the movie producers to think of putting on the screen something about America that smacks of cleanliness and truth. "It would be horribly dull," is probably the answer of the producer, but he may learn that all Europe does not receive its education from the penny dreadfuls and the sporting pink sheets. There are interesting screen plays that are both honest and clean—not many, but enough to counteract the lop-sided ideas most of our pictures impress upon Europe.

Construction in Cold Weather

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

Washington.—King Winter is losing his hold on the construction industry. No longer do up-to-date contractors stop work during cold weather, dismiss their gang and wait for sunny days of spring to renew building operations. The custom of discontinuing building construction during the cold months has been recognized as poor business. Cold reasoning has routed cold weather and as a result many progressive builders in all parts of the country keep right at the job of erecting skyscrapers and apartments, hotels, bungalows and bridges, straight through the wintry months of December, January and February.

Although winter construction has been carried on for a number of years on a small scale in some localities, it has only been during the last two or three years that a widespread interest has been taken. Volumes could be written about the building projects carried out during the winter months since the war; of how the construction of an 18-story reinforced concrete building in New York was carried on with the temperature below freezing; of how the Lake Placid Club building in New York state was built in zero weather; of how apartments in Chicago and Milwaukee, a hotel in Fort Wayne, a church in Toledo, a theatre in Minneapolis, and scores of other buildings were ready for occupancy much earlier than expected because a little matter like a cold spell was not permitted to interfere with the actual construction work.

No doubt the acute housing shortage following the war years had something to do with arousing interest in winter construction. Buildings had to be erected. Contractors and builders were face to face with a situation they could not dodge. There were many ramifications to the problem; many obstacles to overcome. The idea of winter work was given the careful consideration of many prominent men in the various branches of the construction industry, and the results have placed cold weather construction in the regular program of commonplace events.

* * * * *

The seasonal nature of the construction industries has been responsible for many difficulties. It has created a peak demand for many materials, resulting in overtaxed railroad facilities during certain months, while at other times—during cold weather there was scarcely any demand. Contractors, after organizing efficient crews of workmen, have been forced to disband them with the coming of cold weather. In the spring it was necessary to break in a new organization. Winter idleness in the construction industry meant idleness of thousands of workmen during the cold months. Operating on a basis of eight or nine months a year it was necessary to pay labor a wage that would permit three or four months of idleness. All of these facts resulted in a tremendous waste, and the only relief was seen in the levelling of the volume of construction carried on through the year. In other words, it was necessary to make the construction year a period of twelve months instead of the customary eight or nine.

Through the department of commerce, the government is cooperating in the widespread campaign to lengthen the construction season. A committee was recently appointed by Secretary Herbert Hoover to make a study of the situation. On this committee are prominent business men and manufacturers, contractors and engineers. Previous surveys have indicated that most construction activity is concentrated in seven to ten months of the year. The committee was formed to examine the facts and propose remedies and to suggest sound solutions. It is the general impression that seasonal building has been due perhaps more to custom than the weather and it is expected that the investigation will throw light on this and other important matters.

The interest taken by big contracting firms is shown by the numerous articles on winter construction methods appearing in engineering and technical magazines during the past few years. Examples of cold weather work have been described, with detailed information as to the methods used. The men who do the work are unanimous in their decision as to the feasibility of building during cold spells, and of the economy of such operation in the long run.

* * * * *

One of the chief drawbaks of winter work has been the general impression among builders that the cost is out of proportion to the benefits derived. However, a careful study has shown this impression to be a wrong one. The owner or financier should consider the advantage of earlier occupancy of the structure. By securing an income on the money invested, from three to five months in advance of the general practice, he is obtaining the maximum returns for his investment. Another feature is the supply of labor available during the winter. Cold weather and unemployment have gone hand in hand for years. By making it possible to continue construction through the winter, this situation would be relieved.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

JUST A BOY.

He is just a boy with his eyes aglow,
Just a boy, and you love him so,
And his merry laugh and his roguish way
And those restless feet which turn to play
Are youth's rich treasures swiftly spent,
You had them once ere your boyhood went,
You raced and romped in the selfsame way,
But you cry, "Keep still!" for you're tired today.

Time was you jeered at an easy chair
And an hour of quiet was hard to bear;
Then life was filled with a thousand things
And your arms and legs were strong as springs,
And the old folks said as they looked at you:
"He races and romps the whole day through,
And he's never tired and he cant sit still;
He ought to rest, but he never will."

He is just a boy, and a boy must jump,
And a boy must run till his pulses thump,
Must swing his arms and kick his heels
And give full vent to the joy he feels;
Must rush in the house and bolt his meals
And long for things which run on wheels,
And whenever you find him sitting still,
It's not that he's tired—it's because he's ill.

Comes in the morning mail a note from our long-time friend John Philip Sousa inclosing a clipping which tells of a young man rescuing a young lady from the sad sea waves and going on to state that the young woman married the hero next day. "And," concludes John Philip, "that's a heck of a way to repay a man for saving one's life."

Who's Who Today

ROBERT S. LOVETT

After almost forty years in the railroad service, Robert S. Lovett resigned recently as chairman of the executive committee of the Union Pacific railroad system. He gave as his reason his desire to lessen his responsibilities to safeguard his health.

ROBERT LOVETT

Lovett, one of the highest paid railway executives in the country at the time of his resignation, was born in San Jacinto, Texas, June 22, 1860. After attending the high school at Houston he spent years in self-study and self-mastery while reading the law and was admitted to the bar with a fine equipment of varied knowledge and a clear grasp of detail. As counsel for the Southern Pacific and other roads he came in touch with the Harriman interests in that capacity. When the government took over the railroads during the war, Lovett was made director of additions and betterments under the administrator.

At the time Lovett became chairman of the board of directors of the Union Pacific it was announced that his salary was $140,000.

While resigning the chairmanship of the executive committee Lovett continues his association with the company and will direct the representation of the Union Pacifics interests in consolidation matters and in valuation of railroad properties upon which the interstate commerce commission is now engaged and to which he has already given much attention.

Personal Health Service

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

A CLOT IN VEIN

In our first talk about veins the other day we were going along smoothly and apparently approaching the really important part, where I should have told the reader how to diagnose and treat phlebitis (inflammation of a vein), when, of course, we suddenly stopped the show so I could do my stuff, the same old stuff—advise folks to consult a competent physician. If this seems unfair let me explain that this is not a medical department, but a health department. I am not a competent physician by mail or through the newspaper, I'll freely admit that. But I flatter myself that I can tell healthy people through the newspapers a good many things that are healthful for healthy people to know. All who have something the matter or think they have and don't know just what ails them or what to do about it, I advise to consult their physician.

Phlebitis is a case in point. I maintain without fear of successful contradiction that no healer can determine without personal examination and study of the individual case, whether absolute rest, massage, passive exercise or active exercise would be safe or healthful in the given case of phlebitis at any stage of the process. Therefore we gracefully skip the diagnosis and treatment.

The process of coagulation, congealment or clotting of the blood, in life, within the heart or any blood vessel, is called Thrombosis; the clot itself is called a thrombus. Some interruption of the blood current at the point of clotting is responsible, say a thickening or narrowing of the vessel from disease or inflammation of the vessel wall (as in some cases of thrombosis in the brain), or a dilation or bulging of the wall of a vein, or some external injury to the vein.

Such clots are clear. The principal danger is from occlusion of an important vessel or from breaking off of minute particles which are carried in the circulation to lodge or stick in some small artery in lungs or brain; this process is called embolism; the particle itself is an embolus. When a clot or thrombus becomes infected (invaded by bacteria) the danger of septic emboli spreading through the circulation and causing general blood poisoning (septicemia)) is added to the danger of mechanical embolism. Thrombosis or clotting within the vein in any circumstances calls for rest rather than rubbing, massage, or manipulation under any other name, not merely rest in the common sense of the word but what physicians know as physiological rest; to insure that no little degree of ingenuity and skill is needed.

In many "attacks" of piles the inflamed vein or veins contain clots; no relief comes until the clots are turned out of the lance. A clot or thrombus in artery or vein in any situation may be entirely absorbed or become gradually changed into fibrous scar tissue or if infected it may undergo suppuration. No specific remedy or treatment will dissolve or cause absorption of clot anywhere. If that favorable outcome happens it is because nature's way has not been too much impeded by unwise management.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Nurse Jane at Work.

What to do when you have a hundred itches and the doctor says "Don't Scratch!" Nurse Jane says I have hives from eating vegetables containing acid. I'm all broke out with tiny watery pimples, like the heat, only worse. (J. J. R.)

Answer—Can't nurse Jane instruct the doctor how to manage the trouble? She seems to have unique theories as to the pathology and diagnosis of hives; she must have been studying the latest almanac, for she is high there with the acids. Your safest plan would be to invite nurse Jane to tell it to the marines, and follow your doctor's advice.

Bacillus Acidophilus Culture.

Please inform me where I can get the bacillus acidophilus culture to be used to ferment milk as a beverage or to be taken internally along with sugar to improve the bacterial flora in the intestine. (M. R. L.)

Answer—Large drug firms generally have either Bulgarian lactic bacillus cultures or acidophilus cultures (the latter being perhaps more readily implanted in the intestinal tract). A pure whole milk cultured with bacillus acidophilus is supplied through the drug trade by Lederle Antitoxin Laboratories of New York, N. Y.

Don Jaimie's Deafness.

What do you think of the remarkable cure of the congenital deafness of Prince Don Jaimie of Spain recently by the noted Brooklyn osteopathic physician who reconstructs the eustachian tubes by finger surgery and restores hearing in cases the medical men can do nothing for? (P. H. O.)

Answer—It seems to me that they overwork that game. The prince had his hearing miraculously restored by some such buncombe about three or four years ago, if you will recollect. Now they're curing him again. Well, it is dandy advertising for the new fangled healers, but unfortunately the deafness of Prince Don Jaimie continues as before. Wait two or three years and they'll cure him again.

Q. What did Barnum promise to pay Jenny Lind when she sang for the first time in America? G. A. M.

A. Jenny Lind was engaged by P. T. Barnum for 150 nights at $1,000 a night. Barnum provided the orchestra.

Q. How long has the musical box been in existence? D. H.

A. The music box was invented by the Swiss in the middle of the 18th century.

Q. How many springs are there at Hot Springs, Ark.? W. J. H.

A. Hot Springs, Ark., is widely noted for the hot waters that flow from 72 springs, included in a space of 10 acres on the west side of Hot Springs mountain. The water of these springs range from 75 degrees Fahrenheit to 157 degrees Fahrenheit, and are especially beneficial in the treatment of chronic diseases. In 1832 four sections of land were set off by congress as a government reservation. Since then the government has established on the mountain the Army and Navy General hospital.

Q. At what time of the year is the pistachio nut at its best? T. G.

A. The department of agriculture says that in California the pistachio nut is ripe in October. Inasmuch as the nut must be roasted before eating, if it is kept in a dry place at a cool temperature it is not likely to become rancid and therefore can be kept indefinitely. The department knows of no instances where such nuts have been kept for over a year.

Q. Please give a description of the shell room in the Berlin palace. M. L.

A. The shell saloon is in the new palace at Potsdam, formerly the summer residence of the emperor. The walls and ceilings of the room are inlaid with corals, crystals and rare shells. The friezes are minerals and precious stones, many of which are of great value.

Q. What is the record attendance at football games in the United States and England? W. A. T.

A. We do not have this information as no record is kept. The largest number of people attending a football game in England was 125,000; at the Yale bowl, which holds the largest number in the United States, the record number was 81,000.

Horoscope

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 19, 1923

According to astrology this should be a rarely favorable day for most activities on the earth. Venus, Saturn and the Sun are all in strongly benefic aspect.

Women should be especially active while this rule prevails and it is forecast that they are to take part in a national movement, or to make their influence felt in a countrywide reform enterprise of supreme moment.

This should be an unusually lucky wedding day, making for long life and success in all high ambitions.

Women who desire the aid or approval of persons powerful in big affairs should take the initiative today. This should bring them especial benefits.

This is a day most auspicious for theaters and for all lines of entertainments. Actors and artists of every line should benefit.

Success for serious plays is prognosticated and again the recognition of new stars of both sexes is foretold. Sudden fame is to come to one long ignored.

Industry is subject to better influences than it has been today. Labor should profit from misfortunes as well as from constructive enterprises.

All who wish to put to the test their hope of preferment should make the best of this day's opportunities. Political appointments are subject to the best direction of the stars.

Changes in the foreign envoys of the United States will be numerous and women will aspire to serve in diplomatic posts.

Much suffering during the coming winter is again prophesied. Unprecedented prosperity is foretold for many places noted for mild climate.

The Pacific coast is to focus attention again by some great sensation, it is foretold.

Spiritual forces are to focus on the shores of the Pacific and all the states touched by the waters of this ocean are to develop extraordinary conditions, the seers prophesy.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the forecast of a fortunate year. Money affairs and business should be exceedingly satisfactory.

Children born on this day probably will be very fortunate in all their enterprises. They are on the cusp and partake of the attributes of both Libra and Scorpio.

ARREST 2 AS FIREBUGS IN FATAL BLAZE

New York — Two men were arrested today on charges of murder and arson in connection with Brooklyn fire last Monday in which six persons were burned to death. A third was held as a witness.

The three, held after an all-night questioning, gave the name of William Ford, a real estate broker; Raymond Anderson and James R. Lynch, an accountant. The murder and arson charges were lodged against Ford and Anderson.

Three women and three men were victims of the five which destroyed a two-story frame house in which they lived.

Mrs. Annie Asher Smith, of Fredericksburg, has the distinction of being the first woman to hold office as county treasurer in Virginia.

Quickly Heals Old Sores and Conquers Piles

Also Stops Itching of Eczema Almost Immediately.

"Peterson's Ointment Co., Buffalo, N. Y.—I want to tell you how much I do love Peterson's Ointment for the good it has done me. My sore was on my left leg, was 4½ inches by 2½ inches wide—is all healed up beautifully now and then, too, it was so soothing on such a raw sore. I can't say enough praise for the good it has done me and will say a good word in your salve's favor." Very truly yours, Miss Kate Kull, Sigel, Ill.

"I'd rather get a letter like that," says Peterson of Buffalo, "than have John D. Rockefeller give me a thousand dollars. It does me a lot of good to be able to be of use to my fellowman."

"For years I have been selling through druggists a large box of PETERSON'S OINTMENT for 35 cents. The healing power in this ointment is marvelous. Eczema goes in a few days. Old sores heal up like magic; piles that other remedies do not seem to even relieve are speedily conquered."

It stops chafing in five minutes and for scalds and burns it is simply wonderful. Advertisement.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Edgar Quenton Bartholomew had two nephews each named the same, sons of two brothers. One had been absent in Europe for a term of years. He returned to America to make his home with his uncle. Here he met another cousin, daughter of the uncle, Orpha with whom he promptly fell in love only to learn that the other Edgar was understood to be an accepted suitor. This Edgar and the uncle quarreled. In this house there was a mystery in the main stairs, steps other than one's own following up the stairs as one walked and a breath of cold air blown on one from some mysterious and unaccounted place. There was no love lost between the two male cousins and it was understood that the one marrying Orpha would be the heir to the uncle's fortune. The uncle is ill and there is no hope for his recovery. Edgar, who tells the story, spends much of his time in the sick room. Uncle Quenton dies suddenly after being given a strong medicine. His will is missing, and search is made for the person suspected of having administered poison. There were two wills and one was to have left the property in equal shares between Orpha and Quentin, while the other left it all to Edward. Neither could be found. An inquest was held on the death of the uncle.

"But you could have got hold of it in the way I suggested? Reached in, I mean, and pulled it out without disarranging the other bottles?"

She stopped to think; contracting her brows and stealing what I felt sure was a look at Edgar.

"It would have been difficult," she finally conceded; "but a person with long fingers might have got hold of it all right. The bottles in front and around it were not very large. Much of the same size as the one you just showed us."

"Then in your opinion this could have been done?"

(I heard afterwards that it had been done by one of the police operatives.)

"It could have been done."

Almost doggedly she said it.

"Without making much noise?"

"Without making any if the person doing it knew exactly where the phial was to be found."

Not doggedly now, but incisively.

"And how many of the household, to your definite knowledge, did?"

"Three, besides myself. Miss Orpha, Mr. Edgar and Mr. Quenton, all of whom shared my nursing."

The warmth with which she uttered the first two names, the coldness with which she uttered mine! Was it intentional, or just the natural expression of her feelings? Whatever prompted this distinction in tone, the effect was to signal me out as definitely as though a brand had left its scorching mark upon my forehead.

And I innocent!

Why I did not leap to my feet I do not know. I thought I did, shouting a wild disclaimer. If men stared and women shrieked that was nothing to me. All that I cared for was Orpha sitting there listening to this hellish accusation. So maddened was I, so dead to all human conditions that I doubt if I should have been surprised had the ghostly figure of my uncle evolved itself from air and taken its place on the witness-stand in revolt against this horror. Anything was possible, but to let the world—by which I meant Orpha—believe this thing for a moment.

All this tumult in brain and heart, and my body quiet, fixed, with not a muscle so much as quivering. By what force was I thus withheld? Possibly by some hypnotic influence exerted by Mr. Jackson, for when I looked in his direction I found him gazing very earnestly in mine. I smiled. It must have been a very dreary smile and ironic in the extreme; for my heart was filled with bitterness and could express itself in no other way.

The decided shake of the head which he gave me in return had its effect, however, and digging my nails into my palm, I listened to what followed with all the stoicism the situation called for.

I was still in a state of rigid self-control when I heard my name spoken loudly and with command and woke to the fact that Wealthy had been dismissed from the stand and that I was to be the next witness.

Was I ready for it? I must be; and to test my strength, I cast one straight look at Orpha. She had lifted her veil and met my gaze fairly. Had there been guilt in my heart—

But I could pass her without shame; and sustained by this fact, I took my place on the stand with a calmness I had hardly expected to show in the face of this prejudiced throng.

XXXI

As my story, sometimes elicited by questions and sometimes allowed to take the form of an uninterrupted narrative, differed in no essential from the one already given in these pages, I see no reason for recapitulating it here any more than I did the one I told days before to the Inspector. Fixed in my determination to be honest in all I said but not to say any more than was required, I was able to hear unmoved the low murmurs which now and then rose from the center of the room as I made some unexpected reply or revealed, as I could not help doing, the strength of the tie which united me to my deceased uncle. No one believed in that and consequently attributed any assertion of the kind to hypocrisy; and with this I had to contend from the beginning to the end, softened perhaps a little towards the last, but still active enough to make my position a very trying one.

Science again has scored a triumph in the discovery of a very remarkable liquid known as Kolor-Bak. If you are gray, just apply this liquid to the hair and scalp and your hair will soon take on the actual color it had in the past. Not a trace of grayness will remain.

Kolor-Bak comes in the form of a clean and colorless liquid, containing properties which quickly restore the lost color to the hair and give it renewed vigor. And note that the one preparation is for all colors of hair. No special solution required for each color—no samples of hair required.

You will find also that with Kolor-Bak the hair has the same shade throughout. It does not appear streaked, faded or "dyed."

Every scientist, every physician, knows that gray hair is hair that has ceased to receive its normal supply of coloring matter or pigment from certain tiny cells (called follicles or papillæ) in the scalp, because these cells have become inactive from illness, shock of some kind, scalp disease, dandruff, infection, neglect of the hair, or lack of circulation, etc. But no matter what the cause of the grayness, it is simply amazing to see how it disappears when Kolor-Bak is used. It is a real substitute for the natural pigmentation.

Heart and Home Problems

BY ELIZABETH THOMPSON.

Letters May Be Addressed to Mrs. Thompson, in Care of the Gazette.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a woman of 26 and have been married twice. My first husband was lost in the war. I married a man 22 years old, a wonderful fellow, but very stubborn and headstrong. I loved him dearly, and do yet, but he has changed so much.

I have a child which I have to keep, and he did not want me to keep it. When ever it was near him he was very cross with it. He wanted me to get someone to keep it and to go to work and help him out or give it for adoption, anything so that he would not have it to care for. It was a child by my first husband, and of course no man is the same to another man's child. It got so beyond endurance I could not stand it any longer and I left him to free him from my child. I could not give it up for him, for it is my own flesh and blood and I love it too dearly.

He is friendly with me yet and talks to me whenever we meet, but he does not seem to be at all sorry for anything he has done to hurt us. Do you think I did the right thing toward my child in divorcing my husband? I think it was the best thing for me to do and I am not sorry for it now, but maybe some day he will be.

LONSOME EVA.

I feel that you did the right thing in choosing your child when conditions became so unbearable that you had to give up your child or your husband. Your husband must have had a very mean streak in his nature or he would not have been so unkind to a child. Naturally a man loves his own child more than the child of someone else, but some men love children and would not hurt them, regardless of their parentage. The fact that the little one was yours should have been enough to make your husband kind, since he claimed he loved you.

* * *

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl of 18 and I go with a boy of 19. We have been going together for 10 months. I am very jealous when I go out with him, as he speaks to so many girls. If I ask him who they are he will say he doesn't know their names. Do you think that he knows them or just tries to make me angry at him as he knows it hurts me?

When I speak to some boys it hurts him; I can tell by the way he acts, because he will hardly talk. Please tell me what to do as I cannot give him up. He says he loves me and I love him. LOUISVILLE LOU.

The young man may be trying to tease you when he says he does not know the names of the girls to whom he speaks. You ought to be able to judge the extent of his acquaintance with them by the way in which they speak to him. At any rate, it is foolish to let so small a thing upset you. It really doesn't matter whether he is well acquainted with the girls, or has merely met them and forgotten their names. The thing which should be of importance to you is that he prefers your company to that of the other girls. It is ridiculous for either of you to be hurt when one speaks to one of the opposite sex. Jealousy is a useless and unhappy trait. Try to get over your failing.

YOUR BABY and MINE

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Mrs. Eldred is happy to advise all mothers about the care of their children of any age, or on any subject which does not belong in the field of the doctor.

Mrs. C. A. B. writes:

"My girl baby is 10 weeks old and is very healthy. She has always seemed to digest her milk well until recently I noticed that after each nursing she spits up a great deal. I nurse her every three hours. I notice too that she spits up immediately after eating and then it takes place again an hour or so afterward.

"What would you suggest that I do?"

Answer:

It seems to me that your present diet must have something to do with the baby's condition since she got along very well for the first few weeks. It may be now that you have your strength back and are eating more heartily your milk is too rich for the baby and this causes the spitting up. If she is gaining well (and you forget to mention that) I would increase the feeding hours to only once in four hours. Or the length of time that the baby eats can be shortened and a small amount of boiled water given before each nursing. This will dilute the amount of cream in the milk and make it more digestible.

You must look to your own diet, though, and cut down the amounts of rich foods, butter, cream, fat meats, etc.

Some time ago a mother appealed to me about her baby who had had persistent vomiting almost from birth. She had plenty of milk and hesitated to wean the baby. She had tried everything, so she said. The boiled water before nursing worked a magic change. She said from the day that she started to give it the baby stopped vomiting. I tell you this so that you need not be scornful of simple measures. Sometimes persons are inclined to think that anything so ordinary as plain water couldn't possibly have any curative powers.

Painful Rheumatic Swellings Disappear

Discoverer Tells Druggists Not to Take a Cent of Anyone's Money Unless Allenrhu Completely Banishes All Rheumatic Pains and Twinges.

Mr. James E. Allen suffered for years with rheumatism. Many times this terrible disease left him helpless and unable to work.

He finally decided, after years of ceaseless study, that no one can be free from rheumatism until the accumulated impurities, commonly called uric acid deposits, were dissolved in the joints and muscles and expelled from the body.

With this idea in mind he consulted physicians, made experiments and finally compounded a prescription that quickly and completely banished every sign and symptom of rheumatism from his system.

He freely gave his discovery, which he called ALLENRHU, to others who took it with what might be called marvelous success. After years of urging he decided to let sufferers everywhere know about his discovery through the newspapers. He has therefore instructed druggists everywhere to dispense ALLENRHU with the understanding that if the first pint bottle does not show the way to complete recovery he will gladly return your money without comment. People's Drug Co. can supply you.

TODAY'S RECIPES

Canned Succotash—This new England favorite comes canned, but may be made more like the fresh dish by combination, using one can of yellow bantam corn and one can of small green lima beans. Cook the beans for 10 minutes, after draining from the can, and add fresh water. Heat a cup of rich milk in a saucepan, adding two tablespoons of sugar, salt and pepper to taste, and a generous lump of butter, turn in the can of corn, stir until warmed through, drain and add the beans. Have ready two slices of bacon diced and fried, add them with two tablespoons of fat.

Veal Birds—For veal "birds" with a savory stuffing utilize odds and ends of dry bread, season with chopped onion, pepper, salt and sage, and stretch a small amount of meat in a most acceptable manner.

Velvet Cream—One quart milk, one-half box gelatine, three-fourths cup sugar, three eggs. Put the milk in a double boiler, add sugar and gelatine. When hot add beaten yolks of eggs and cook until gelatine has dissolved and it looks like a thin custard (about 10 minutes), then take from the fire and fold in the beaten whites of the eggs. Flavor with a teaspoon of vanilla. If needed for lunch it is better made the day before. Serve with cream.

Fig Pudding—One-half cup of figs, one-half cup walnut meats, one-half cup sugar, two cups of boiling water, one-half cup graham flour. Boil 10 minutes and put in molds.

Foamy Sauce—One and one-fourth cups sugar, one-fourth cup butter, yolk of one egg. Beat all together, then fold in the well-beaten white of the egg and flavor to taste. Stir in one cup of boiling water the last thing before serving.

SUGGESTIONS

Secure Crocheting—We all know how aggravating it is to lay aside crocheting for a little while and find it raveled out when we take it up again. Just take the precaution of snapping a tiny safety pin in the last stitch when you leave it and this particular trouble will be a thing of the past.

When Washing Cuffs and Collars—In washing neckbands and cuffs of men's shirts and mens soft collars, use a small, brisk scrub brush. This saves much time and energy.

When Making Boiled Icing—Try this: In making chocolate boiled icing, if it gets too hard don't boil it the second time; just add a little cream gradually and it will stir to proper smoothness. If it seems too soft, just add powdered or confectioners' sugar slowly to make it the right consistency.

BLACKHEADS

Blackheads are an unpleasant topic, but a still more unpleasant trouble to have. Let's see how they can be gotten rid of most easily and quickly.

First, you must understand what they are: little collections of a soft, waxy, oily substance that collect in the pores; that is, the outlets to the surface of the skin, enlarge each pore and sebaire, where they come in contact with the dirt in the air, a black tip or head. They extend often an inch or so into the skin, a thing to remember if a few treatments seem to have little effect.

First the pores must be opened still more, and the muscles relaxed. This is done either by steaming the face five minutes or holding cloths wrung from hot water an equal time over the skin. Then, either soap or a regular blackhead cleansing powder should be rubbed into the skin. I prefer this one: Corn starch, two ounces; powdered borax, one ounce; almond meal, one ounce. Even plain corn starch will do, though the combination is so much better that it is worth while making up.

Wet the fingers, dip into the powder, rub well over the skin. Rub in more, and still more. Then wash out with hot water; then rinse with lukewarm and finally with water as cold as you can get it. This is drying it; it is meant to be so, for the powder gets into the pores, works itself into that waxy mixture, and when washed out takes the blackhead too. Meantime, the under part, if the blackhead goes deep, will be pushed up to the surface to be removed a few days later. If your diet isn't correct, you'll go on making new blackheads, so diet and exercise must be thought of, too, and the eliminative functions of the body must be in proper working order as well.

Constant Reader—On the days when you are troubled with excessive perspiration on your face, wipe off the skin occasionally with a small piece of absorbent cotton, that is dampened with witch hazen or with a good toilette water. After drying the skin use a little rice powder.

A. E. M.—Very young girls like yourself often appear to be overdeveloped when it only means that they have not as yet attained their complete growth. At 18 years of age, height five feet four inches, weight 120 pounds, your proportions must be unusually good.

Bessie L.—I will be glad to mail you complete information regarding the henna if you send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for forwarding.

Misery—For a person who is not elderly to have enlarged veins in the hand shows there must be faulty circulation. You can overcome this difficulty by massaging the hands and lower arms. Begin at the fingers, using a rotary motion, and continue to the elbows, and knead the muscles over palm and back of hands.

Friday—A Mouth Exercise.

Pimply? Well, Don't Be

People Notice It. Drive Them Off with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets.

A pimply face will not embarrass you much longer if you get a package of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights.

Cleanse the blood, bowels and liver with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel; there's no sickness or pain after taking them.

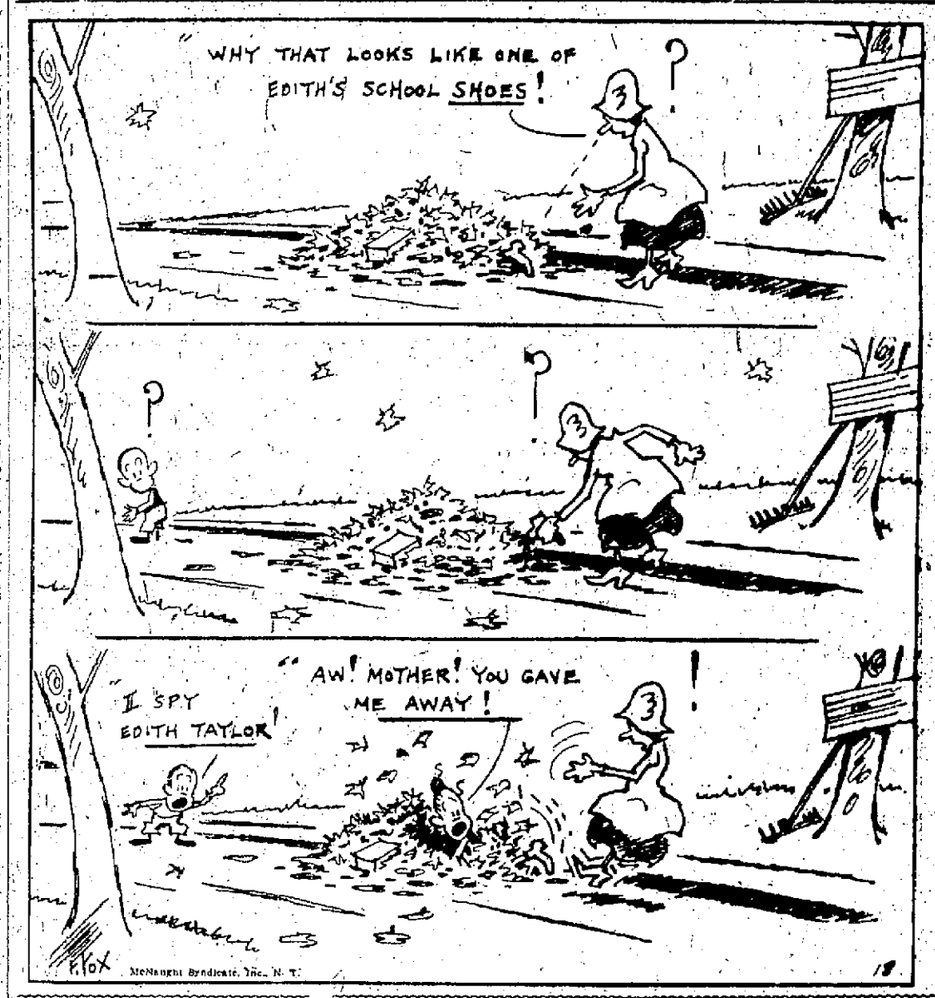

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.

No one who takes Olive Tablets is ever cursed with "dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition or pimply face.

Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil, you will know them by their olive color.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result. Take one or two nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 15c and 30c.—Advertisement.

THIS LITTLE BABY GIRL

Was Benefited by the Good Her Mother Got from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Pittsburgh, Pa.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before my little girl was born, and the effect it had was wonderful. This will be the first child I have nursed as I had to bring my two boys up on the bottle. I was very nervous and worried, tired all the time, and after I read about the Vegetable Compound I tried it and kept on with it. I still continue its use and recommend it to my friends. You may publish these facts as a testimonial for your medicine."—Mrs. WM. KLINGE, 169 Plymouth S., Pittsburgh, Pa.

It is remarkable how many cases have been reported similar to this one. Many mothers are left in a weakened and run-down condition after the birth of the child, and for such mothers the care of the baby is well-nigh impossible. Not only is it hard for the mother, but the child itself will indirectly suffer.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is an excellent tonic for the mother at this time. It is prepared from medicinal roots and herbs, and does not contain any harmful drugs.

REMODEL PLACE FOR MONUMENT BUSINESS

George W. Bresee, Janesville monument dealer for many years but who sold out a few years ago, plans to re-enter the same business here. It was learned Wednesday. Mr. Bresee's building at 19 North Franklin street, formerly used as a garage, will be occupied along with a vacant lot adjoining it on the south. A cement floor is being laid.

LATEST MARKET REPORT

GRAIN

Chicago Review.

Chicago.—Assertions that leading British firms had concluded arrangements with Russian cooperative associations to finance export of Russian grain had some bearish effect on wheat Thursday during the early dealings. A decline in Liverpool quotations acted also to weaken the market. The opening, which varied from unchanged to ¾c lower, with Dec. $1.06¾@1.06⅝, and May $1.10⅞@1.11⅜, was followed by a moderate setback. Corn and oats were easier, owing to a forecast of better weather. After opening unchanged to ½c lower, Dec. 77⅛@77¼c, corn underwent a general sag.

Subsequently, transient strength in corn gave something of an upturn to wheat, but the effect on wheat failed at last, the close was heavy, ½@1¼c net lower, with Dec. $1.05½@1.05⅝, and May $1.10¼@1.10⅜.

Oats started unchanged to ¼@½c off, Dec. 42⅜c. Later the market declined a little more.

Provisions reflected weakness in hogs.

Ends Stubborn Coughs in a Hurry

For real effectiveness, this old home-made remedy has no equal. Easily and cheaply prepared.

You'll never know how quickly a bad cough can be conquered, until you try this famous old home-made remedy. Anyone who has coughed all day and all night, will say that the immediate relief given is almost like magic. It is very easily prepared, and there is nothing better for coughs.

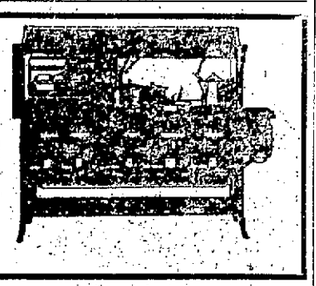

Into a pint bottle, put 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. Or, you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, the full pint saves about two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, and gives you a more positive, effective remedy. It keeps perfectly, and tastes pleasant—children like it.

You can feel this take hold instantly, soothing and healing the membranes in all the air passages. It promptly loosens a dry, tight cough, and soon you will notice the phlegm thin out and disappear. A day's use will usually break up an ordinary throat or chest cold, and it is also splendid for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness, and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, the most reliable remedy for throat and chest ailments.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Keep Hair Curly

Keep it fluffy, glossy and abundant

By Edna Wallace Hopper

I offer you my Wave and Sheen, to keep hair ever-curly, ever-glossy, as is mine. I do this because of countless requests. And because I learn that many women use very crude ways to do this.

My Wave and Sheen was perfected for me by the ablest of hair experts. It contains no grease, no oil, yet it gives my hair that wondrous luster which millions so admire.

I apply it with a tooth brush or a comb. Then I fluff my hair by upward combing as it dries. For an enduring curl, to last a week or more, I use curlers after the application.

If you want sleekness and luster without the curl, omit the curling efforts. That is what men do. Then you have smooth, glossy hair which always stays in place.

This is a perfect curling fluid, combined with a perfect sheen. I offer it to you because I want you to have the best. I intended to supply to women only, my aids to youth. But I have also supplied my wave and sheen to all druggists and toilet counters. The cost is 75c. Edna Wallace Hopper. Business address, Waukesha, Wis.

You Are Wrong

When you take laxatives or give them to a child. There's a better way

Laxatives merely irritate the bowels, and reaction leaves them worse. The result is more and larger doses, then the laxative habit with millions.

Every doctor knows that. All warn people against this harmful habit. But few would adopt right living. So constipation has grown until it causes three-fourths of all human ailments.

Look at the grouchy people, the unfit, those with bad complexions. The great cause is sluggish bowels.

Medical science has now found the ideal way to fight that trouble. None can conceive of a method more perfect.

The product is Milk of Moss—a creamy delicious emulsion—a delight to take.

The basis is poca rock oil—an oil which can't digest, cannot be absorbed. So it lubricates the bowels, softens the contents, leads to easy, natural action.

With this is emulsified granulated nolyec moss. That is a sea moss which absorbs liquids. In the intestines each of those myriad granules swells into a little sponge. And they supply the needed bulk and roughage.

Milk of Moss does just what Nature should do. Healthy bowels lubricate themselves. Fibrous foods, if eaten in plenty, give the needed bulk and roughage. Then no stoppage will occur.

But sluggish bowels show those factors are deficient. Then Milk of Moss supplies them in a most efficient way. The result is natural action without harm or irritation.

No one who once tries Milk of Moss will ever return to drugs. It means correction in the most way. We want you to know it, and now. So we will buy a bottle for you if you send this slip.

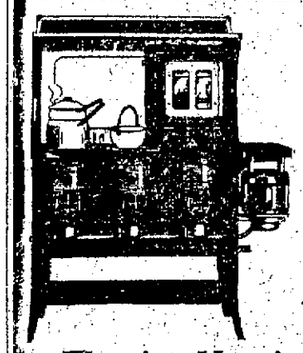

60c Bottle Free K-10

Send this coupon with your name and address to NOLYEC LABORATORIES, INC. 879 East Illinois St., Chicago, Ill. and we will mail you an order on your druggist for a 60c bottle of Milk of Moss, which he will charge to us.

Busy Man's Sport Page

By FRANK SINCLAIR

BROOKLYN, N. Y.—Wisconsin's sportsmen are beginning to realize it is up to them to push their plans when it comes to game and fish. First they opened up on the Winneshiek bottom campaign. Now they are working on a scheme for Lake Koshkonong. And along comes a desire to bring the Horicon marsh back to its standing of long ago. It is a good sign to see the awakening for the preservation of the natural gaming grounds of the state. grounds that may yet once more be ranked with the nation's best.

DOWN HERE in the east, they talk of those "good, old days." New York state's Adirondack region is going. New England's once abundant game and fish region is almost misty memory. The states along the Atlantic coast no longer boast of plentiful game. Crowded conditions of population had something to do with it, but lack of foresight, lost in selfishness, was a greater factor. Hunters of the past thought only of their own immediate desires for none had warned them that game doesn't last forever when killed faster than the birthrate.

KOSHKONONG, Horicon and the Winneshiek are essential to the well-being of Wisconsin's playground facilities. The moves to restore them are more important to the well-being of the state than any of the manifold political schemes that cause officials at Madison to while away their time. Their value is not in dollars and cents, but in health recreation and fun, those things that make up for the superficialities of modern life. They cannot be renovated over night nor in a few weeks. It is a matter of years, to be done for the boys and girls of tomorrow as well as the men and women of today. As the plans are going forward, lend your assistance, remembering: "Fish and game cannot vote."

Peoria had the greatest attendance of any Three-I league team for the season with 60,322. Terre Haute was second with 59,736 while the pennant winning Decatur team drew 59,707. Others report attendance as follows: Evansville, 57,899; Danville, 50,176; Bloomington, 43,638; Rockford, 42,727; and Moline, 2,085.

Joe Lynch, world's bantamweight champ, and his challenger, Joe Burman, both are down to weight for their 15-round championship fight in New York, Friday night.

Luis Angel Firpo, Argentine boxer, is on his way to Lima, Peru.

Kid Gleason says Barney Friberg, Cubs third sacker, was the hero of the city series.

Owen (Donie) Bush is out as manager of the Washington Americans and his successor has not been named.

Wisconsin's eleven will wear black jerseys instead of cardinal Saturday in order to avoid confusion with the red-sweatered Indianans.

ONLY 35 OF 800 "REMBRANDTS" ARE GENUINE, HE SAYS

John C. Van Dyke

Art critics and connoisseurs all over the world are startled by the assertion of Prof. John C. Van Dyke that of all the 800 or more pictures attributed to Rembrandt only thirty-five are genuine ones. The others are the works of copyists, pupils and other artists under the influence of the great master, says Van Dyke, professor of the history of art and archeology at Rutgers college, New Brunswick, N. J.

MILTON TO PLAY NORTHWESTERN AT FAIR GROUNDS

Janesville will have an opportunity to witness college football on a local gridiron for the first time this season when Milton college eleven will clash with Northwestern of Watertown at the fair grounds here Friday at 2:30 p. m. Milton will play other games here as the season progresses, probably all of them on Fridays.

Large numbers of rooters from both the Milton and Watertown schools are expected for Friday's game, and a good attendance of Janesville people is also anticipated. Milton played several grid contests here last season and each one drew a good sized turnout.

MILTON ELEVEN IN GOOD CONDITION FOR GAME

(By Gazette Correspondent)

Milton—Coach Crandall was forced to practice in the Milton college gymnasium with the college eleven Wednesday night. The team drilled on signals and the line practiced charging with the second team line. Following this a skull practice was held.

The team is in good condition for the Northwestern game to be played at the Janesville fair grounds Friday afternoon. So far no ineligibility has been reported in the ranks of the first team. Meyer, a Janesville boy, has been troubled with a foot infection, but is better and will play an end position Friday. Bentz, regular center, has been troubled with a bad hand, but will be in good shape Friday.

The Brown and Blue backfield has sustained no injuries and is showing great speed. They should show up well Friday. The team is all pepped up and is out to show the Northwestern eleven a hard run. No dope can be given out as to the outcome of the game, but it is expected the two teams will be evenly matched.

U. W. Now Getting Seat Orders for Michigan Game

Madison—With the mail orders closed for the Minnesota homecoming football game at Madison on Oct. 27, when the old team rivals will play before 36,000 football fans, applications are now being received for the Michigan game three weeks later.

All mail applications for tickets for the Minnesota game will be filled and sent out under registered mail Oct. 19, while it is expected several hundred remaining tickets will be placed on open sale at the gymnasium, Madison, Oct. 22.

The mail orders for the Michigan game, which gives promise of being one of the biggest and most important games in the west this fall, closes Monday, Oct. 20, and the hundreds of football fans who neglected to send their applications for the Minnesota game are now profiting by their experience and making their reservations for the Michigan game.

The Michigan game is to be played on Nov. 17, "Dads' Day," when the old grads will be back by the thousands to visit their Alma Mater and tell their sons and daughters about Wisconsin "in the good old days."

Because of the regulations this year which confine the student body to an "all university" section of the massive concrete stadium at Camp Randall, the students will not be able to procure tickets for anyone but themselves.

As was the case with the Minnesota game, the stadium will be divided between the students, alumni, visiting team and general public, each division starting at the 50-yard line.

With so much new material, so many sophomores playing on the varsity team for the first time, the Wisconsin team will develop during the entire season and should be at its best for the Michigan game.

ZEV ODDS SHORTEN AS RACE APPROACHES

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]

New York—On the surface as much excited as before the Dempsey-Firpo bout or the last game of the recent world series, New Yorkers today were holding their sporting breath, awaiting the time when Zev, the American horse, and Papyrus, the English derby winner, plunge off in the first big international horse race in history.

Zev made the mile and a quarter in 2:09 flat and the mile in 1:39 2-5, good time, fought for his head all the way and was breathing easily when pulled up.

Despite this, the odds shortened, some wagers being laid against him and others at reduced odds.

BADGERS LEAVE TO TACKLE INDIANA U.

Madison—After a week of practice interferred with by rains, the University of Wisconsin eleven leaves late this afternoon for Indianapolis, where they meet the University of Indiana football team Saturday.

The Badgers are almost an unknown quantity as they face Indiana, Coach Ryan will send his strongest lineup against the Hoosiers in his first Big Ten game.

Rain prevented a heavy scrimmage yesterday.

EVANSVILLE STARTS BASKETBALL WORK

Evansville — The basketball boys were called out for practice Tuesday evening under Coach Larkin. Twenty-five candidates reported and have had one practice since.

The Business Men's Racing association of New Orleans will include in the program for its coming winter meeting a memorial handicap for A. E. Dade, the veteran starter, who died in the Crescent City last season.

All records for individual bowling honors in Janesville this season were smashed Wednesday night, when Kressin, of Bennison & Lane's, walloped the pins for high single game of 267 and high three games of 645. His other scores were 131 and 187.

Kressin's performance was the big feature of the weekly session of the Industrial-Commercial league and his records give promise of standing for several weeks and perhaps for all season.

The R. F. E.'s showed renewed life Wednesday night and hit 2,556 for high total pins and 883 for high single game, triumphing over the Woolen Mills three straight and shoving them into second place from first, which they have held with the Chevrolet all season. By winning three from Shurtleff's, while the Chevrolet lost two to Bostwick's, the Gazette five hit into a tie for first place with the Chevies. There were several shakeups in the standings.

Besides Kressin, others who bowled 200 or better Wednesday were: Ellis, 203; Haven, 218; Schoenig, 224; Warner, 215; Richards, 214; Nelson, 202.

NORMAL GAME IS POSTPONED

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Whitewater—With the Oshkosh field under six inches of water, the Oshkosh-Whitewater normal game, which was to have been played Friday, has been postponed.

There is some possibility that the game may be played on the Whitewater field, Monday or Tuesday, if weather conditions are favorable.

Should the rain continue, it will be played later in the season.

5 Cities with 6 Teams Enter Volley League

Janesville will be represented by a volleyball team in the new Inter-State Athletic association of five cities and six teams which was formed at Rockford, Oct. 12. Representatives present at that time were G. N. Somers, Beloit, Mr. Evans, Belvidere, Leo Lyons, Boy's club, and S. D. Campbell, Court street gymnasium, Rockford. A. E. Bergman, who was to have been the local representative, was unable to attend.

The following rules were adopted: First games are to be played by Nov. 10; A. A. F. rules will govern all play; home teams are to provide a supper; games are to be free to the public; the minimum age limit of players is 25 years; employed officers of participating organizations will be barred from playing.

The following schedule has been arranged:

AVERAGE DRIVE 40 YARDS

By SOL METZGER

Copyright, 1923.

What is the length of the average drive in football?

The average drive on attack rarely goes more than 40 yards. One reason is that a backfield wearies of the task after a sustained effort of this length and frequently fumbles the ball. Another, and even more telling reason, is that a drive carrying about 40 yards usually finds itself inside the opponent's 20-yard line its real troubles begin. Up to this point it has been playing against ten opponents, for the safety man down the field rarely figures in a play. When the 20-yard line is reached this safety man is able to figure in the play. He no longer has to stay far down the field for two reasons. First, if a punt passes him now it will roll for a touchback. Second, he is still able to defend against long forward passes.

The nearer the attack draws to the goal line, the smaller is the territory to be covered against forward passes. Long passes are difficult to execute at this point for the reason that they will cross the end zone line, and automatically become touchbacks.

Every college in the land has happy and joyful recollections of the great defensive work of its teams on their goal-line. While the supporters of these colleges should take pride in the fighting spirit shown by their representatives in making these famous stands, the reason they are possible is due in great measure to the fact that all of their eleven players are in a position to and do get into every play. This condition does not hold elsewhere on the field.

Therefore, few attacks carry over forty yards. The chief reason is that more men are brought into play on defense at this point, one of whom has not been worn out by previous efforts to stop the attack.

SOL METZGER, our football expert and one of the foremost football coaches in the country, will answer any questions about playing football sent him, care of our sport department, if a return stamped envelope is enclosed.

PLAN FOR MOTOR RACES ON SUNDAY

Kansas City, Mo.—Despite rain, which has fallen almost without intermission for a week, preparations are going ahead for the 250 mile national motor car speed championship, which will be run here next Sunday if weather conditions are favorable. The race was to have been run today, but was postponed on account of the slippery condition of the wooden speedway bowl.

RUTH TO BARNSTORM AS GOLF ENTHUSIAST

Los Angeles—Babe Ruth of the New York Yankees will drive some long ones here, but it will be on the golf links, it was announced today. He will visit Los Angeles on a golf tour of the country, starting Dec. 1.

In his next important bout, Dave Shade of California, will have Mike Dempsey, the Rochester battler, as his opponent. The two are carded to meet soon under the auspices of the Arena A. C. of Boston.

SWIMMING CHAMP IS PRESENTED CUP

The Gazette cup for first place in the mile swim in the state meet held here Labor day has been forwarded to John Polk, winner of the event. The original cup proved unsatisfactory and a new one has been engraved.

If the Business Man Worked in the Kitchen—

Did you ever watch a business man at work in his office? Would he do without his file case desk, telephone and dictaphone? No, of course not.

The McDougall Kitchen Cabinet cuts down your kitchen work and improves your efficiency much more than his office equipment helps the business man. You can't afford to do without a McDougall. You owe it to your family to conserve your strength.

He Would Have a McDougall

Here is the test, just let father get the meals for one day. Watch him trot back and forth from pantry to ice-box to cupboard to sink, dozens of times in the preparation of the most simple meal. He will suggest that you centralize your kitchen equipment and save all this unnecessary running around. He would say, "Go down to Wolf's and get a McDougall."

Your McDougall can be bought on convenient terms.

one being a touching of the fingers at the tips at the chest and swinging the arms far back. It looked like one of the daily dozen exercises. His voice was good—showed nothing of weariness, no trace of the strain under which he had been laboring. He was given generous applause when he spoke of the record of Britain in paying her debts, and when he said the amount owed the United States was "quite a tidy sum" there was laughter.

The entente cordiale was established between speaker and audience at once. The crowd rose and cheered and applauded. Mr. George has such a habit of going to the political closet and taking down a new coat so frequently that one was not at all sure what attitude he would take in the address on Europe until it was all over.

The Crowded Street.

Outside in the street and all along the ways into the ampitheater were hundreds of policemen. A patrol wagon, manned, waited at the north end of the pavilion. A crowd packed the walks and, "That's him!" was whispered raucously a half dozen times as some short, gray haired man alighted from a taxi. This crowd was orderly. One little ruction came when women passing bills demanding the freedom of Ireland were told to get away. One thing is sure, Lloyd George could not get the Irish vote if he ran for any office in America.

Given Close Attention.

Lloyd George was given marked attention all through. There was again an evidence of the American audience. He had his case to state and no matter how little one agreed with him, the pleader would be given a respectable hearing. He is the most outstanding figure in Europe today. He has added to his prestige by this, his first American trip. He is out of office but as an outsider perhaps wields a greater international influence that any man in the same position ever has in the world. What he said sounded like the gospel, based on facts, coldly and impregnably logical, and yet there was memory of the past which floated like a cloud over the whole address. It was of the hour when the 14 points were at stake, when they were first accepted and then chloroformed by Lloyd George, and ideals were swept away by the brutal exigencies of a materialistic moment.

The audience went away in a drizzling rain. Under foot was the slimy muck, the regulation mayonnaise dressing of Chicago streets on a rainy day. Lloyd George lingered on the platform. But there was none of the American hand shaking when a great man of our nation has finished an address and the curious and insistent arrive to give the American salute and be able to tell the children about it. Surrounded by the committee he waited until the crowd dispersed and went back to his hotel and to bed. He has scored another personal triumph here in America.

RECOVERS FROM SLIGHT ILLNESS OF WEDNESDAY

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]

Chicago—Former Premier Lloyd George of Great Britain and his party, after two days in Chicago, resumed his American tour today when his train departed at 10:05 a. m. for Springfield, Ill. The distinguished visitor was in much better physical condition than early yesterday and showed little evidence of his cold. He was to leave Springfield at 10 p. m. tonight for St. Louis, where he will spend Friday, departing Friday night for Louisville, Ky., where he will remain for the week-end.

After completing his address last night before an audience of 10,000 persons in the international amphitheatre at the stockyards, the British statesman went immediately to his hotel, where he had remained most of yesterday and retired. His rest yesterday after his arranged schedule had been abandoned, enabled him to stand the strain of making the speech and members of his party said he had about recovered from the slight cold and fatigue which kept him in his hotel during the day.

Amplifiers Throw Voice

Little evidence of illness was apparent in the little Welshman when he delivered his address with his characteristic force and energy. Amplifiers made his voice distinct to his entire audience and partly to the thousands waiting outside in the rain, and wireless broadcast his message throughout the country.

He pronounced Secretary Hughes' proposal that a commission of business experts examine Germany's capacity to pay a "thoroughly practical, business-like proposal."

"The United States of America is absolutely impartial," he declared. "She has no interest in reparations. She has certainly no more interest in Germany than in anybody else. She is very well disposed toward France and, therefore, with a friendly country absolutely impartial and with a great fund of business knowledge at its disposal, represented in a body of that kind, it seems to me we would find a way to ascertain how much Germany can pay, and once we have done that, then we could march together to compel her to pay."

Despair No Solution

"It is a fatal mistake to drive the people of Germany into despair," he declared. Revolution, he said, was not the way to get reparations. The story of Germany, if it is pressed without reason, will be similar to that of the old saying that men, to escape a fire will plunge into boiling water, the British statesman said. He expressed regret that the policy of Clemenceau, Millerand and Briand, with regard to the Ruhr had not been adhered to by France.

"Justice is shrewd, justice will be served, but justice is also temperate and justice is always patient," he said. "Vengeance is justice without reason. That we want to avoid.

"I regret that after such a great and glorious victory there should be questions of this kind to retard the fruition of peace. I remember the day of peace, the day of the armistice. It was a red dawn, but it was the dawn of peace and our hopes were high."

Europe he compared to a ragged and starving man looking through the windows at the well dressed and well fed people inside. The man needs clothes and food, more than those inside, he said, but he cannot buy them because he cannot pay.

Without Parallel

"The whole machinery of trade and commerce is torn and shattered. Currency, exchange, the arrangements which business men have made through the centuries for interchanging commodities, all are gone," he continued.

The German reparations problem he declared to be one without parallel in history.

It is no use saying the country has great assets, forests and lands, railroads and mines and factories," he said.

"You cannot transfer those factories and mines from one land to another. But they say you can sell them. But the receipts are paid in marks, the dividends are distributed in marks, and until you give value to these marks you cannot collect any debt."

Three men and two women, charged with creating a disturbance by passing out hand bills relating to the freedom of Ireland, were arrested previous to the meeting.

LAKES CONFERENCE TO HALT CHICAGO

Organize Fight Against Lowering Lake Levels—St. Lawrence Waterway.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]

Milwaukee — Initiating a four-fold program of great lakes transportation and harbor improvement, representatives from eight states abutting the Great Lakes, opened a two day conference here today in an effort to effect a permanent organization and co-relate their mutual interests. The aims objectives of the conference are:

The preservation of lake levels and protection of harbors and channels.

Promotion of harbor development and port efficiency.

Co-ordination of water and rail lines so as to effect the expeditious transport of freight from inland points to lake ports and vice versa, enabling both to render economic as well as efficient service to commerce of the nation.

Protect Chicago Drainage

Incidentally, the conference is expected to pass resolutions condemning, even protesting the action of the Chicago Drainage district in diverting waters of Lake Michigan. It is claimed that such alleged diversion not only lowers the levels of the great lakes so as to lessen the volume of transportation, but that private interests are taking untold profits in power fro mthe "purloined" waters of the lake.

Somewhere in the back ground of the conference there stalks that golden dream of the western states—the great lakes-St. Lawrence waterway project. It has permeated the meeting and forms the underlying basis for the call of meeting William George Bruce, president of the board of harbor commissioners, Milwaukee, will address the conference on the water ways project.

Herman L. Ekern, attorney general of Wisconsin gave an address taking up the subject "legal phases of the diversion of water at Chicago."

ECKMAN TRIAL UNDER FULL SPEED IN ELKHORN COURT

was sworn and a recess taken Wednesday afternoon.

Outlining the attack of the state, through which it will seek to prove to the jury that Adolph Eckman is guilty of first degree murder and seek to have him imprisoned for life, Mr. Godfrey stated the physical facts and the blood spots bear out the story of the shooting as given by Mrs. Fritz. Development of the enmity of Eckman against Carl Fritz after for years being bosom companions and of his threats to shoot Fritz if he set foot on his place were referred to by the district attorney.

Enmity Develops

For years they were intimate friends, both of the same nationality. They drank together, had the same friends and were boon companions, Mr. Godfrey said. Then that intimacy developed into enmity on the part of Adolph Eckman, almost as strong as had been his friendship for Carl Fritz.

On two occasions Fritz took the part of men with whom Eckman had trouble and this aroused the latter's wrath, but they remained friends, the district attorney brought out. Fritz became tubercular and went to Mexico for his health, leaving behind a gun which he prized highly, not because of its material value but because of sentiment which he attached to it, it having been given him by a friend.

Ask for Gun

"He came back and married and a year ago last September Mr. and Mrs. Fritz called at the house to get the gun but it could not be found. Eckman said 'Do you think we stole the gun'? Fritz replied "No," and left. There was no show of feeling on Fritz' part. Eckman then turned to his farm hand with a considerable show of feeling and said 'What would you have done in my place.'? The farm hand passed it off as nothing.

"On Oct. 30, Mr. and Mrs. Eckman entertained. The conversation turned to Mr. and Mrs. Fritz and both Mr. and Mrs. Eckman showed intense feeling and Eckman said, 'If Carl Fritz ever comes back on this place I will shoot him.'"

"After he married the daughter of Victor Bjorklund, Carl Fritz shook off his old companions, ceased to carouse as he formerly had done, ceased to drink as he had done before, became interested in church affairs and other things in which his wife was interested. He became a new man. He had married into a wealthy family. He drove a better car than Eckman, had a truck for his farm and the feeling of hatred and jealousy grew in volume."

Tells Story of Shooting

The district attorney recited the events leading up to the shooting on Sunday July 15, practically the same as were given at the preliminary examination. He then outlined the story of the shooting as told by Mrs. Fritz and the attitude of Eckman and his wife after the shooting, in refusing to aid.

Gives Different Picture.

Two reasons why the defense expects Adolph Eckman to be acquitted were outlined in the opening statement by Mr. Mouat. One is that the killing was excusable under the rule that a homicide through accident or misfortune under any sudden provocation prohibits punishment for murder and second that, even was the homicide intended, it becomes justifiable and lawful if in defense of one's self, wife, property or home.

A different picture of the relations between Eckman and Fritz as the defense will show by testimony, was given to the jury by Mr. Mouat.

"Eckman and Fritz had been very friendly," said Mr. Mouat. "But uniformly, Eckman was the giver and Fritz the taker. Fritz was married and his wife was sick and went to Eckman's for six weeks, where she was cared for. Not one cent was demanded, nothing was offered. When Fritz had a fire in his house he came there with his wife and child and stayed for some time. Nothing was asked, nothing offered. When Fritz sold his farm in the fall of 1921, he came to Eckman's and lived two weeks. That was after his second wife had divorced him. In March, 1922, Fritz returned from Mexico and stayed at the Eckman home for four or six weeks. Their relationship all right then, no trouble between them.

Fritz Is Blamed.

All the trouble over the gun was forced by Fritz, the defense maintains.

"The day before his marriage, Fritz came there (the Eckman farm) and cleaned the gun and then it disappeared. Then the changed attitude comes. This man, who was willing to be the taker instead of the giver, acted like a small child when he could not find it and conceived the idea—I don't know whether he believed it himself or not—that Mr. Eckman had secreted the gun from him.

"In September, 1922, when he came to the Eckman place, he was so insistent that the gun was there, the Eckman's took him from room to room. Eckman then told him that if he felt that way not to come there.

"In October, Fritz came there demanding the gun and assaulted Mr. Eckman, taking him by the neck and attempting to choke him and then bragged about what he had done to Mr. Eckman.

Threat Is Alleged.

"Fritz' last visit was on July 15, but in the meantime the matter hadn't been forgotten. Getting this gun or seeking vengeance because he couldn't get it became an obsession with Fritz. In June, three weeks before this happened, he told a neighbor he was going to get that gun or he was going to kill the blankety-blank, (referring to Eckman). He said to a mutual friend of his and Eckman's, three days before the tragedy, 'I am going to get that gun or I'm going to get Eckman.'

"Into that home on the peaceful Sunday in July came Carl Fritz, nursing his wrath and his grudge. Picture Fritz, a man 39 years old, weighing between 180 and 190 pounds, six feet tall, a big strapping fellow; Eckman, 150 pounds and 54 years old.

Attack Alleged

"Fritz approached Oscar Johnson, who was lying sleeping under a tree, and asked if Eckman was in the house and Johnson replied that he was and asked, 'Shall I get him?' Then, the gorge commenced to rise and Fritz said, 'No, I'll go in and see him.' Mrs. Eckman, sitting on the steps, saw Fritz in the yard and went in the house and locked both doors. She then went to let Johnson in the house and Fritz got his knee in the door, started to push against the door and got in. Then Carl Fritz grabbed Mrs. Eckman and shouted, 'If I don't get my gun today I'll kill you all.' Mrs. Eckman screamed for help. Eckman came out of a sound sleep, hearing his wife scream. Johnson had gone upstairs but he and Aenor Carlson came rushing down. The gun used in the shooting was in the bedroom and Eckman either took it with him or grabbed it later. Fritz then grabbed the gun held by Eckman. He got the gun away and then succeeded in striking Eckman with it, the two pieces of the gun falling on the floor. Someone got a churn dasher and Fritz grabbed hold of this, and Eckman and Johnson had hold, and all pushed him out the door. The stick loosened in some way and Fritz fell backward off the steps. Like a raging bull he started back to clean up the whole family. Then the shot came. Eckman never intended to fire that gun. He didn't know it was loaded and didn't even aim it.

"Whether it was nervousness or the trigger went off, no one knows," Mr. Mouat said.

Engineer Is Witness

George W. Posey, engineer employed by the county highway department, was the first witness called by the state, and he swore to dimensions and location of various objects on state's exhibits 1 and 2, which are maps of the Eckman home and the east part of the house and the backyard.

Although the defense admitted the accuracy of the charts, the district attorney spent much time in going into the dimensions of the rooms, size of the objects in the rooms and the relation of one to the other.

His testimony consumed more than one hour and it was after 5 o'clock when Judge Belden adjourned court and Posey had not concluded testifying.

100 WAYS To Make Money

By BILLIE WINNER

If I Could Fire Pottery—

IN another city I knew a woman who had a kiln. She fired pottery and made money doing it. There are thousands of school children and grown-ups, too, who make things from clay—ash trays, vases, bowls, paper weights, etc., all of which have to be fired.

Many of these people don't know where to have the work done. If I could fire pottery I would lose no time in telling the people of Janesville about it. I would go a step farther; I would tell them of the beautiful things they could make with a little clay, and maybe I could teach them how to model it pleasingly.

At any rate, I would let a Janesville Gazette Want Ad do the telling.
